PARLEY LOCKED OVER REGIONAL DEFENSE PLANS

Britain Rejects U.S. Compromise

Admits All Not Well

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 13—"It would be absurd to pretend all is well at present in relations between the British and Russian governments," Comdr. Stephen King-Hall, Independent Nationalist member of parliament, said in a speech at Burscough tonight. "Differences can be settled only by direct discussion by Mr. Churchill and Marshal Stalin."

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 13—A series of complications today precipitated the most serious crisis so far in the conference to form an international organization to maintain peace.

The principal developments were:

1. Fearing the big nation veto power will render the peace league impotent to prevent war, Great Britain and other nations joined a stampede for provisions for regional and other independent collective defense.

Eden Rejects Compromise

2. British Foreign Secretary Eden rejected the American delegation's proposed compromise of the controversy over independent Pan-American enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine and forced its revision.

3. Continuation of the deadlock on trusteeships of conquered territories, including the Japanese islands the United States wants for naval bases, caused conference leaders to suggest that solution of this problem may be postponed to the peace conference after the defeat of Japan.

4. Eden and British Deputy Prime Minister Attlee left for London by way of Washington where they will confer with President Truman on the crisis in the San Francisco conference and relations with Russia, including the Polish dispute.

Might Fizzle Out

5. French Foreign Minister Bidault and Netherlands Foreign Minister Van Kleffans are also going home, intending to handle their interests at San Francisco by remote control.

6. In the absence of Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov, first of the top drawer envoys to leave last week, conference proceedings are stalled by delay in getting decisions from Moscow. In event of indefinite delay the conference might fizzle out in a makeshift temporary world peace organization or none at all.

It transpired that at two highly contentious sessions yesterday of the Big Five—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France, and

ALLIES WILL OPERATE TRIESTE PORT; REPORT AGREEMENT WITH TITO

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, May 13 (AP)—Western allied soldiers will remain in disputed Trieste to operate the Adriatic port, and Yugoslav soldiers will remain in occupation of major portions of the city, it was learned today.

That apparently was the main point of the agreement between Marshal Tito and an emissary from the headquarters of Field Marshal Alexander, allied Mediterranean commander.

The discussions arose when the Yugoslav government demanded withdrawal of the British-American forces occupying the port and part of the city. The opposition to the Yugoslav occupation is mainly formal. The important question with a strong bearing on present Yugoslav activity is to what extent claims for Italian territories will be granted at the future peace tables. Tito agreed to the full use of Trieste for allied supplies.

CHURCHILL SAYS U.S. POWER WON ON WEST FRONT

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 13—Prime Minister Churchill tonight made plain to the British people that it was the force of American arms and men that won the war on the western front where the United States provided more than three times as many troops as did Britain and Canada.

Coupled with his praise of America, Churchill pledged that Britain will march with America to total victory over Japan.

"We have received horrible injuries from the Japanese," he said, and "we are bound by the ties of honor and fraternal loyalty to the United States to fight this great war at the other end of the world at their side without flagging or failing."

Pleads for World Parley

Other highlights in a comprehensive war review included an assertion that in Europe "we seek nothing for ourselves," a plea that the world organization being formed at San Francisco must not become "a shield for the strong and a mockery for the weak," a brief commendation for Russia's part in the war, and the disclosure that Britain once might have had to go to war against Eire over its neutrality because it was proving so beneficial to Germany.

Addressing the empire by radio in celebration of the victory in Europe, and his completion of five years as prime minister, he said:

"I shall make it clear we have never failed to recognize the immense superiority of the power of the United States in the rescue of France and the defeat of Germany. For our part the British and Canadians had in action about one-third as many men as the Americans, but we have taken our full share of the fighting as the scale of our losses shows."

Praise for Russians

Asserting that "never have the forces of two nations fought side by side and intermingled in lines of battle with so much unity, comradeship, and brotherhood as in the great Anglo-American army," Churchill said. "We know how great is our debt to the combining and unifying command and the high strategic direction of Gen. Eisenhower."

Only twice did Churchill make salutory references to Russia, tho observers saw a clear implication that some of his other and stronger words were directed at the soviet union.

His first direct mention of Russia was when he said Hitler made a "ghastly mistake" when he hurled himself against Marshal Stalin and the numberless millions of the Russian people." Then he said that in their "mighty military achievements" the Russians always held "many more German troops than we could do and rolled forward to meet us in the heart of Germany. Those were all the fine

TELL HOW GESTAPO ARRANGED 'PLOT' ON HITLER, SLEW WITNESS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, Germany, May 13—The chief witness who could have testified to the fact that Gestapo Chief Himmler ordered the alleged attempt on Hitler's life in a beer hall in Munich in November, 1939, was killed by the Nazis on or about April 15.

He was Georg Elser, a storm trooper, a carpenter whom the Nazis kept alive until the defeat, hoping, in case they were victorious, to use him as a witness to compromise the British secret service.

A radio expert, Lothan Rohde, who was interned at Dachau, met the little man who told him at the beginning of April: "My death is near. I know the nazis will kill me because I know too much." He told Rohde and other witnesses that early in November of 1939 the gestapo suggested he do a carpentering job in the Buergerbraukeller and install a time bomb in a pillar before which Hitler was to speak. He was promised money and permission to go abroad and start a new life. The gestapo then seized him and charged him with installing the bomb by orders of the British secret service.

EIRE BANS KUDOS TO PATTON; O.K.'S ROMMEL PRAISE

DUBLIN, Eire, May 13 (AP)—The Sunday Independent, discussing the just-lifted Eire censorship, disclosed today that censors prevented publication of an article acclaiming the generalship of Gen. Patton, but permitted publication of an article praising the achievements of the German Marshal Rommel.

The newspaper also recalled that the censors deleted the words "that bold intruder" as applied to Patton in another article.

Open 7th Bond Drive for 327 Million Today

Chicago prepared yesterday to open the "mighty 7th" war loan drive today during which treasury officials hope to sell $327,474,000 worth of bonds, the largest total in any drive to date.

Lawrence Stern, chairman of the Chicago and Cook County War Finance committee, said principal emphasis will be placed on the sale of E bonds to individual wage earners, because buying by this group best helps the national economy and the buyer. The nation's individual quota is 7 billion dollars, highest of all drives. The entire quota is 14 billions.

Under cloudless skies thousands gathered at Chicago airport to witness the flight of heavy bombardment and pursuit planes in an hour long simulated raid on the city. Five "airmadas" of eight planes each made their first official appearance anywhere in the United States. Crew members, many of them Chicagoans, all have seen overseas service.

Bond Presented to Baby

The "raid," part of an air show sponsored by the army in conjunction with the opening of the bond drive, was followed by the presentation of a $1,000 bond to Donald W. Allee II., infant son of a 9th air force fighter pilot who met death in the battle of the bulge. Brig. Gen. Harold A. Bartron, commanding general of the Fairfield air technical service command in Dayton, O., made the presentation to the child's mother, Mrs. Donald W. Allee of Freeport, on behalf of 9th air force officers.

Army ground forces also staged their second air borne attack on the city, simulating an invasion by paratroopers. The attack will be repeated today, the final day of the show.

Mothers Among Spectators

Among the show's spectators were seven Chicago mothers, all war plant workers and bond buyers who have sons with combat experience, and their "adopted" sons, all returned overseas veterans. The mothers were Mrs. Stella Werly, 1919 Kimball av., of the Russell Electric company; Mrs. Henry Tonyan, Ingleside, of Abbott Laboratories; Mrs. Louise Koeppen, Galvin Manufacturing company; Mrs. Anna Moersch, 3015 Oriole av., of Bell & Howell company; Mrs. Daisy Erickson, Campbell Soup company; Mrs. Ann Fremarek, Hallicrafters company, and Mrs. Emma Mitts, Poster Products, Inc.

The mothers and their "sons" celebrated Mother's day by attending the air show, eating dinner at the Stevens hotel, and taking part in an interview over radio station WBBM. Mrs. Werly, a gold star mother, lost her son, William, aboard the Juneau in November, 1942.

The bond drive proper will open today with a rally at 10:30 a. m. at State and Madison sts. sponsored by the State Street council. Mayor Kelly will head a list of speakers including loan drive officials and army, navy, and marine officers. The Chicago ordnance district chorus, the St. Louis academy choral group, the Immaculata High school choral group, and the Rosary college a cappella choir will sing.

[Names of Dad to GI Joe bond purchasers will go on honor roll. Story on page 5.]

Meanwhile house to house canvassers will begin personal calls in an effort to reach every prospective bond buyer in Cook county. A force of 70,000 is operating in the factories and business houses. Approximately 7,500 will cover the county towns. The women's division has marshalled approximately 32,000 women to sell bonds in theaters, office buildings, and other locations.

FATHER OF 2 KILLED IN PLANE CRASH NEAR HIS HOME IN LANSING

Russell Molenaar, 32, a war plant worker, was killed yesterday when a small plane he was piloting crashed and burned in a field 200 feet from his home at 2605 183d pl., Lansing.

Russell Molenaar

Police said he had rented the plane a short time before at the Washington Park airport, 183d st. and Halsted st., and apparently was flying near his home in an effort to attract the attention of his wife and two small children.

A soldier and three women were injured last night when a Monarch Air service sightseeing plane, piloted by Thomas J. Reames, 28, of 6641 S. Spaulding av., made a forced landing on a lot at 82d st. and Princeton av. Most severely injured was Miss Jeanne Bertagna, 20, of 1638 N. Keeler av. The others are Sgt. John A. Schobel, 24, of 4116 North av.; Mrs. Cornelia Spencer, 59, and her daughter, Mrs. Erna Mays, 38, both Negroes, of 509 E. 40th st. Reames said the motor stalled at 2,000 feet.

Britons Sent to Reopen Breweries in Germany

LONDON, May 14 [Monday]—(AP)—A British "beer mission" leaves today to reopen Germany's breweries. The plants will produce for the occupation army and build up Britain's depleted stocks. Barley will be borrowed, if necessary, from the United States.

MINDANAO AIR BASE TAKEN BY 40TH DIVISION

Invaders Press Two Miles Beyond

MANILA, May 14—[Monday]—(AP)—Japan's Del Monte air center on northern Mindanao fell to elements of the United States 40th infantry division without serious opposition Saturday, but in the Davao sector the 24th division was fighting one of the bitterest battles of the Philippines campaign.

Maj. Gen. Rapp Brush's 40th, which invaded northern Mindanao on Thursday, swept over Del Monte, which includes three air fields, and dispersed a Japanese force to the east.

The Yanks pressed two miles beyond Del Monte in a drive to join other American troops in the south and bisect the big island.

West of captured Davao, on southwestern Mindanao, the Japanese added rockets to their machine gun, mortar, and artillery defenses as intensity of the fight mounted.

Free Isolated Battalion

A battalion of the 24th division, isolated on Wednesday by a Japanese counter-attack, linked up with other Yank elements Friday when the American bridgehead at the Talomo river was widened.

At one point in the Davao battle zone Yanks smashed thru Japanese lined and captured an estimated $1,000,000 worth of Japanese aircraft engines and plane parts.

The 24th scattered a Japanese force in the Mount Apo region southwest of Davao and moved ahead in the bitterly contested Talomo river sector.

Aussies Capture Wewak

Sixth army troops on Luzon in the Philippines maintained strong pressure in the Balete pass and the Ipo dam sectors. Attack planes and fighters sprayed 150 tons of explosives on enemy rear areas.

The Balete pass, long defended, leads to the extensive Cagayan valley of northern Luzon. The Ipo dam, east of Manila, is a source of more than one-third of the capital city's water supply.

Units of Australia's 6th division captured the long contested city and peninsula of Wewak on northeastern New Guinea in a swift drive from the west. The Aussies reached the edge of the western airstrip.

Another Australian force which invaded the Cape Moen area, east of Wewak, on Friday has consolidated its beachhead. Leading elements have driven three miles to within seven of a juncture with the western force.

10,000 Japs Defeated

Seizure of Wewak was the first important victory of the Australian troops who last January took over the job of clearing the so-called "rear areas" of Japanese. The Nipponese at Wewak have been estimated at 10,000.

Tanks, big guns, and flame throwers were put ashore by the Aussies Friday at Cape Moen for the pincers drive on Wewak. Australian sources said the landing forces captured 41 Japanese, including four officers. Enemy casualties were reported heavy, with 195 Japanese dead counted for every Australian killed.

The landing was supported by Australian and American planes, the British cruiser Newfoundland, the Australian cruiser Hobart and five Australian destroyers.

Twins! They're the High Point in a G.I.'s Career

Camp Lee, Va., May 13 (AP)—When Mrs. Thomas P. Conroy presented her husband, Sgt. Conroy of Natrona, Pa., with twins last Sunday, she give him a ticket back to civilian life. Conroy, who has a record of 28 months overseas, had a total of 71 points. If his wife had had just one baby, he would have been two points short of the 85 required for a discharge. The twin boys added 34 points to his total.

Biggest Fleet of Super Forts Blasts Japan

GUAM, May 14 (Monday)—(AP)—More than 500 Super Fortresses dumped 3,500 tons of fire bombs in daylight today on the industrial section of Nagoya, Japan's third largest city, in the biggest B-29 raid of the war.

Twice before Nagoya, with a population of about 1,500,000, has been subjected to Super Fortress fire attacks. A spokesman for the 21st bomber command expressed the hope that today's attack will prove a devastating blow to war industry there. Results were not immediately known.

Arsenal Is Target

Five great circles in the northern section of the Honshu Island city were designated as target areas. These included the Chigusa factory of the Nagoya arsenal, producing heavy ordnance and ammunition components, a large electrical plant, leading machine tool firms, and plants producing aircraft and munitions.

In addition, the designated targets included thousands of home factories turning out electrical parts and various instruments.

The spokesman said fewer large factories are in the area than were the target for previous Super Fort missions.

5,500 Yanks in Crews

Today's mission had a target area of nine square miles in north Nagoya, bordered on the south by the burned out Nagoya castle area and on the north by a horseshoe bend of the Yata river. It includes railroad stations.

The bombers went in at medium altitude, attacking in a column of squadrons of 11 planes each. On the basis of 11-man crews manning the B-29s, more than 5,500 American airmen participated in this aerial strike.

The target areas were among the most densely populated in Nagoya, with 22,000 to 75,000 residents per square mile. Spokesmen said Japan could not avoid heavy casualties.

The raid came as Japan's radio reported 900 carrier based planes and 20 Super Fortresses hammered Kyushu, the southernmost Japanese mainland island, in 14 coördinated waves from 5:30 a. m. to 2 p. m. yesterday.

Attack South of Kobe

In addition, Tokyo said, two Liberator bombers carried out a low level bombing of Miye prefecture, south of Kobe on Honshu, at noon today.

The last B-29 raid on Nagoya was March 30 when a small force of Super Forts hit the Mitsubishi engine plant against light opposition. On March 18 and 19 Super Forts destroyed three square miles of Nagoya.

The largest previous use of Super Fortresses was announced last week when more than 400 took part.

Lancashire Girls Rush to Wed American Flyers

SEIZE HILL AND RIVER BANK IN COSTLY BATTLE

ON THE 6TH MARINE DIVISION FRONT, Okinawa, May 13 (AP)—American military might was in the northern residential section of Naha today. The Yanks were battling fanatical Japanese opposition from within the capital of Okinawa.

The Americans were on the north bank of the Asato river and the edge of Naha's business district. It was bitter going, and many a marine who awoke this morning with thoughts of his mother's welfare fell under Japanese fire before the day was out.

Sighed Chaplain George Creitz, marine lieutenant of Easton, Pa., "It's a sad day for a boy to die. But these are brave men who have a job to do and who are doing it without asking any favors."

Services at Front

Creitz and Chaplain Eugene Kelly, Roman Catholic priest from Queens Village, N. Y., went from one front line post to another at the edge of Naha conducting prayer services and mass.

At a hilltop cemetery on the northwestern edge of the city, Brig. Gen. William T. Clement of Richmond, Va., assistant commander of the division, watched his men slug their way into burning and ruined Naha. The general said he felt his leathernecks would be across the river and swarming thru the business district by tomorrow.

Marines gained this hill, literally covered with Okinawan tombs and honeycombed with caves, last night after a two day assault. This morning tanks and infantry men were in Naha's small, red tile roofed houses.

One Building Intact

Gen. Clement, taking shelter behind a stone slab, watched dive bombers swoop across the town beyond the river—their bombs kicking up great chunks of debris.

It seemed the only structure still intact in Naha was a long, two story, gray concrete building in a depression—apparently too low to have been hit much by artillery. Evidently it was some kind of college. The rest of Naha was a skeleton city. Only a few broken walls two or three stories tall remained standing.

Blue Network Reporter Norman Paige broadcast that he watched a "steady line of marines, wounded and dead, being carried out of Naha. The Japs have left booby traps and land mines in generous proportions everywhere in the town. Most of our casualties are from those."

Gain 600 Yards

GUAM, May 14 [Monday]—(AP)—United States infantry men and marines gained up to 600 yards along the bitterly held southern Okinawa battle front yesterday during bloody fighting in which a Japanese counter-attack was repulsed and sea borne landings behind Yank lines were broken up.

Near the center of the line the 333d regiment of the 96th division moved up Conical hill, a key position before the towns of Shuri and Yonabaru.

Immediately to the west the 1st marine division took high ground protecting Shuri after beating off a counter-attack in which 100 Japanese were killed.

Jap Landing Repulsed

Adm. Nimitz' bulletin today reported only slight changes in the western sector, where the 6th marine division is bearing hard upon Naha.

In this area, the enemy attempted an amphibious landing behind the Yank lines in the Machinato air field sector. This was broken up with a number of enemy boats destroyed by ships' and shore gun fire.

Nimitz reported the Yanks were "under heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire, and progress was difficult."

The infantry men holding down the eastern half of the Okinawa front moved ahead 300 yards on their right flank and 600 on their left. The 77th infantry division, meeting strong resistance, took high ground northeast of Shuri, Okinawa's second city.

Japanese planes again appeared in the Okinawa area yesterday morning but caused no damage, Nimitz reported.

Naha, which had a population of 66,000 before the April 1 invasion of Okinawa, will be the largest Japanese city to fall into Yank hands. The capture of the city itself was slowed by the necessity of taking hills overlooking it, said Vern Haugland, war correspondent. But the approach to the suburbs was over flat land, enabling the Yanks to use tanks in a rapid 1,000 yard advance.

Japs Lose 3,168 Planes

The Japanese are throwing planes with unprecedented ferocity against the Pacific fleet. In less than two months the Japanese have lost 3,168 aircraft destroyed. Several times in seven weeks a single day's bag has been from 100 to 200.

From March 18 to April 18, the first month of the Ryukyus operation, 2,569 Nipponese aircraft were destroyed.

Many military men believe these losses struck a crippling blow to enemy air power, particularly when coupled with heavy B-29 raids against Japanese industry. Nippon's capacity for aircraft production has been estimated variously from 1,200 to 1,500 monthly, far under recent monthly losses.

A marine combat pilot said the quality of Japanese pilots apparently is deteriorating, perhaps reflecting their sacrifice of flyers in suicide attacks.

18 American Ships Sunk

"I think now they are just teaching pilots how to take off and land," he said. "In the case of suicide pilots, maybe they are just teaching them how to take off."

The second marine air wing destroyed 209 Japanese planes from the start of its operations from Okinawa early in April to May 10. From March 18 to April 4 Vice Adm. Mitscher's carrier task forces downed 841 in combat, 73 by ships' gunfire and 363 on the ground in raids on enemy held islands.

The United States has not been inflicting these losses without damage. A recapitulation discloses that between March 18 and April 18, 18 American vessels were reported sunk. These included five destroyers, two minecraft, one destroyer-transport and ten auxiliaries. There have been some losses since and numerous American vessels have been damaged.

7 YANKS FIGHT OFF CHARGE

BY THOMAS MORROW

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

OKINAWA, May 12 (Delayed)—Marines of the 1st division today went patiently about sealing the last caves in the pocket that held up the division's advance near Awache. The leadership of Brig. Gen. Louis E. Jones, decorated in two world wars, was instrumental in the quick clean up of the Japanese strong point.

With the inevitable cigar clenched between his teeth, Gen. Jones' brief "let's get moving" opened a day in which his troops battered apart machine gun cave positions. Chief among the regiment's tales of heroism was that of seven men who withstood a Japanese banzai charge.

The seven were charged with setting up a 37 mm. gun. Before they had finished 150 screaming Japs charged toward them. They borrowed a light machine gun from infantry troops, set it up, and went to work. For nine hours they greeted each assault with machine gun and rifle blasts until their ammunition was gone. Fifty Japs fell before their fire.

One marine kept firing a rifle after mortar shells had shattered both his legs. Another mortar shell killed him.

G I Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

NEW GUINEA, May 8 (Delayed)—Remember Wewak? Wewak and Rabaul, those were the main Japanese bases in the Southwest Pacific—up until about a year ago. Then the war jumped past both of them.

But that doesn't mean Wewak has been quiet. Australian troops were given the job of wiping out the estimated 20,000 Japanese still there, and 300 Americans, who operate landing barges for the 3d engineer special brigade, were assigned to help the Aussies.

The 300 Americans began hauling the Aussies up the coast. Eventually they reached Madang, biggest pre-war city in New Guinea—white population 80.

All the Comforts of Home

The boat boys made themselves at home on an island in the harbor. Since their commander, Capt. Robert Wood of Philadelphia, Pa., walked into Madang with the white troops and immediately started appropriating abandoned Jap equipment, the boat boys became quite comfortable, equipped with lights, refrigerator, a former mission house, and houseboys.

But it was not all leisure. In their 40 little boats they hauled every month as much as a Liberty ship could hold. During the year each boat traveled 20,000 miles.

One day two boats took some Aussies as far up a creek as they could. A week later, while going back to pick up the patrol, they were ambushed. Should they turn back? That would abandon the Aussies. So the American boatmen kept right on, ran thru the gunfire.

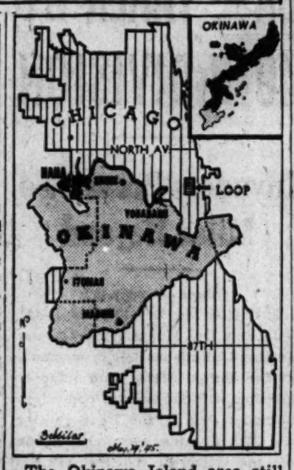
The Japs, while very stupid, figured out that the two boats would have to come back down the river. So when the boats did come down they had a hot welcome. The boat boys expected it. The Japs fired from both banks of the narrow creek. Every man in the boats fired back. Not one in the boats was hurt. A couple of weeks later another patrol went up there and found 21 Jap bodies.

That's the kind of beats the 300 American boat boys face at Wewak.

Chicagolanders on Hand

The 300 include Alfred Fikis, 4036 N. Monitor av.; Thomas Burbulis, 4935 N. Mason av.; Harold Partridge, 752 W. 73d st., and Fred Kulma, 3500 North av., all of Chicago; Robert Rogers, Decatur, Ill.; William Hicks, Rockford, Ill.; John Stauthammer and Erwin Hermann, both of Peoria.

There are three more Chicagoans who were out on errands and thus unable to give their addresses—Donald Holland, Martin Vatthauer, and Walter Ukrenas.



The Okinawa Island area still held by the Japs in comparison with Chicago.

FLYING CHAMPS LED BY NATIVE OF IKE'S TOWN

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—The 8th air force's 4th fighter group commanded by Col. Everett W. Stewart of Abilene, Kas., Gen. Eisenhower's home town, grabbed off top honors of the European war for destruction of German planes, Stewart's group blasted 1,021 nazi planes—538 in aerial combat and 483 on the ground.

Runners-up were the flyers of the 56th group, with 1,001 enemy planes to their credit, including 680 in the air. The 4th flies P-51 Mustangs and the 56th P-47 Thunderbolts.

Reds' Biggest Coal Area Nears 40 Pct. of Output

MOSCOW, May 13 (Reuters)—The first stage in the reconstruction of the Donbas mines, Russia's largest coal producing area, has been completed. The pits already are yielding nearly 40 per cent of their pre-war output of 250,000 tons of coal a day.

ALASKA FLYERS RAID JAP CONVOY IN KURILE ISLES

11TH AIR FORCE HDQ., Aleutians, May 11 (Delayed)—(AP)—American army flyers sank at least one Japanese ship, damaged two more, including a warship, and barely missed a 7,000 ton troop transport today during a raid on Kataoka navy base, Shumushu, in the Kurile Islands of northern Japan.

Officers said it was possible an air-sea battle was still raging in that area.

Enemy vessels sunk or damaged included a 2,500 ton cargo ship blown up and destroyed, and a frigate and a freighter. One Mitchell bomber, hit by flak, blew up in the air.

South of Kataoka, navy search planes in two flights strafed and fired rockets into Japanese radar installations at Minami cape on eastern Paramushiro.

Surprise Jap Convoy

Mitchell bombers and Liberators surprised an enemy convoy, which sneaked into Kataoka presumably under cover of fog. The Liberators dropped a score of 150 pound general purpose bombs from medium altitude.

The fog lifted as the American planes arrived over the target to find the convoy of 15 ships, including warship escorts, stretched over a two mile area from Kataoka harbor to Kashiwabara, troop staging area on northern Paramushiro.

Five Japanese fighters made half-hearted attacks on one flight of Mitchells, but the Americans drove them off.

Kuriles Reinforced

The convoy was the largest spotted in these waters since Sept. 11, 1943, when Aleutians based flyers surprised Japanese Kurile bases for the first time in the war.

Presence of troop transports, plus cargo vessels in the convoy indicated that Japan may have decided to reinforce the northern Kuriles, which lie south of the tip of Siberian Kamchatka. This was also the first large scale sea movement noted in this area since Russia denounced its neutrality treaty with Japan.

SQUADRON BAGS 90 PLANES, SETS MARINE RECORD

OKINAWA, May 11 (Delayed) (AP)—An Okinawa based Corsair fighter squadron broke a long standing marine aviation record today by destroying nine planes to run its total for a month of contact with the Japanese to 90. The previous marine squadron record was 85, set during the Solomons campaign.

Vice Adm. Turner sent the marine pilots his congratulations for "the enviable record" they scored while operating from a field in process of improvement.

THIRD RAILWAY BRIDGE ON RHINE BUILT IN WEEK

RHEINHAUSEN, Germany, May 13 (AP)—A third railway bridge built by American engineers across the Rhine furnished a new link today between the Ruhr and western Europe.

The bridge was completed V-E day and was named the Victory bridge by Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, commander of the United States 15th army, when he dedicated it yesterday to "all who have fallen in the fight against nazism."

The 2,815 foot bridge makes use of steel rails and ties requisitioned from the stockpiles of the Krupp armament plants. Veteran engineers finished it in six days and 15 hours.

Report Finn Police Chief Placed in Prison Camp

LONDON, Monday, May 14 (AP)—The Moscow radio, quoting a Tass agency dispatch from Helsinki, said early today that the former Finnish Chief of State Police Antoni had been arrested and placed in a concentration camp.

CHICAGO YANKS HELP TO OCCUPY TINY SAMAL ISLE

Milwaukeean at Head of Invasion Force

BY WALTER SIMMONS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SAMAL ISLAND, Mindanao, P. I., May 9 [Delayed]—One company of the 24th division, commanded by Lt. Fred Klingbail of Milwaukee, Wis., occupied the Island of Samal in Davao gulf today.*

Two pillboxes were destroyed and four Japs killed. The island, which had been supplying large quantities of foodstuffs to the Japs in Davao, showed signs of hasty evacuation.

These midwesterners participated in its capture:

Privates John Finkbiner, 3418 W. Fulton blvd., Joseph Huss, 1347 N. Western av., John Lowgren, 4039 N. St. Louis av., and Oscar Stein, 1801 S. Lawndale av., all of Chicago; Pvt. Arthur Andrzejewski, South Bend, Ind., Staff Sgt. Samuel T. Ford, Fontanet, Ind., Pvt. Edward Bruegeman, Hartland, Wis., Pvt. Robert Christianson, Park Falls, Wis., Pvt. Theodore Schneider, Stratford, Wis., Pvt. Eliger Stickney, Tilleda, Wis., Pvt. Russell Williams, Hope, Mich., and Pvt. Peter Koole, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Escapes from Ambush

Jap ambushes continued on the roads west of Davao. Pvt. Bruce Hamilton, 2037 Hunt av., Chicago, assistant to a Red Cross field director, was ambushed in a jeep while making a voluntary trip with cigarets for a regiment whose supply was exhausted. Tho bullets whistled thru the jeep he escaped injury and delivered the cigarets.

A truck in the same column was blown up by a fanatical Jap with a land mine strapped on his chest.

Slugs Puncture Radio.

In another night ambush, Sgt. Felix Klosinski, 2754 W. 55th st., Chicago, radio operator, came under fire while tapping out two urgent messages. While 50 caliber slugs cut thru his jeep, he continued pounding the key until the messages were completed. He then dove for safety just as a Jap flung a satchel charge in the jeep and destroyed it.

Fighting continued on the road to mintal. Troops so heavily engaged that they had not yet heard of the end of the European war found one small position defended by 20 Japs armed with 15 machine guns and two heavies.

Mrs. Wagner was obliged to remain in the hospital with her friend—also as a patient.

Chinese Premier to Visit Russia, Ask Red Intentions

CHUNGKING, China, May 13 (AP)—Premier T. V. Soong is expected to visit Moscow on his way home from the San Francisco conference in an attempt to strengthen Sino-Soviet relations and learn, if he can, Russia's intentions in the Far East, it was reported today. The Chinese press has been appealing to Russia to enter the Pacific war.

400 RUSSIANS DRINK LOOTED ALCOHOL; DIE

NUERNBERG, Germany, May 13 (AP)—The death of more than 400 liberated Russian prisoners from drinking methyl alcohol was reported to United States 3d army authorities today by Lt. Michael Kopilow, Russian liaison officer.

The soldiers looted an abandoned German freight train near their camp in this area, Kopilow said, and found many cars loaded with 50 gallon drums of methyl which they mistook for potable alcohol. They mixed it with water and drank it.

Kopilow proposed that liberated officers be armed and formed into a security guard to maintain order and prevent such incidents. The camp in question, he said, included 1,600 officers and 8,000 enlisted men. Third army authorities assured him that Russian collaboration would be welcome.

Yanks and British Hold Parade in German Port

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, May 13 [Reuters]—With pipes skirling and kilts swinging, men of the 51st highland division marched past thousands of wondering Germans in the streets of this north German port today in the first ceremonial victory parade to take place in the conquered reich. After the march the German commanders in the port handed over their arms. American naval and military personnel representing occupation forces were also on parade.

FRENCH GAYETY CONTRASTS WITH YANK NOSTALGIA

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 13—The French this week-end are still celebrating victory. The whoopee here is in contrast to the grave concern among the United States soldiers in Germany who won the war.

In Paris last night and this morning French soldiers in dress uniforms paraded to martial music. At midnight there was dancing in the boulevards, with French girls distributing embraces, especially to soldiers carrying unemptied champagne bottles.

There were similar scenes in other French cities traversed last night at the end of a two day drive from the front.

Even in the villages the people congregated in the plazas for carnivals.

The French gaiety was not dampened by the continuance of the Pacific war. And unlike the GI's, furthermore, the French look upon their occupation of a section of Germany as a pleasure rather than a disagreeable obligation.

Yanks Long for Home

Among the American soldiers in Germany, since the firing ceased, there has been an epidemic of nostalgia, formerly suppressed by the daily apprehension for personal safety.

The drudgery of moving equipment, building bridges, all the labors of soldiering, have lost the glamor of immediate battle significance. They see destroyed cities, destroyed railroads, destroyed industries, and recollection of the tactical or strategic purpose of the destruction is dimming.

Overshadowing all the thoughts of the American fighting men interviewed since the battles ended are their prospects of transfer to the Pacific theater of war or being stuck in the army of occupation in this theater.

The soldiers were sure of only one thing—they wanted to go home.

German Wrecked

The journey here from the United States forces in Czechoslovakia and Austria presented another striking contrast. Germany is really kaput. The principal cities are rubble. The big industries are a jumble of twisted steel among piles of rock and brick. The railway and highway bridges are destroyed. Men, women, and children beg for a bit of K or C ration every time on army vehicle stops.

In France, on the other hand, while war damage is considerable, it is negligible in comparison. Germany is in ruins. France is repairable, and construction is under way.

Quick capitulation to Germany in 1940 minimized the damage in France, leaving Paris virtually unscathed, and the Americans' rapid drive from the Normandy beaches to the Rhine likewise saved property.

A tour of wrecked Germany is convincing that its people will not be able to compete for world markets at least for a couple of generations.

JAP BULLETS DO STRIP TEASE FOR BLUSHING YANK

WITH AMERICAL DIVISION ON CEBU, Philippines, May 10 [Delayed]—(AP)—They're calling Pvt. Wilmer Swift the "Gypsy Rose Lee" of the Americal division but the strip tease he did was strictly unrehearsed and involuntary.

Swift, of Downington, Pa., was with his company of the 132d infantry regiment crossing a bridge under heavy Japanese fire. One man was badly wounded and Swift went forward to pull him to safety. Then came the strip tease.

One Japanese bullet tore off part of Swift's pants. Two more slit thru his jacket, while another clipped the heel off his shoe. He carried the wounded man to cover.

CHINESE FIGHT INTO FOOCHOW ON EAST COAST

Port in Sector Where U. S. Landing Is Feared

CHUNGKING, China, May 13 (AP)—Chinese troops have fought into Foochow and captured an airport south of that east coast port, striking the Japanese in the sector where the enemy fears the Americans may storm ashore, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

Fighting also flared in the eastern seaboard area to the north, where the high command said troops and local militia Thursday occupied Sinchang, 65 miles southeast of Hangchow. This occupied capital of Chekiang province is about 300 miles north of Foochow.

The high command said that several columns of Chinese troops launched the attack on the old treaty port of Foochow Thursday morning, smashed enemy positions on the northwest Friday morning and entered that city that same evening where street fighting now is in progress.

Report Jap Evacuation

The ease with which the Chinese entered the city lent some credence to rumors that the Japanese had evacuated the city, which once figured high in their plans to fortify the coast against the expected American invasion from the east.

There have been reports, including one from an army spokesman, that Japanese strategy on the mainland has been altered to concentrate strength north of the Yellow river in northeastern China far to the north of the present scene of fighting.

Chinese forces which drove the Japanese from Sinchang said the enemy was in retreat northeast in the direction of Hangchow.

In the interior, where the Japanese were turned back with heavy losses in an attempt to capture the Hunan province air base of Chihkiang, further successes were claimed by the Chinese high command.

The Chinese said their forces occupied the highway town of Taohwaping, 23 miles west of the enemy base of Paoching, from which the ill-starred Japanese drive was launched.

Surround Enemy Force

Operating farther south, the right wing of the Chinese counter-drive cleared the Japanese from an area 12 miles beyond Wukang, 80 miles southeast of Chihkiang.

The lines of encirclement were tightened around a Japanese force north of Kaosha, which is on the main highway to Chihkiang some 50 miles west of Paoching.

Both here and in another pocket in the area of Shanmen, 25 miles north of Kaosha, the Japanese tried without success to break out with repeated counter-attacks, the Chinese said.

Some Japanese were reported shedding their uniforms for civilian clothes and acting as snipers, but these were being wiped out.

Chinese farther north reported the Japanese suffered 100 casualties in fighting west of Hsihsiakow, southern Honan province stronghold from which the enemy might launch a drive southward toward Chungking.

YANKS' LOOTING IN REICH CALLED MAJOR PROBLEM

'Souvenir' Grabbing Fad Is Growing

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, May 13—American character will face a sharp test in the first months of Germany's occupation as American soldiers, indoctrinated by years of propaganda into thinking of the enemy as subhuman, adjust themselves to the disappearance of all military excuse for commandeering and confiscation.

Looting in Germany is apt to become a scandal unless strict measures are taken to counteract the natural military predilection for pillage in conquered territory, in the opinion of thoughtful officers.

No Rights for Germans

These officers assert that a propensity among officers and men to grab whatever appeals to them as souvenirs to be sent home has been growing since the Roer offensive in the last days of February. They say this tendency is the natural result of propaganda which for nearly six years has taught that the entire population of Germany has long since forfeited the right to be treated as ordinary people.

Our soldiers have read inspired articles and have seen motion pictures depicting the Germans as robbers and murderers, stealing and slaying from all their victims. They have been taught to regard the entire race as a filthy, disgusting thing apart from humanity.

Small wonder, then, that the GI, the officer and even the brass hat speedily justifies his desire to appropriate a knick-knack that appeals to him by a reflection that German crimes have extinguished any rights the Germans once had in their own property.

Sent Motorcycle Home

A colonel in the intelligence section, who in civilian life was a prominent attorney in Washington, D. C., told me he is fearful our code of morals may be warped and distorted unless strict orders are promptly issued and enforced against further seizure of property of enemy individuals.

"We have winked at the looting of shops and homes," he said. "We have seen our men working all day long tieing up packages to mail via the army postoffice to friends and relatives in America. We had one young corporal who actually took a motorcycle to pieces and made it into seven packages which he sent by parcel post to his home."

Rape Cases Increasing

Rape cases before judge advocate courts are on the increase because the normal American respect for womanhood has been distorted by the inculcated doctrine that German women are as much enemies of the American people as the most sinister members of the Gestapo, this colonel said.

"The army is taught that every woman and girl and child is ready to harm him and his country," he said.

The colonel asserted he believes preservation of the American character is vastly more important for America and for the world than sustaining the hate and vengeance campaign carried on by our propaganda before victory was won.

U. S. AIR FORCE STEPS UP ITS CHINA ACTIVITY

CHUNGKING, China, May 13 (AP)—The rising battle in the skies over China found the United States 14th air force increasing its flights by 15 per cent in April against almost non-existent opposition from Japanese pilots.

The increase in the number of sorties was registered over operations in March, and the tempo of allied air combat in April was higher than for any month in 1944, said the monthly summary from Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer's headquarters.

In the decline of Japanese air power, only seven Japanese planes were downed in aerial combat, but 53 were destroyed aground. This brought the total since July 4, 1942, to 2,303 Japanese planes destroyed and 772 probably destroyed.

ROBBED BY TAVERN COMPANIONS

DUTCH ENLIST TROOPS TO FIGHT IN EAST INDIES

APELDOORN, Holland, May 13 (AP)—Members of the Netherlands interior forces in western Holland will be asked to enlist for a campaign in the Netherlands East Indies, it was learned today as Canadian troops stood guard against German soldiers escaping from the surrendered western pocket.

Capt. Bern van Tuyll, Prince Bernhard's adjutant, said the expeditionary forces would include both an army to be outfitted and trained in England and marines who will be put thru their paces in United States training camps.

Recruiting offices have been opened in previously liberated provinces and will be set up in the west, where they will give the interior forces every opportunity to continue their military careers more regularly, Van Tuyll said.

"what will your life be like ten years from now?"

Well, chances are, if you're a Joe Doakes or a Jane Doe—and most people are—you'll want a new car or a fur coat . . . perhaps a piano for sister or college for little Joe . . . maybe a new house or a new roof or a long trip . . . maybe something more or less important than any of these . . . and budget or no budget you'll be able to have them. How? It's all done with bonds! Remember those beautiful bonds you bought way back in 1945 when you wanted to help your Uncle Sam? Well, he's going to help you now—in 1955. That was the best investment you ever made!

CROWDS IN OSLO CHEER RETURN OF CROWN PRINCE

Olaf Is Back in Triumph After Five Years

BY CHARLES P. ARNOT
[Representing the Combined Allied Press]

OSLO, Norway, May 13 (AP)—Crown Prince Olaf of Norway returned to his nation's capital today and was greeted by the biggest throng in Oslo's history, while in a dingy cell in Oslo's largest prison, Vidkun Quisling was reported "going mad."

Crown Prince Olaf

The ex-president of the Norwegian puppet government was complaining about his food and nobody seems to care.

Olaf landed from a British cruiser. He perched on the back of an open car and was driven to the royal palace. Wearing the battle dress of a general of the Norwegian army, he smiled and saluted the waving throngs who shouted "Hiya, Olaf!" at the triumphal procession moving thru the streets.

Since dawn, thousands of Norwegians had lined the streets of Oslo, altho the news that Olaf was to return at 4 p. m., was kept on an "unofficial" basis for security reasons. It was estimated that 250,000 persons were in the streets.

King Back Next Month

Three cabinet members also were in Olaf's party as well as British Lt. Gen. Andrew Thorne, who will command the garrison. Olaf and the royal family left their palace five years ago this month. King Haakon and others of the family are expected to return next month.

Meanwhile, at his first press conference this afternoon, the new Oslo police chief, Henrik Meyer, said that Quisling had made no statement since he drove to police headquarters in a big car loaded with trunks and bags of liquor and cigarets on Wednesday.

U. S. Planes in Norway

New York, May 13 (AP) — Eight American planes with 40 crewmen under command of Col. Bernt Balchen, landed near Bodoe today, the first allied soldiers to arrive in that part of Norway above the arctic circle, the Norwegian press agency said tonight in a wireless dispatch reported by the OWI.

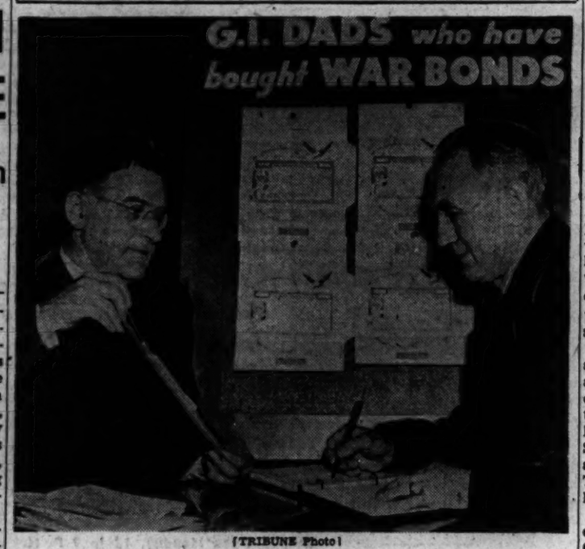
Father Buys a Bond for His GI Son



[TRIBUNE Photo]

John F. Gillespie (left), manager of The Tribune public service offices, sells a Dad to GI Joe bond to Joseph Schulien. Board in background lists names of fathers who have bought bonds and sons who received them. The board will be put on display in window of The Tribune public service office at 1 S. Dearborn st.

DAD TO GI JOE HONOR ROSTER IS OPEN TODAY

Bond Buyers May Put Names on List

Purchasers of war bonds for sons, daughters, or others in the army or navy may place their names on the Dad to GI Joe club honor roll in the window of the Tribune Public Service office at Madison and Dearborn sts. any time today between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m., John F. Gillespie, bureau manager, announced.

V-Mail Forms Available

Any purchaser of such a bond for a soldier or sailor overseas will be handed one of the V-mail forms containing a facsimile of a war bond on which the buyer may fill out the amount and names of the donor and beneficiary.

All any one need do to place his name on the Tribune honor roll or to obtain a V mail blank is to announce that he has purchased a bond for a soldier or sailor or purchase one in the bureau.

Honor Roster Is Large

The roster of those who have joined a Dad to GI club by such a bond purchase will consist of cards on which will be written the names of those buying the bonds and those to whom they go.

Gillespie said he had plenty of room for a large honor roll and several thousand of the V-mail blanks to distribute to the buyers.

RIOT IN CHILE DURING MASS FOR MUSSOLINI

SANTIAGO, Chile, May 13 (AP)—Headquarters of the Carabineros, the Chilean national police, said today four persons were arrested and several injured in disorders which occurred yesterday outside the Catholic Temple of National Gratitude during a mass for Benito Mussolini.

The newspapers said many persons at the mass, which was attended mostly by Italians, gave the Fascist salute thruout the service. The press carried varying accounts of the disorders while today the Most Rev. José Maria Caro, archbishop of the Catholic church, presided at a peace service.

The newspaper Chileno, which sometimes has been said to have pro-Fascist sympathies, carried a streamer headline, "Communists assault Catholic temple," while the communist daily, El Siglo, streamered, "Fascists Utilize Temple for Anti-Democratic Provocation."

THOUSANDS HAIL KING AT BRITISH VICTORY SERVICE

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 13—From the bomb-scarred spiritual heart of the British empire, St. Paul's cathedral, King George VI. today led his people in victory thanksgiving services whose solemn prayers and paeans of praise were echoed and reechoed thruout every corner of Britain's share of the world.

In the first great public ceremony since V-E day the king and queen and their two princesses were acclaimed by tumultuous crowds as they drove in an open horse-drawn landau from Buckingham palace to St. Paul's via the Mall, Admiralty arch, Trafalgar square, the Strand, Temple bar, Fleet st., and Ludgate hill.

Some of the crowds' wildest cheers were reserved for Dowager Queen Mary, who has just returned to London after a lengthy sojourn in east England, and for Prime Minister Churchill, who rode in separate automobiles in the royal procession.

Three Other Kings There

The procession also included three other kings, Haakon of Norway, George of Greece, and Peter of Yugoslavia, besides President Rackiewicz of Poland, Princess Juliana and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, and other members of the British royal family.

Prior to the cathedral services, London's ancient assertion of independence on the occasion of the king entering the city was observed with the traditional ceremony, for the first time since the war began.

The lord mayor offered the king the pearl handled sword which symbolizes the city's freedom. This indicated the city's willingness to allow the king to enter it. Then the king returned the sword to the mayor and proceeded down Fleet st. to the cathedral, into which the mayor, bearing the sword aloft, preceded him.

Thanks for Deliverance

At St. Paul's, which was surrounded by reverent thousands, the nation's spiritual leader, the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, gave thanks to God for Britain's deliverance.

Almost side by side with the king and prime minister during the services were the members of the diplomatic corps, headed by United States Ambassador John G. Winant, high officers of cabinet and state, chiefs of the fighting services, and a specially selected party of 96 men and 67 women representing the workers in munitions and other war industries.

CHURCHILL SAYS U. S. POWER WON ON WEST FRONT

Pledges All-Out Fight Against Japs

words he had for the allies' eastern partner.

He made no mention of Poland.

Nazi Weapons Foiled

The prime minister also revealed that American troops helped to save London from aerial devastation as fearful as that which wrecked Berlin.

"There was one final danger from which the collapse of Germany has saved us." Churchill said. "London and the southeastern counties have suffered for a year from various forms of flying bombs and rockets and our air force and our ack-ack batteries have done wonders against them. But it was only when our armies cleaned up the coast and overran all the points of discharge and when the Americans captured vast stores of rockets of all kinds near Leipzig, and when all the preparations being made on the coasts of France and Holland could be examined in detail, in scientific detail, that we knew how grave had been the peril, not only from rockets and flying bombs but from multiple long-range artillery, which was being prepared against London.

"Only just in time did the allied armies blast the viper in his nest. Otherwise the autumn of 1944—to say nothing of 1945—might well have seen London as shattered as Berlin. For the same period the Germans had prepared a new U-boat fleet and novel tactics which, though we should have eventually destroyed them, might well have carried anti-U-boat warfare back to the high peak days of 1942."

Never Doubted Victory

Admitting that "never since the United States entered the war have I had the slightest doubt or fear but that we should be saved and that we would win the war," Churchill disclosed some details of America's aid to Britain even before Pearl Harbor.

By the spring of 1941, he revealed, "we had ferried over the Atlantic a million rifles and a thousand cannon from the United States with all their ammunition since the previous June."

Of the post-war world as it is being arranged at San Francisco, Churchill said:

"On the continent of Europe we have yet to make sure that the simple and honorable purposes for which we entered the war aren't brushed aside or overlooked and that the words, freedom, democracy, and liberation are not distorted from their true meaning as we have understood them.

"There would be little use in punishing the Hitlerites for their crimes if law and justice did not rule and if totalitarian or police governments were to take the place of the German invaders.

"Nothing for Ourelves"

"We seek nothing for ourselves. But we must make sure that those causes which we fought for find recognition at the peace table in facts as well as words and above all we must labor that the world organization which the united nations are creating at San Francisco does not become an idle name—does not become a shield for the strong and a mockery for the weak.

"It is the victors who must search their hearts in the glowing hours and be worthy, by their nobility, of the immense force they will yield."

Breaking the silence on Eire's neutrality, Churchill disclosed that during the dark days of 1941 the German blockade was so effective that the only route into England was between Northern Ireland and Scotland. He added:

"Owing to the action of Mr. De Valera, so much at variance with the temper and instinct of thousands of southern Irishmen who hastened to the battlefront to prove their ancient valor, the approaches which the southern Irish ports and air fields could so easily have guarded were closed by the hostile aircraft and U-boats.

Cites British Restraint

"This was indeed a deadly moment in our life, and if it had not been for the loyalty and friendship of Northern Ireland, we should have been forced to come to close quarters with Mr. De Valera or perish forever from the earth.

"However, with a restraint and poise to which, I say, history will find few parallels, his majesty's government never laid a violent hand upon them, tho at times it would have been quite easy and quite natural, but left the De Valera government to frolic with the German and later with the Japanese representatives to their hearts' content."

Praise for Dominions

The prime minister said that "bitterness by the British for the Irish race dies in my heart" when he recalled the bravery of many Irish soldiers who fought for the empire.

"Australia, New Zealand, and Canada were and are all directly menaced" by Japan, he said. "They came to our aid in our dark times and we must not leave unfinished any task which concerns their safety.

"I told you hard things at the beginning of these last five years. You did not shrink, and I should be unworthy of your confidence and generosity if I did not still cry:

"Forward unflinching, unswerving, indomitable till the whole task is done and the whole world is safe and clean!"

Churchill indicated that he felt his work was not finished altho he made no direct reference to an election that would end England's war time coalition government.

"I wish I could tell you tonight that all our toils and troubles are over," he said. "Then indeed I could end my five years' service happily, and if you thought you had had enough of me and that I ought to be put out to grass, I assure you I would take it with the best of grace."

St. Mel Cadets Receive Medals

1,100 Alumni Serve

Thirteen Tribune medals were presented cadets of the St. Mel High school R. O. T. C. at a military honors program yesterday in the 132d infantry armory, 2653 Madison st. St. Mel's has the largest high school R. O. T. C. unit in the country and has 1,100 alumni in military service.

Winners of gold medals were Jerome McLennon, William Freeman, Arthur Bitsky, George Woods, Jacob Nachnowicz, James Powers, Raymond Robinette, and Joseph Nazzarella. Tribune silver medals were won by Clair Murphy, Charles Purcell, Raymond Cauwels, Bernard Finnegan, and Christy Chivian. Philip Maxwell of The Tribune editorial staff presented the awards.

Preceding the presentation, cadets formed a star and the numerals 26, representing the 26 alumni killed in action. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Frank A. Purcell, pastor of St. Mel's parish, led a prayer. Platoons led by Sgt. Raymond Flynn and Capt. Gustave Lamesch won honors in unit competition. Brother James Luke is principal of St. Mel's and Maj. John F. Gardiner is professor of military science and tactics.

NO COMMENT FROM DE VALERA ON CHURCHILL

DUBLIN, Eire, May 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Eire had no comment tonight on Prime Minister Churchill's assertion that Britain "would have been forced to come to close quarters" with neutral Eire during the blockade of 1941 except for the friendship of Northern Ireland, the Eire government information bureau announced. Eire's dail meets Wednesday and it was considered possible de Valera might reply to Churchill then.

MOSCOW TURNS WAR OF NERVES AGAINST TURKS

Reds Believed Seeking Leftist Ring

BY CLAY GOWRAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 11—Delayed]—Stalin has been training the Kremlin's big guns on Turkey for months as a major move in what is regarded as his campaign to ring Russia with a chain of nations ruled by left wing governments—either completely subservient or at least friendly to Russia.

Thus far President Ismet Inonu's rightist and rabidly anti-communist administration has withstood the strain, but now that the German war is over observers expect Russian pressure to be increased.

Control of Turkey is strategically vital to Russia for Turkey rules the Dardanelles straits. Russia has tried vainly for scores of year to gain dominance of this outlet to the Mediterranean from the Black sea which has virtually become a Russian mill pond. Today, more powerful than ever before, she can be expected to make an all-out bid for control.

Springboard to Balkans

Turkey also is the most convenient jumping off place for any move into the Balkans, militarily or otherwise. Russia can be counted to do everything in its power to neutralize such a strategically placed springboard. Stalin is expected to overlook nothing in his drive to whip Turkey into line with the leftist Balkan front he is now building.

Turkey is plainly worried. Uneasiness extends from government authorities to the man, in the street. There is a growing suspicion that in the event of a concrete diplomatic threat by Russia, Turkey could expect little help from either Britain or the United States. The feeling is increasing that Russia is gaining dominance politically and diplomatically over the big allies in this part of the world.

The only real step Russia has taken against Turkey so far was the denunciation of the Turko-Russian treaty of friendship and neutrality on March 21. The psychological campaign of fear began before that. Russia employs regular radio broadcasts in Turkish beamed to Turkey from Moscow. It's the same technique Hitler used before the war but the Kremlin has given it a deft, new twist.

Threats by Implication

Russian commentators never hurl verbal broadsides directly against the government or officials. Instead, Moscow throws them at certain Turkish newspaper editors known thruout this nation to be spokesmen or champions of the Inonu administration. The Turks catch the implication.

Typical is the case of Huseyin Cahit Yalcin, editor of the Istanbul conservative paper, Tanin. Yalcin has editorialized spiritedly against a Balkan front the Russians are fostering. He also struck back against the Russian fear campaign. His editorial of April 10 said: "The Russians understand perfectly Turkey is not a nation liberated from invasion nor a country occupied by them. They also know how sensitive we are with respect to our authority and independence. Consequently she certainly would not wish to create a situation by formulating inacceptable demands. If Russia wishes to discuss the straits [Dardanelles] we are prepared to talk over the matter with all interested nations. If she demands pledges of nonaggression and friendship we are only too happy to furnish them. Our policy with regard to the soviet union is clear and decisive. Unlimited friendship on condition there will not be the slightest sacrifice of our national dignity and rights."

Moscow Lashes Out

Two days later Moscow struck back. "Yalcin invents dirty calumnies," the Moscow radio said, "and says small countries freed by the Red army and its allies are now coming under a new yoke. Thus, reactionary circles wish to create differences between nations of southeastern Europe. There is no doubt these tricks of the reactionaries are condemned to failure."

Referring to the pact just signed between Russia and Yugoslavia, the Moscow radio said it would be a corner stone of peace in the Balkans.

"The strengthening of Balkan solidarity will henceforth prevent every game of provocation and trick of reactionary circles and agents of Yalcin type who are puppets of foreign interests," continued the Moscow radio.

40 TO 60 BODIES FOUND IN MILAN EVERY MORNING

BY P. E. BRIQUET
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, May 13—Forty to 60 bodies of persons killed during the night are found every morning in the streets of Milan, according to dispatches from Italy tonight. In Como, 10 to 15 dead are found almost daily, another dispatch said.

The killings throw light on the situation which the allied occupation forces faced when the Milan military authorities ordered all arms surrendered by midnight May 13.

The order was officially issued and signed by the Italian commander in Milan, Gen. Fadella, but it specifies that all those disobeying the order are to be prosecuted by the allied military court.

Some of the automobiles which lined S. Harlem av. yesterday in a jam that extended for miles.

Highways about Chicago took on a pre-war appearance yesterday as motorists turned out in the greatest volume since 1941. It was the first Sunday since V-E day, the weather was mild and clear after several rainy week-ends, and it was Mother's day. In addition, the air show at the Chicago airport attracted thousands of visitors.

State and county highway police reported numerous cars from Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan were on the highways. Roads leading to the lake district northwest bore one one of the heaviest loads of cars. In Harlem and Cicero avs., principal thorofares to the airport, automobiles were lined up for miles in some sections.

Sun bathers appeared along the lake front in force, altho the highest temperature was 72 degrees and breezes off the lake were cool. Bridle paths and bicycle lanes were in full use.

Throngs of persons visited the parks. More than 13,000 visited the Brookfield zoo where the elephants, lions, tigers, and monkeys were in their outdoor habitats.

William Teufel, 1429 Van Buren st., a medical instrument salesman, told police last night that burglars broke into his automobile parked in front of his house and took equipment valued at $1,000.

BRITISH ORDER EACH GERMAN TO GIVE UP A SUIT

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN GERMANY, May 13 [Reuters]—The British military government has ordered every German man, woman, and child in the Lueneburg province of north Germany to provide a complete suit of clothing for surviving Belsen horror camp inmates, and also germes, knitting materials, and other welfare material. A similar levy is to be made thruout the west German province of Westphalia on the "road back" for tens of thousands of former slaves returning to Belgium, Holland, and France, Col. C. O. Wood, military governor of Lueneburg, disclosed today.

"This is part of our scheme to make the lot of displaced persons in clothing, housing, and general living conditions better than that of the Germans," Col. Wood said.

Germany is expected to be cleared of displaced persons by th end of March, 1946, with the exception of the "stateless" category, who are being housed in a great camp at Lingen on the Ems. Col. Wood stated that any one could elect to be "stateless" and the numbers so far included a large proportion of Polish and German Jews.

URGE AUSTRALIA TO BOOST WORK WEEK TO 48 HRS.

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 13 [Reuters] — Members of the Australian cabinet have suggested an increase in working hours from 44 to 48 hours a week for the fight against Japan.

At a conference here of cabinet ministers and trade unionists, Joseph B. Chifley, acting prime minister, said he thanked 98 per cent of the trade unionists for their cooperation during the war, but pointed out the loss of prestige thru unnecessary industrial stoppages.

HOW HITLER FOE BROUGHT AID TO NOTED CAPTIVES

Peace Plotter Fled Dachau in Camp Chief's Car

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, Bavaria, May 13 — To escape from the camp at Dachau alive was a feat in itself. To escape in the camp commander's car, liberate your own wife, and obtain American help in time to save the lives of fellow prisoners scheduled to be shot within 24 hours — that was the exploit of Dr. Lothan Rohde, a prominent radio expert who also was on the executioner's list.

He and his wife spent months in the same prison with Pastor Niemoeller, Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, former French Premier Leon Blum, and other elite of Hitler's enemies in Dachau.

They made the prison break after promising to do everything in their power to guide the Americans toward these men and women, some of whom were reaching the breaking point after long years of imprisonment.

I found Rohde and his remarkably beautiful wife, Gisela, in their villa at Munich to which they returned a few days ago after seven months under the shadow of death in the Dachau concentration camp. Mrs. Rohde was the daughter of Prof. Franz Fischer, co-originator of the famous Fischer-Tropsch synthetic fuel process.

Contacts British

After the attempt of the German militarists to kill Hitler July 20 failed, Rohde and his friends decided to seek other means of securing a compromise peace to save Germany from annihilation. Rohde, who is 38 and one of the outstanding experts in scientific research on wireless, established contact by radio with the British secret service from his plant at Wolnzach, near Ingolstadt.

As a scientific advisor of the British General Electric company he had many friends in England and succeeded in getting a reply from England Sept. 3. He was arrested Sept. 13.

Two Gestapo men beat him two hours with whips but he was able to keep the names of his associates a secret. His wife, when taken prisoner, was beaten over the head with a tennis racket and severely injured. His parents, who are in their seventies, were arrested in Munich and their treatment was especially harsh since his mother is a Jewess.

The Nazis decided they needed Rohde's technical knowledge more than they did another corpse and sent him to Dachau with orders to carry out experiments for the detection of approaching enemy aircraft.

Meets Noted Prisoners

Rohde was lodged in the section reserved for prominent prisoners where his wife also was interned. They met Niemoeller, Schuschnigg and his wife and child, Blum and his wife, Hjalmar Schacht, and Catholic dignitaries including the French bishop of Clermont-Farrand, and Fritz Thyssen, who was a broken man. Gen. Franz Halder, former chief of staff of the German armies, also at Dachau, said he and his wife were in the camp because "more than two years ago I told that scoundrel Hitler that hostilities must cease—we were no longer waging war but organized mass murder."

In the days before the outbreak of the war Halder had been outspoken in his criticism of Hitler, even in the presence of this correspondent. When the Germans suffered defeat in Russia he demanded a cessation of hostilities.

"Hitler never took an active part in planning any of our campaigns," said Halder in Dachau. "He merely told us the date he wanted a city taken—Moscow, for instance. If all the generals remonstrated he would say he might alter the timetable. Then he would leave and send his orders in writing."

"Too Good to Belgians"

Gen. von Falkenhausen was among the prisoners because he had been "too good to the Belgians." There were also secret service agents, two Britishers, whom the Germans seized in 1939 on the Dutch border claiming they had ordered an attempt on Hitler's life in Munich in November, 1939.

Since Rhode was expected to invent radio equipment he had access to the wireless and was able to glean news which his fellow prisoners wanted almost as badly as food. Niemoeller succeeded in getting permission to read services to some of the prominent prisoners and while he was preaching Rohde would scribble the latest reports on the backs of the hymnals.

How He Got Car

As the Americans approached, Rohde succeeded in getting a fake paper ordering the release of his wife. The day after she left he organized his own break.

A chauffeur-guard, assigned to protect the camp commander, Weiter, a murderous Schutzstaffel [SS] chief, was a former soldier who was anxious to get away from the Schutzstaffel. The commander himself was ready to flee and for that purpose kept a powerful car in camp.

Instead of the commander, Rohde stepped into the car April 26 and drove off with all the belongings of the chauffeur. He rescued his wife from her hideout in a brewery. They hid for a day while Dachau was in an uproar. The Nazis moved the prominent prisoners southward still hoping to use them as hostages.

The next night Rohde got at the radio equipment at Erding which had been seized by anti-Nazis and succeeded in contacting the Americans. He urged them to over-run Dachau before the Nazis could kill more victims and told the Americans which roads were clear for an advance.

Among the last victims of the Dachau executioners was a Dr. Rascher who was compelled to carry out scientific experiments on living beings in his research on the coagulation of blood, Rohde said.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

May 13, 1945

IF you have always had a secret admiration for the man who names Pullman cars, please consider the case of the herdsman at the Wheaton farm.

One of his many jobs is to pick names for calves of the Guernsey dairy cattle, the Aberdeen-Angus herd, and the Shorthorn herd. With new calves being born almost every month he runs out of names and admits it is a trying task to find new ones.

Welcomes Reader Aid

Recently he had the task of naming the 22 Angus heifer calves. After much cogitation, he decided to give all of them names beginning with A. The next bunch of black calves, due to start arriving this month, could then be given names beginning with B, and so on for the next 26 years, he reasoned.

The first few names starting with A came quickly but it was three days before he completed the job. All of the names carry the first name Cantigny, designating the farm. Here are the names used:

Cantigny's Adaline, Adela, Adelaide, Adrienne, Antonia, Agnes, Antoinette, Alice, Alma, Anna, Anita, Ada, Ann, Alyne, Amelia, Angelica, Allie, Annette, Amy, Anne, and Azalea.

The herdsman soon will have to think up some 20 names beginning with B. Any reader wishing to suggest a name starting with the letter B should send it to the farm editor at THE TRIBUNE and it will be passed on to the herdsman.

Improves Pastures

The herdsman has been doing a little pasture improvement work in the last few days. A small quantity of broom grass seed was on hand and it was scattered thruout the dairy pastures. Broadcast on the top of the ground, the seed will have to work its way into the soil naturally. The recent rains helped this process.

If possible one small strip of land will be put into Sudan grass for the cows. Sudan grass makes an excellent midsummer pasture. When the bluegrass and clover have been dried out and turned brown by the heat of July and August, the Sudan remains green and succulent.

The FARM by Ben Markland

THE tender and semi-tender vegetables still to be planted in most gardens in the Chicago area include tomatoes, lima beans, bush beans, sweet corn, peppers, eggplant and all vine crops, including cucumbers, squash, and melons. Many gardeners already have planted snap beans, altho May 15 is the usual safe date for both the bush and pole type beans. First plantings of sweet corn also have been made in many gardens, and the light frosts of last week apparently have not damaged the seeds. Because of the cool weather during the first 10 days of May, most experienced gardeners delayed major plantings of sweet corn and plan to put them in this week.

May 20 to 25 is the earliest recommended period for transplanting tomatoes. Peppers and eggplants can go into the ground at the same time. Lima beans will not stand light frost or cool soil, and should not be seeded until after May 20. This same date also is the earliest recommended time for planting any of the vine crop seeds.

Yanks Make Nazis Bury Gestapo Victims in Ruhr

RATINGEN, May 13 (AP)—Chaplain William Swoope, Lebanon, Pa., read the funeral service today over the graves of 11 German political prisoners who had been slain by the Gestapo and SS troops in the last days of the Ruhr trap. The bodies were carried to their new graves by leading Nazis of Ratingen, under an American guard.

FRANCE HONORS JOAN OF ARC AS 'FIRST PARTISAN'

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 13—The French paid homage today to their national heroine of five centuries, Joan of Arc, who was hailed as the "first of the resistants" in military, religious, and popular ceremonies.

Fetes to Joan used to be stressed chiefly by the French royalists, who are out of favor today. In Joan's home town, Domremy, the ceremonies were simple. The prefect spoke, and the children sang the Marseillaise.

In Paris, her gilded bronze statue, untouched by the Germans during the occupation, was a mass of flowers, and her blue and white flag was painted on the streets and balconies.

De Gaulle Places Wreath

In a military ceremony Gen. De Gaulle, accompanied by Andre Dietheim, the war minister, placed a wreath at the foot of the statue. Then there was music by military bands and a parade of troops, after which De Gaulle placed a palm on the Clemenceau statue. He also visited Marshal Foch's tomb.

In historical Notre Dame cathedral, decorated with Joan's colors, religious ceremonies were held, presided over by Cardinal Suhard, archbishop of Paris, before an immense crowd.

Gen. De Gaulle did not attend the religious ceremonies, but was represented by Rene Capitant, minister of education, and the minister of national defense.

Paper Attacks Cardinal

Under the heading "Cardinal Suhard, friend of the Germans, cannot receive the chief of government," the Socialist paper Populaire said this morning it had "learned with astonishment that Gen. De Gaulle, surrounded by official personalities, would be received in Notre Dame cathedral by Cardinal Suhard."

"The scandalous role played by this prelate during the occupation," the paper added, "should deprive him of the honor of receiving French resistant No. 1 and chief of government. This manifestation, had it taken place, could only have aroused the anger of all patriot and republican Paris."

RUSSIANS SEEK QUICK ACTION ON WAR CRIMINALS

Fear Many Are Hiding in Neutral Countries

MOSCOW, May 13 (AP)—Quick arraignment of Heinrich Himmler, Hermann Goering, Franz von Papen and Rudolf Hess as war criminals and a stepped-up man hunt for other missing Nazis appears today to be the chief concern of the Russians.

The Russians openly expressed themselves as believing many Nazis will be found hiding in Switzerland, Spain, Sweden, and Argentina.

Suspicion persists here that it will take stern measures on the part of the allied nations to ferret out war criminals in these countries. The press over the week-end showed itself openly in favor of the swiftest action thruout the world in handling them.

Writing on trends in the Turkish, Swedish, and Spanish press, the "Observer" in Izvestia today accused certain sections of the foreign press of propaganda tricks which "reveal what difficulties the united nations will meet in their efforts to punish war criminals."

Hits at Vatican

"Observer" spoke of advocates of leniency to war criminals and declared that "at the head of these advocates stands the Vatican, which in the darkest years of the war never raised its voice against Hitler's barbarism."

As for two of the war criminals, Hitler and Goebbels, the Russians have never announced they were satisfied that the bodies found in Berlin were those of the fallen fuehrer and his propagandist.

But belief is strengthened here that they may now be dead.

All photographs of the bodies, together with various other evidence, are undergoing the closest scrutiny and it perhaps may be some time yet before a definite announcement is made.

Himmler Arrest Unconfirmed

PARIS, May 13 (AP)—An officer returned from the front today said Heinrich Himmler, sinister executioner of the Nazi reich, was in allied custody after being held under house arrest by Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, but supreme headquarters declared it had "no confirmation of the rumor."

The officer reported Doenitz had held Himmler since just before the negotiations began for Germany's final surrender, and that he now was in the hands of troops of Field Marshal Montgomery's 21st army group.

"Supreme headquarters has issued no statement regarding the whereabouts of Himmler," an official announcement said. "It has no confirmation of the rumor reporting his capture."

[BBC Correspondent Chester Wilmot said yesterday that Himmler "is still at large" and "there is little doubt that Himmler is still in the area which surrendered to [Marshal] Montgomery 10 days ago. Officers of the German high command have seen Himmler within the last few days and declared that he was hiding nearby, guarded by SS troops. Presumably, Himmler has not yet been picked up because his hideout is in the area not yet taken over by our troops."]

With Reichsmarshal Goering a captive, Himmler and former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop are the top remaining members of the Nazi hierarchy to be accounted for—if Hitler and Propaganda Minister Goebbels actually are dead.

Goering's Thievery Told

NEUSCHWANSTEIN CASTLE, Germany, May 13 (AP)—United States 7th army authorities have uncovered — over the fat-fisted reichsmarshal's own signature—sufficient evidence to convict Hermann Goering as one of the biggest thieves the world has ever known.

Here in this gaudy graystone castle, investigators found sheafs of correspondence between Goering and Alfred Rosenberg, minister of civil administration in eastern occupied areas, explaining in minute detail just how his men were to go about looting museums.

A small fraction of the booty is here. Paintings, statues, silver, and jewels worth millions of dollars are under guard of the United States 10th armored division while officers begin the long task of identifying each object and returning it to its owner.

Many came from the Rothschild collection in Paris. Others came from Kiev and from Belgium. Among the oils are Rembrandts, Reynolds, Van Dycks, Bonheurs, Murillos, Rousseaus, Gainsboroughs, and Moreaus. Various objects cram this castle to its attic.

But the biggest find is a four page letter from Goering to Rosenberg, dated Nov. 21, 1940, in which the luftwaffe boss raved over the beauty of art objects he had found in France and insisted they must be brought to Germany.

RUSSIANS CLEAR AUSTRIA AND CZECH SECTOR

1,060,000 Prisoners Taken in East

LONDON, May 14 [Monday]—(AP)—Four Russian armies liberated the remainder of Czechoslovakia and Austria from the last main bodies of Nazi diehards yesterday—five days after fanatical German troops violated Germany's surrender and fought against the Red army, Moscow disclosed.

Some minor scattered and inconsequential forces possibly remained, but Moscow's bulletin last night announced surrender of 360,000 Nazi troops on all sectors during the previous 24 hours and said the 1st, 2d, 3d, and 4th Ukrainian armies had closed in on German holdout positions in the woods of Czechoslovakia and Austria's high Alpine regions and "were clearing the occupied area of isolated German troop groupings."

Prisoner Toll Rises

The enemy forces under command of Field Marshal Ferdinand Schoerner and Col. Gen. Otto Woehler had resisted Germany's unconditional surrender since Tuesday.

Neither Schoerner nor Woehler was reported among the generals seized and the rebellious leaders presumably were still at large.

While the last remnants of Germany's "middle army group" were rounded up from the forests and mountains of Bohemia and northern Austria, Moscow announced that the total number of prisoners taken since Tuesday had swelled to 1,060,000. Ninety-one German generals were taken in the same period.

The gigantic bag boosted to 2,860,000 the number of German troops killed or captured since the Red army's end-the-war offensive began Jan. 12.

In nearly four years of war, the Russians have announced the killing or capture of more than 12,600,000 Nazi troops.

SS Chief Gives Up

Among those surrendering to Marshal Malinovsky's 2d Ukrainian army in Bohemia after a fruitless five day attempt at a post-surrender war was the commander of the 3d SS "Death's Head" tank division, a Maj. Backer.

Malinovsky's army and the troops of Gen. Konev's 1st Ukrainian army; Gen. Yeremenko's 4th Ukrainian group and Marshal Tolbukhin's 3d Ukrainian outfit took a huge quantity of war equipment in the last day's roundup in Czechoslovakia and Austria, Moscow said.

The massive haul relinquished by the surrendering Germans included 1,258 planes, 1,842 tanks, and 6,618 field guns.

Mother's Day Observed by Yanks in England

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 13—American service men thruout England today celebrated Mothers' day in bases, hospitals and redeployment establishments. YANKS IN ITALY SUGGEST MORE COMBAT CREDIT

WITH THE U. S. 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, May 13 (AP)—American troops in Italy think the going home point system is all right as far as it goes, but some combat infantrymen were of the opinion today that it doesn't go far enough. They suggested:

Award 5 or 10 points for the combat infantryman's badge.

Award an extra point for each month's service with a front line rifle company.

Check Ordnance for Duty in Pacific

BY LARRY RUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, May 13 — Immense stores of ordnance, equipment, and other war materiel captured from the enemy will be used as required for military purposes and the rest will be pooled eventually between the various allies. This is the opinion of military officials here.

Gen. Sayler

Maj. Gen. Henry B. Sayler, chief ordnance officer in the European theater, is checking over the materiel to determine its uses here or in the Pacific. Sayler had charge of what is the most amazing ordnance job in the history of warfare, supplying five American and one French army with the most and best equipment with which any armies ever have fought.

American ordnance kept ahead of the enemy in constantly designing new equipment, Sayler told THE TRIBUNE. However, he didn't intend that the American armies, like those in the last war, would leave large stocks of their own equipment in Europe.

Disposition of Surplus

"Enough ordnance will remain in Europe to meet the requirements of our forces of occupation," he said. "The bulk of our army equipment will be kept by us for our own needs. Much will be required in the Pacific while some must be kept as reserve stocks in the United States."

The 51 year old major general is responsible for many innovations in ordnance such as the organization of teams of skilled technicians attached to all armies. These teams were occupied principally with getting information on all enemy weapons, shells, and ammunition at the front and rushing models or drawings, with reports on their value and effectiveness, back to ordnance intelligence bases.

The Germans have no equipment which American ordnance will lift, like the Tiger tank or the German machine gun.

"The Tiger tank," Sayler said, "is a very good defensive weapon but lacks mobility and maneuverability for offensive action and our weapons are designed for offense. But even for defense our new 90 mm. gun on the Pershing tank, which was produced just at the end of the war, is capable of knocking out the Tiger and did so repeatedly without suffering any damage under equal conditions."

First Use of Pershings

He mentioned how the Pershings were first used in the capture of Cologne and how a Tiger dug in near the Cologne cathedral was knocked out by the first shot from a Pershing tank. One tank took on three Tigers and knocked out all three without damage to itself. Of the 51 Pershing tanks brought into action since Cologne, 48 are still operating.

"In our tank construction—in practically every type of weapon we used—and the fuse setter which we got off enemy records and improved on, we took ideas or designs we thought were good from the enemy. Our adaptations were done immediately so that now we are actually way ahead of anything the Germans had in the final battles."

There were possibilities, however, that something new might be found in Hillersleben, near Brunswick, which is said to be the largest ordnance proving ground in the world.

This proving ground was captured intact by the 9th army and Sayler immediately sent there our greatest ordnance technicians.

70 Per Cent for Pacific

ROME, May 13 (AP)—Undersecretary Robert P. Patterson said today the war department hoped to salvage 70 per cent of the army equipment in Europe for use in the Pacific war.

3,265 Germans Reach New York as Prisoners

New York, May 13 [Special]—Another revised edition of the master race went on record here today with the arrival of 3,265 members of the beaten German Wehrmacht. These prisoners, like others brought ashore here since V-E day, were dirty, bedraggled, dejected—and anti-Nazi. Among them were 28 officers, including a Prussian colonel. They were the first Nazis of rank to get here since the capitulation. Rank-and-file prisoners ranged in age from 14 to 65.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Pauline Hershey, Staunton, Macoupin county.]

THE QUESTION

What act of absentmindedness on your part caused you a great deal of embarrassment?

WHERE ASKED

Comiskey baseball park.

THE ANSWERS

Louis Bond, usher, 4802 Bernard st.—After our work is done we change from our uniform to street clothes. One night I was in a hurry to get out and forgot to remove my braided usher's hat. My fellow ushers noticed it, but didn't tell me about it. When I got on a street car the conductor said, "Playing soldier, sonny?"

John Regan, policeman, 7604 Evans av.—I was watching an exciting ball game. Right in the middle of it I recalled that I was supposed to be at the railroad station instead. I had promised my cousin faithfully that I would meet her train from New York. When I arrived two hours late, she was nearly in tears.

Dave Leahy, electrician, 923 S. Humphrey av., Oak Park—On April 21 I was to give my daughter away in marriage. I started dressing and couldn't remember what I had done with my collar buttons. I had put them in a special place and forgot it. I was 20 minutes late for her wedding.

James Mannix, scoreboard operator, 2612 Wallace st.—Three weeks before my wife's birthday I heard my children talking about it. I was glad they'd mentioned it, but by the time the date arrived I forgot about it. I had to rush out late at night to buy her a box of candy, so I'd keep out of the doghouse.

Joseph Holloway, usher, 6551 University av.—I was appointed to take care of a notable personality at the ball game and to make sure he was properly seated, as he was the guest of honor. I forgot about him, much to my embarrassment. He was taken care of after he explained who he was, but I certainly fell down on the job.

John King, usher, 3614 Normal av.—I never realized how much embarrassment eight cents could cause me until I got onto a street car without a penny in my pocket. I had changed my clothes and forgot to transfer my wallet. Some one yelled, "That's just a stall." I was put off at the next stop.

BELGIAN PAPERS WARNED TO STOP RUMORS ON KING

BRUSSELS, May 13 (AP)—Premier Achille Van Acker, announcing today that King Leopold would not return to Brussels for some time because of ill health, threatened to crack down on some Belgian newspapers which he said had "spread false rumors about the king."

The premier said he would take strong measures against the newspapers if they persisted in "speculating wildly and spreading untruths about this difficult and important constitutional problem."

The Belgian public became excited a week ago over the prospective return of the king, who was liberated near Strobl, 8 miles east of Salzburg, by United States 7th army troops. There has been speculation that the king might abdicate in favor of his heir, 14 year old Prince Baudouin, with Prince Charles, the king's brother, continuing as regent.

Deprived of Throne

The Belgian cabinet in exile in Paris approved an order on May 30, 1940, depriving Leopold of his throne "in the name of the Belgian people." His brother was installed as regent last Sept. 21, by the Belgian parliament and leftist groups assert that under the constitution it is up to parliament to decide whether Leopold is in a position to fulfill his constitutional duties.

As a constitutional monarch Leopold has a role very similar to the position of the crown in the United Kingdom. He has the right to veto legislation—but he does not exercise it. He is the supreme executive—but he exercises his control thru the cabinet, which in turn is responsible for all acts of government to the chamber of representatives.

He appoints his ministers, according to the constitution, but since they are responsible to the chamber of representatives they are generally the choice of the representatives.

Rules But Does Not Govern

In principle, a constitutional king rules but does not govern.

The king's decision not to return to Belgium immediately was announced by Van Acker, after he and other members of a delegation conferred with Leopold at Salzburg. The premier released the text of a letter from Leopold to Prince Charles dated May 12 in which he said:

"My dear brother, after the long captivity I have endured, my state of health prevents me from returning to Belgium at once.

"I have much regret in not being with my people immediately after my liberation. During my detention all my thoughts have been constantly with them. I beg of you to continue until my return the pursuit of the mission which you have accepted in the interests of the nation."

Not a Diplomatic Illness

Asked if this was not a "diplomatic illness," Van Acker replied that Leopold really was not well after nine months detention in a fortress under SS guards who menaced him on several occasions. The anguish of the alternating hope and despair of being freed was bad for the king, the premier said.

Van Acker said the talks with Leopold took place near Salzburg with each delegate being received separately by the king and subsequently all together. No suggestion or proposition of any kind was made to Leopold in the name of the government, Van Acker said.

The premier said he did not know whether or when Leopold would return to Belgium.

He said the royal children were with their father, and in good health. He said reports that the king was suffering from an eye ailment were not true.

Seven Persons Are Hurt in Crash of Street Cars

Seven persons were injured yesterday when a crowded 59th st. car crashed into a standing street car at Leavitt st. Most severely injured were Martias Auskits, 72, of 1820 Canalport av., and James Julian, 67, of 5947 Loomis blvd., who are in Southtown hospital. Five others were sent home after they were treated in the hospital. C. L. Howard, Negro motorman aboard the moving car, said brakes on his car failed to hold when he tried to stop.

"It's the Only Head of Hair You Have"

Your head of hair has to last you all your life and once gone, it is gone forever. We will not and never have accepted anyone for treatment who had lost their hair. Dandruff scales, dull and dingy hair or excessive falling hair can be the signs of poor scalp hygiene. Over a period of years, thousands of men and women have placed their hair problems in our hands and we have tried to show to the best of our ability that this confidence was justified. Proper care of your hair and scalp may pay real dividends several years from now.

We suggest that you ask any man or woman who has been a client of ours about the Warner method of hair and scalp control. A consultation at any of our offices is always without charge or obligation. We will give you our opinion as to whether we feel that we can help you. The treatments which you may elect to take are paid for as you take them. PARLEY LOCKED OVER REGIONAL DEFENSE PLANS

Britain Rejects Proposed U. S. Compromise

China—Eden, on the eve of his departure demanded amendments to the league charter under which the British commonwealth of nations could act collectively to repel aggression independently of the peace league.

Britain Asks Similar Right

Eden refused to approve the United States delegation's proposed compromise of the controversy over independent Pan-American enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine until the right of similar action by the British empire should be recognized. The American delegates modified their formula to meet Eden's demands and submitted it at another session of the Big Five last night.

Eden still found the compromise unsatisfactory from the viewpoint of British interest and no further approach to agreement had been accomplished when he took a plane for Washington today leaving Ambassador Halifax to head the British delegation.

Bidault withheld approval of the American formula, insisting on the French proviso of independent action for defense if the league fails to function.

Chinese Support United States

Russian Ambassador Gromyko said he would transmit the American proposal to Moscow for instructions. Molotov already had procured an amendment permitting the soviet union and allied countries to act for defense independently of the league.

Chinese Ambassador Koo supported the American position in the main.

In the original American compromise proposal, drafted by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], Comdr. Stassen, and John Foster Dulles, adviser to the American delegation, there was no mention of the Monroe Doctrine. The only instrumentality mentioned was the act of Chapultepec, adopted by the American republics at Mexico City a few months ago, to provide for collective enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine and for dealing with intra-American disputes and aggression.

Eden objected to any mention of the act of Chapultepec as too closely localizing the right of regional collective defense in the western hemisphere. He wanted a provision that would apply to any region in which British possessions are situated. The United States delegates strove in vain to impress him with the argument that Canada would benefit from any collective action taken under the act of Chapultepec to repeal an aggression upon this hemisphere.

Seek to Appease Nationalists

The Americans, who had avoided any mention of the Monroe Doctrine, were insistent on retaining reference to the act of Chapultepec in deference to its authors, the Latin-American countries, which certainly never would agree to the proposed compromise if it were omitted. The United States delegates also deemed it important to retain mention of the act of Chapultepec in order to appease nationalists in the United States senate when the new league charter should be submitted for ratification.

So the Americans took their compromise away and a few hours later resubmitted it to Eden in revised form. In this form it was divided into two parts in the first of which, relating to international disputes and threats of aggression short of actual attack, the act of Chapultepec was mentioned as an instrumentality for peace preservation in this hemisphere. In the second part authorizing independent action to repel aggression under the inherent right of self defense, which would apply to any part of the globe, the act of Chapultepec was not mentioned. Eden still thought mention of Chapultepec should be eliminated from the first section also.

Platform for Both Sides

The American compromise was designed to provide a platform on which both internationalists and nationalists could stand together—the internationalists, who favor the subordination of the Monroe doctrine to Dumbarton Oaks, and the nationalists, who hold for the right of the United States to enforce the Monroe doctrine against an aggressor in this hemisphere without reference to any international peace league.

In its revised form, the American compromise would operate in five phases as follows:

1. In the case of a dispute betweeen American countries, action for settlement and prevention of war would be taken by the American republics under the act of Chapultepec without reference to the peace league.

Big Four Holds Veto

2. If such efforts to settle the dispute should prove fruitless and any country should petition the league to act, the security council could take jurisdiction and employ regional agencies to effect a settlement. Such action, however, could be vetoed by any one of the Big Five.

3. If the dispute still remained unsettled and an attack on any nation in this hemisphere from any quarter, within or outside of the region, were threatened, the league's security council could invoke political, economic, or military sanctions against the aggressor.

At this stage the council would have exclusive authority to act; the American republics would be debarred from acting independently in their defense from aggression. Such action by the council, however, could be vetoed by a Big Five nation.

Right of Self-Defense

4. If an attack actually occurs on any nation in this hemisphere from any source whatsoever the United States and other American republics could act to repel the aggression without reference to the league under the inherent right of self-defense. They would act collectively under the act of Chapultepec.

5. If the security council should be rendered impotent to act by a veto in the second or third stages the veto might be withdrawn later, whereupon the council by unanimous consent of the Big Five would be able to take jurisdiction and act to prevent war.

The recognized weakness of the formula is that the procedures provided admit of such delay in action that a would-be aggressor would be enabled to mass forces against a nation in this hemisphere before the American republics would be permitted to act in their own defense.

Weakness of League

The recognized weakness of the league lies in the veto power of any of the big five nations. By this veto power the league could be rendered impotent to act to preserve peace. As a result there is a resort to regional and other independent means of defense against aggression. This trend may reduce the league to a mere shadow of the international agency to preserve peace ensians at Dumbarton Oaks.

Eden in objecting to the American compromise as a regional arrangement which would not apply to any part of the British empire except Canada held forth at great length on the theme that an attack on any British possession is an attack on Great Britain. He wanted Great Britain to have the same right to act in self defense independently of the league that the American republics would have.

The veto power which can vitiate the league's powers to preserve peace was demanded by the Russvisioned by its authors.

At Yalta, Mr. Roosevelt produced a compromise which provided the veto power demanded by Russia with a slight variation denying a vote on peaceful measures for settling an international dispute to any nation that might be a party thereto.

On the employment of armed force or economic sanctions unanimous action of the Big Five was required, hence any one of them would have a veto.

URGES AMERICA SAVE PEOPLE OF FINLAND FROM A HARSH PEACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 13—State Secretary Stettinius today was asked to help get Finland the justice promised by the international conference before the "unbelievably harsh" armistice terms imposed by Russia shall end Finland's existence as a democratic nation.

The plea came from Carl O. Alexander, vice chairman of an organization of 150,000 Americans of Finnish descent. Alexander charged the Finnish people are being starved and denied medical supplies, altho aid provided by American citizens and organizations is available in neutral Sweden.

CHICAGO FLYER KILLED IN CRASH OF ARMY PLANE

Mitchel Field, N. Y., May 13 (AP)—A seven passenger twin engine army transport, with only its pilot aboard, crashed today into Great South bay on the south shore line of Long Island.

Mitchel field authorities said first reports indicated the craft exploded either before or after hitting the water. Wreckage was scattered over a 500 square yard area, including the beach. The pilot was believed lost.

He was identified by field authorities thru an army identification card found floating on the water as 1st Lt. Burton E. Goldstein, 29, formerly of 919 Margate court, Chicago, Ill. His wife, the former Loretta Fischer of Chicago, lives at New Hyde Park, N. Y. Lt. Goldstein is a veteran of the South Pacific warfare.

The plane was en route to Mitchel field from Albany, N. Y., authorities said.

In Frankfort-on-Main

The recent capture of Frankfort-on-Main brings back a lot of memories. It reminds us, too, that there lived in Frankfort, in the sixteenth century, a man named Vincentius Obsopoeus. He wrote three books in Latin on "The Art of Drinking." We have, here at Schenley, an English translation which appeared in a journal sponsored by one of America's leading Universities. We wish that we had sufficient space to give you a good sample from the apparently inspired pen of Vincentius Obsopoeus. But we cannot resist the temptation to quote a few brief excerpts.

Book 1 starts with these lines: "If any of you in this city are ignorant of the art of drinking, read me, and drink more wisely for this garnered skill. . . . We must cultivate Bacchus with skill in order not to drink the pleasant wine crudely, at feasts. Unless Bacchus is worshipped with particular skill, as is proper, the worshipper will see the god angered. For he is as unappeasable as he is naturally peaceful, when he is approached unworthily."

And then, he says: "My spirit doesn't burn at all to write of a crowd of gluttons, who wickedly squander your riches night and day. I sing of the lawful banquet and permissible drinking."

Well, there we have a good preachment on moderation—and we're all for it.

But, let Vincentius Obsopoeus close this column, as he closes his Book 3: ". . . my Muse has no shocking wicked deed to tell. I have pointed out the temperate feasts of a lawful Bacchus, and sometimes the jesting battles of permissible wine. For that reason I am not to be condemned by hostile judges. . . . The game has an end. . . . Give wine to the teacher. For I seek no other reward from you, and while you practice my art . . . , I entreat you, O pupils, remember me!"

PARASITE PRESS CORPS PLAYS AT FRISCO PARLEY

Crackpots and Publicity Hunters Abound

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 13—More than 90 per cent of the 2,500 officially accredited "press and radio" representatives at the world security conference are propaganda agents, political fortune hunters, publicity seekers, and crackpot advocates of forlorn causes, a survey revealed today.

Every one of these pretenders sports the red enameled badge issued by the state department to bona fide news gatherers and carries the "A" press card entitling him to working press arrangements in the opera house and veterans building where the business of the conference is being transacted.

The bearers of these credentials also attend the press conferences of the Big Five and other delegates, buttonhole emissaries for "interviews" and freely indulge themselves in all other privileges extended to the press.

Handicap to the Press

Their activities severely handicap about 300 legitimate newspaper and radiomen in the gathering of information for world-wide dissemination.

Orson Welles, a motion picture notable with known leftist views, has his "personal representative" on the official list approved by the state department. The Democratic national committee has several "observers" on the scene. A number of foreign propaganda agencies, known as "demi-Tass" agents because of their devotion to the principles spread by Tass, the official soviet news association, have been given official indorsement and hamper press conferences by their bellicose questions whenever matters affecting Russia are brought up.

A representative of some small neighborhood newspapers on Chicago's north side has been fully accredited and so have several hundreds of others who obtained letters from editors of little country weeklies or movie magazines or periodicals of the "True Confessions" type.

Some Autograph Seekers

Many of these appear to be here solely for the purpose of annoying delegates for autographs.

There are also scores of agents for such organizations as the leftist "friends of the Spanish republic" who badger the delegates with arguments in behalf of special causes and flood them with mimeographed propaganda.

The state department press relations staff confesses it has made a sad mistake in giving official standing to this corps of special pleaders, arranging railroad transportation and hotel accommodations for them. It was stated that the full list is being given a thoro going-over for the purpose of cleaning out unauthorized news gatherers at the next big parley.

Secretary of State Stettinius is also under fire because of the secrecy in which the main business of the conference is being transacted.

Open to Public, But——

He boasted proudly at the opening that the United States delegation had won its insistence that all plenary and commission sessions would be open to the press and only the committee meetings would be executive. The catch in this arrangement is that after two weeks no commission meetings have been held and the plenary sessions have consisted largely of oratory.

In answer to complaints, "special reporters" started yesterday to report to the press on work done by the committee. These are state department press relations men who cannot be expected to air any developments unfavorable to the objectives of the assembly.

Some one straightened up the papers on the boss' desk. Now he can't find a thing he wants!

MOSCOW RADIO INSISTS 16 POLES SABOTAGED ARMY

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—The Moscow radio declared tonight that disagreement over the "Polish affair" overlooked the Polish people and asserted the problem would be solved on the basis of that people's determination "to be master of its own destiny and live in alliance and friendship with the soviet union."

The broadcast, quoting Pravda, did not mention directly the 16 Polish leaders who were disclosed to be arrested by the soviet government, but it reiterated the charges lodged against them that they had obstructed the Red army.

"Agents of the London Polish government have carried out sabotage acts in the rear of the Red army, the army that at the cost of tremendous sacrifices freed Poland from the yoke of the German-Fascist invaders. Those acts took the lives of more than 100 Red army officers and men," the radio said.

REPORT FRANCE WILLING TO LET U. S. USE BASES

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 13—France stands ready to accord military and aviation facilities of her colonial naval bases to the United States army and navy in time of war or other emergency on a reciprocal basis, it was learned today.

The French government is willing to grant the use of the great port of Dakar on the western hump of Africa nearest South America, the new naval base at Camranh bay, Indo-China, and harbors and airdromes in New Caledonia and the Society Islands [Tahiti] under a bilateral agreement which would permit French military forces similar rights and privileges at American bases in the Panama Canal Zone, at Pearl Harbor, and at such other ports and flying fields as the United States may acquire from Japan in the Pacific.

Unwilling to Cede Areas

Like Great Britain, it was said France is unwilling to cede any territory, or to abandon sovereignty over any of her possessions, and she prefers a mutual agreement applicable only for operations in time of war to leasing constant rights to any particular area. This safeguard precludes the use of any such bases by American forces in any hostilities in which France is not a belligerent or in which she might prefer not to side openly with the United States.

The French delegation here believes this policy will satisfy American desires.

The French government is said to sympathize with Washington's point of view that Dakar's deep water port, only 1,800 miles from Brazil, might become a crucial strategic center in a war which threatened to involve the western hemisphere in which the United States is so vitally committed by the Monroe Doctrine.

A Fight for Prestige

The De Gaulle government is said to be unwilling to accept any unilateral agreements or one-sided pacts which might tend to detract from the nation's position.

Altho it can scarcely be envisaged that France might find herself in position to require naval or aviation bases in Hawaii or at Colon or Cristobal, the Paris government is said to be insisting for reasons of prestige.

40 TO 60 BODIES FOUND IN MILAN EVERY MORNING

BY P. E. BRIQUET
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, May 13—Forty to 60 bodies of persons killed during the night are found every morning in the streets of Milan, according to dispatches from Italy tonight. In Como, 10 to 15 dead are found almost daily, another dispatch said.

The killings throw light on the situation which the allied occupation forces faced when the Milan military authorities ordered all arms surrendered by midnight May 13.

The order was officially issued and signed by the Italian commander in Milan, Gen. Fadella, but it specifies that all those disobeying the order are to be prosecuted by the allied military court.

A railroad's roadbed has a lot to do with travel comfort. A well-built roadbed does away with annoying, sleep-disturbing bumps...like a boat breasting a choppy sea. It gives you "smooth sailing."

The kind of gravel used for roadbed ballast is an important factor. Union Pacific uses a special, sturdy type of crushed granite which stands up particularly well under wartime's heavily loaded freight and passenger trains. Then, too, it acts as a "cushion," resulting in more comfortable riding and less wear on locomotives and cars.

Thus, even the ballast used on the railroad's roadbed plays its part in the efficient, 'round-the-clock transportaticn of troops and essential battle-line freight over Union Pacific's Strategic Middle Route, uniting the East with the Pacific Coast.

* * * *

Future "smooth sailing" over life's highway can be assured by holding tight to the war bonds we now have . . . and, as an extra measure of economic protection, buying as many more as we can possibly afford.

FRISCO SOCIETY TURNS DAZZLE ON FULL BLAST

Lid on Lavishness Lifted for Delegates

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 13 — With all restrictions on formal entertainment removed, the Golden Gate city today prepared to dazzle delegates to the world security conference with a series of lavish receptions and parties in keeping with its famous hospitality.

The 20 guest limit, imposed by the state department on formal affairs during the mourning period for President Roosevelt, ended today.

No less than 600 guests have been invited to the reception Tuesday for all delegates in the palatial Jackson st. home of Mrs. E. S. Heller. Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Grady are joint hosts. Society leaders predict it will be one of the most glittering assemblies in years. Leaders of the five big powers and scores of other notables have accepted invitations.

Tea in MacDuffy Garden

Hundreds of delegates today crossed the bay to Claremont for a tour of gardens in the large homes there, winding up at a tea in the gardens of the Duncan MacDuffy home. South American emissaries were guests of honor at an "international barbecue" staged by Mr. and Mrs. Berrien Anderson at their Sonoma county farm. The more than 100 guests included European and far eastern delegates.

Another group, including nine Liberian delegation members, were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Duveneck at their Hidden Villa ranch in Los Altos.

Australian delegates, including Sen. R. H. Nash, and Belgian delegates, headed by Henri Rolin and Victor de Laveleye, attended the private tennis matches at Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wood's Woodland lodge in Lafayette in which California stars participated.

India Official Feted

A. Ramaswami Mudaliar, member of the governor general's council of India, was the honor guest at a tea given by Mr. and Mrs. George Levison at their Locust st. home. Francois Billoux, French minister of public health, and other French delegates were guests at a cocktail party in the St. Francis Wood home of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Geiger.

A dinner party was given by Mrs. Edward Erie Brownell in honor of Adm. Thierry D'Argenlieu. Guests included Adm. and Mrs. Richard McCullough.

Delegations from Egypt, Iraq, Lebanon, Saudi-Arabia, and Syria were given a formal reception and banquet tonight in the Gold ballroom of the Palace hotel. Huge sculptures in ice, representing a sphinx for Egypt, a mosque for Iran, Cedars of Lebanon for Lebanon, a temple of the sun for Saudi-Arabia, and a shield for Iraq, were a feature. Two tons of ice went into these pieces, which were illuminated on flower covered pedestals.

TRUMAN LEADS U. S. IN PRAYER OF THANKSGIVING

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP)—President Truman led the nation in thanks today for European victory and joined in prayers for world-wide peace.

In a service typical of others held thruout the nation at his request that the German surrender be made an occasion for thanksgiving rather than celebration, he asked strength to "keep us humble in victory."

The President drove to the national naval medical center at Bethesda, Md., to worship with sailors, marines, and WAVES in the chapel there. His 92 year old mother, Mrs. Martha Truman, a guest at the White House after Friday's flight from Grandview, Mo., did not go to the services. "Mama didn't feel up to the trip," Truman told reporters.

Ice Cream Reunion

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Lt. (j. g.) Francis Olson and Mrs. Olson, reunited in Miami, Fla., after her story of his liking ice cream led to discovery of his new address.

Miami, Fla., May 13 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Olson, 25, who flew here from Spokane, Wash., was happily reunited with her navy officer husband today after searching every ice cream parlor in Miami for him.

After a fruitless search yesterday, she said "sooner or later I know I'll find him eating ice cream. You just don't know how that man loves ice cream."

They were brought together by a front page newspaper story after radio stations, the Red Cross, the navy shore patrol, and Miami police had joined in the hunt for the missing husband. Lt. (j. g.) Francis Olson, 27, due to return overseas soon.

Mrs. Olson, a pretty brunette, flew 4,200 miles from Spokane to spend a few days with him. The meeting place was to be the home of an aunt. But the aunt, Mrs. Kelly Blanton, had moved, leaving no forwarding address. Mrs. Blanton read of the ice cream parlor quest and she brought the couple together at a hotel for the reunion.

CAA HEAD BACKS CHICAGO ISLAND AIR PARK PLANS

Proximity to Heart of City Cited

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 13—Plans for an experimental downtown air park in Chicago were indorsed today by T. P. Wright, civil aeronautics administration head, as "exactly the sort of enterprise the aviation industry should be showing."

Wright, in a letter to C. R. Mooney, secretary of the National Aviation Trades association, originator of the project, said that in seeking to prove the value of a landing place near the "business-industrial-banking-hotel center of a city you are attacking the heart of the air transport problem which has been seriously affected all these years by the necessity of locating airports far away from business centers."

"Unless the airplane can pick up its passengers and cargo from points close to their origin, and deliver them close to the final destination, air transport cannot perform its greatest service to the public," he said.

Interested in Experiment

Wright said he believed the lake front area of Chicago presents a promising location for an air park and said the CAA is interested in the experiment to determine the safety of operations from such a downtown strip.

He mentioned in particular a proposed sight on Northerly Island, owned by the Chicago park district. It is at this site that the aviation trades association proposes to encourage nonscheduled private daytime flying operations.

"The CAA has established a policy for such landing places," Wright wrote Mooney. "It is particularly important that clear approaches be provided, conforming approximately to our approach standards for class I. airports, and that adequate steps be taken by the owner of the airport, or the city, to keep them clear.

Clear Outlets Urged

"In fact, it is our recommendation that the site be selected and landing strips laid out to permit take-offs over clear areas such as rivers, parks, golf courses, and fields.

"If such approaches are provided at the outset, it is believed much could be accomplished to prevent future obstruction of them by incorporating in the city's comprehensive zoning ordinance height-and-use regulations having this in view."

Services of the CAA airport planning service, airport engineers, and officials from the safety regulation and airways units have been offered the trades association and the city of Chicago.

THE REAL CONFLICT AT SAN FRANCISCO

The disagreements at San Francisco over the acquisition of territory and the government of colonies prove that those of us who have always said the Atlantic Charter was sucker-bait were right all the time. The charter pledged each of the allied nations not to use victory to acquire additional territory. All the allies, likewise, gave lip service to the principle of self-determination.

None of the so-called Big Three now wants these promises to be taken literally. The conflict between desire and pledge is particularly troublesome to England and Russia but we are also embarrassed. The plain fact is that from the war each of the great powers sees an opportunity to gain and keep something of value.

America wants the Pacific islands which were used against us by Japan and which we conquered at heavy cost. The language of the Atlantic Charter, if literally followed, forbids this acquisition. We can evade the difficulty in a variety of ways: By saying that the territories in question are negligible in area and too thinly populated to cause any one any anxiety over the fate of the natives concerned; or by calling attention to the fact that the so-called charter was no more than a Presidential declaration of policy, never submitted to the senate as a treaty and therefore not binding. Neither of these arguments has been pressed, presumably because of the fear on the part of our delegation that acceptance of them would establish a precedent for sanctioning all the grabbing that Russia and Britain have already done or contemplate.

Russia, acting no doubt to some extent in accord with secret understandings but clearly in violation of the charter, has taken possession of the three Baltic states as well as Poland, Hungary, Austria, Romania, Bulgaria, and Yugoslavia in addition to eastern Germany. This troubles us and troubles Britain even more because it presents her with the threat of a continent organized against her, the very threat which brought her into the war just concluded.

Britain, for her part, wants no interference with the government of her existing empire and desires a formula for colonial acquisitions which will not prevent her from picking up any of the Italian colonies that she may covet. America, having few heavily populated colonies, wanting no more of them, and thoroly distrustful of colonialism in general, is out of sympathy with Britain. So is Russia, but for different reasons. The Russians see India and many other parts of the empire as ripe for communism. Therefore the Russians propose that all colonial peoples be set on the road to independence in the expectation that when they become independent, they can be included within the soviet framework as nominally independent soviet republics, like the Ukraine or Poland.

At San Francisco, the attempt has been made to quiet all these conflicts and resolve them with a legalism known as trusteeships. Even if a formula is found, it is not likely to work, because the conflicts exist and will continue to exist. The news from the conference merely underlines the fact that about all the allies have had in common is a common enemy. Today we find ourselves wholly out of sympathy with Britain's enslavement of colonial peoples and wholly persuaded that Russia's partial support of our position is insincere as evidenced by her own conduct in Europe. Maybe George Washington was right after all.

As might be expected, our delegation, most of whose members are either Wall streeters or do-gooders, hasn't been of much use in solving the problem. The do-gooders are in a panic lest the Russians withhold their assent and thus defeat the purposes of the meeting. The Wall streeters can't represent the anti-imperialist convictions of the country because they hope to share in the plunder. The word for the whole business is disgusting.

"SAVING" AMERICA

Anthony van den Steenhoven, a young member of the Dutch underground, has been brought to Chicago as a speaker by the Community and War Fund. In the week that saw the final liberation of his homeland he could very gracefully have thanked Chicagoans, not only for their war fund contributions, a portion of which has gone to the relief of the Netherlands, but also for the tremendous accomplishments of this nation's armies, without which the oppressors of his country could not have been defeated.

Instead, however, he rejected the idea that American entrance in the war saved Europe with the assertion that "the underground began in 1940 to save America." This statement is made tenable only by one fantastic supposition, namely, that the peoples conquered by the Nazis would have coöperated willingly with Hitler and joined with him wholeheartedly in an effort to conquer the United States. Whether that was a possibility can only be verified in the consciences of these European peoples.

The Community and War Fund has been guilty of extremely poor judgment in sponsoring such a speaker.

THE LAW IN NEW JERSEY

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City was not quite correct when he made his famous statement, "I am the law."

Hague, with the coöperation of Atty. Gen. Biddle, set out to get Walter Van Riper, the Republican attorney general of New Jersey. Van Riper was being troublesome about gambling in Hague's Hudson county bailiwick, slapping the boss' henchmen in jail and fining others. Revenues from gambling are, of course, highly useful both to Hague's local machine and to the parent national organization, so something had to be done.

Mr. Biddle lent the department of justice to Hague for the purpose of procuring an indictment—almost any indictment, it would seem—against Van Riper. The charge turned out to be alleged black market violations carried on thru a chain of service stations owned by the attorney general.

Two convicts, previously found guilty of black market operations in gasoline, turned out to be the government's principal witnesses against Van Riper. One admitted that Van Riper, while a common pleas judge, had found him guilty in an arson case 13 years ago, but had granted him probation. A defense witness said that the ex-arsonist and black marketeer had admitted having "made a deal to involve Van Riper in this case."

The jury acquitted Van Riper on all seven counts, but convicted his service station company, for the acts of a station manager, who may or may not have been part of the conspiracy to hang something on the state's attorney general at any cost.

The prosecution was so clearly political and the proceedings so smelly that if President Truman intends to restore the department of justice to any sort of repute he should call for Biddle's prompt resignation. As for Hague, he has just been elected to his eighth successive term as mayor. The suffering citizens of Jersey City have no hope of being relieved from their incubus, but the rest of the country should take note of the character of one of the New Deal's favorite traveling companions.

THE SOLDIERS' RETURN

The army's point release system is designed to return 1,300,000 soldiers to civilian life as soon as possible. More than a million of these are overseas and the speed of their return will be governed by available shipping. Normal discharges of men in service, meanwhile, are running 90,000 a month. It appears likely that the country must prepare to receive perhaps 200,000 released veterans each month for a considerable period and arrange that they be absorbed into the civil community.

These men deserve every opportunity that a grateful government and their fellow countrymen can give them. They have taken the risks of battle for all the rest of us at home. They have been exposed to danger and have suffered hardship. Many of them have been wounded. Their sacrifices included separation from their families and acceptance of restricted freedom under discipline. They have served for nominal pay and have been denied the opportunity of profiting by the war boom and the high wages that accompanied it.

They will need employment at once if they are to carry their family responsibilities. Standing in their way are the government's half-way measures to reconvert industry to peace time production and the mass of regulations and superfluity of red tape of such agencies as WPB, OPA, war man power commission, and United States employment service. Chairman Krug of WPB, with the usual burocratic addiction to doing too little and that not soon enough, stated April 3 that by a year after German surrender war production would be cut back only 35 per cent, despite the mountains of material accumulated over the last three years and five months.

The nation thus is confronted with the very dangers against which President Truman warned when he was chairman of the senate war investigating committee. In the third annual report of that commitee on March 4, 1944, Mr. Truman said, "But industry does want a reasonable opportunity to preserve itself after the war; an opportunity to convert to full scale peace time production as rapidly as war contracts are terminated; an opportunity to make quick readjustments which will cushion the shock of discharges to millions of unneeded war workers, and to make possible the quick re-employment of returning soldiers." Delay, Mr. Truman warned, would mean "a depression in which our returning soldiers and our war workers will be without employment."

To avert any such outcome, Mr. Truman recommended action "to remove obstacles which would otherwise render reconversion difficult or impossible. The committee," he said, "does not approve of the kind of planning that creates new difficulties and obstacles. The job is essentially one of simplification, so that industry and labor can make their own plans, for the success or failure of which they alone will be responsible."

The men still fighting the war will be waiting to see how their discharged comrades are treated. If we do not meet that test we shall face an acute problem in 12 million embittered men.

A PROUD RECORD

This is the 133d anniversary of the establishment of the army ordnance department. Since 1812 it has been the duty of army ordnance to provide the weapons and equipment with which the enemy was defeated. The victorious conclusion of the war with Germany can be attributed in no small part to the fact that our armies are possessed of fire power and mobility superior to those of any other nation because of the efforts of Lt. Gen. Levin H. Campbell and his department.

The department's accomplishments will be acknowledged thruout this week, but the nation, we may hope, will have added reason to express its gratitude, before another anniversary is reached, when Japan joins Germany in defeat.

The world is concerned over Russia's failure to carry out all the terms of the Crimea agreement. We are wondering when the Poles will go to the polls.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. The word Venetian should make a housewife think of Spaghetti Cheese Blinds Tablecloths
2. The slang term "screwball" refers to a
   Politician Baseball pitcher Eccentric person Billiard player
3. The number of toenails on a dog's front paw is Three Four Five Six
4. The lowest reading on an ordinary fever thermometer is usually Zero 32° 78° 94°
5. Which one of these fruits does not grow in bunches?
   Currants Pineapples Grapes Bananas
6. Try to match the statements quoted in the right hand column below with the men who are reputed to have uttered them, as listed in the left hand column. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Alexander Pope	[v] "A sucker is born every minute."
[b] Benjamin Franklin	[w] "War is hell."
[c] William T. Sherman	[x] "Give me liberty or give me death."
[d] Patrick Henry	[y] "A little learning is a dangerous thing."
[e] P. T. Barnum	[z] "God helps them that help themselves."

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points].

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

ON SINISTER STREET

The name of Norway's Quisling, who opened the gates for his country's invasion, has been in widespread use since 1940 as a synonym for a new type of traitor. It may live as a common noun in the dictionaries and thus perpetuate his memory. In England, "quisling" was swiftly added to the slang of World War II.; in this country it has been much used by writers, but has not made an impression on the spoken language. As a fighting epithet, at any rate, it has not worried Chicago's bartenders.

* * *

Thus because of his abhorrent conduct and his peculiar name, suited to contemptuous utterance, Quisling has become a subject for the word detectives of the future. He will have plenty of company, for the lexicons are full of etymological footnotes to history. For familiar examples, take the sinister words "boycott" and "lynch."

* * *

"Boycott" comes from Ireland, land of many troubles, especially with landlords, and is about 64 years old. It commemorates Capt. Charles Cunningham Boycott, agent for the estates of the earl of Erne in County Mayo, who was outstanding in pernicious activity as a rent collector. He was ostracized by agrarian insurgents, and when he brought farm hands from Ulster 900 soldierz were needed to protect them during the harvest. Capt. Boycott died in 1897, but his name lives in many languages.

* * *

For the origin of "lynch," there are various explanations. Its personified form, "Judge Lynch," suggests a quasi-legal background, and Webster's dictionary says, "Probably from Charles Lynch," a Virginia planter who took kangaroo court action against Tories in the Revolutionary war. Other suspects are James Lynch, also of Virginia, who operated in the same manner in 1686, and James Lynch Fitz-Stephen of County Galway, Ireland, who illegally passed sentence of death upon his own son, for murder, in 1526. Lynche's creek in South Carolina, a rendezvous of similar types, called "Regulators," in 1786, has also been cited in this connection.

TOAST TO GARDENS

Here's my toast to gardens,
Lying in the sun,
Shedding living beauty
Till the day is done;

Then, when darkness deepens,
Planning for the morrow,
Thinking up new splendors
For men's haunting sorrow.

Hyacinths and tulips,
Crocus, daffodils—
What good friends to mortals
Suffering earth's ills!

Dawn brings tasks and burdens,
But it brings again
Asters, pinks, and roses
For the thoughts of men.

So I toast the gardens,
Boon beyond compare,
Scattered thru the wastes of earth—
Gifts that all may share.

Where Life Is Ruled by Whistles

Day and night, now as always, whistles mark the march of hours in the Calumet region. In the early morning there were the 5 and 6 o'clock whistles to start Ma's work on breakfast and Pa's lunch pail. By the 7 o'clock whistle Ma had us kids hustled out of bed and readied for school.

Ma was forewarned of our return for lunch by the 11:45 whistle. By the noon whistle, the oatmeal was bubbling on the stove. A swish of the washcloth across our faces by Ma's firm hand told us it was 12:30, and it was immediately verified by the whistle. By the 1 o'clock toot the last crumb of the noonday lunch was brushed off the table.

Supper was well on its way when the 5 o'clock whistle announced the close of the factory day. We kids were almost "starved" if Pa didn't lustily call us for supper by the 6 o'clock whistle. By the peep of the 10 o'clock whistle we were snugly buried in featherbeds.

Every Saturday afternoon at 4:30 a siren sounded. Some said that it was to mark washtub-bathing time; others insisted it was dedicated to the memory of an old time steel mill employe and marked the exact time of his death on the job.

[The Friend of the Yanks answers questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents. Replies will be given by mail if stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice may be obtained from The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 So. Dearborn st., or by phone, Superior 0200.]

S. D. asks: "How long may a soldier wear his uniform after discharge? Is it permissible to wear ribbons of veterans' organizations along with other military ribbons and decorations?"

You are entitled to wear your uniform from your place of discharge to your home, provided that you go there within three months of the date of discharge. Upon receipt of discharge it is required that the distinctive emblem showing separation from service be worn on the uniform. Military uniform may be worn by veterans on ceremonial occasions. Ribbons of veterans' organizations may not be worn on uniforms except during ceremonies of the organization.

K. B. asks: "Does a WAVE receive the same clothing allowance as that granted to an enlisted man when promoted to the grade of chief petty officer?"

No. Enlisted men promoted to the grade of chief receive $200 for the purchase of new uniforms, which are distinctive from the uniform worn when serving in a lower grade. There is so little difference in the WAVE uniform that an additional clothing allowance is not considered necessary.

T. G. asks: "If a WAVE is married to a navy officer stationed in the United States, does she become eligible for discharge or release to inactive status?"

The navy has ruled that marriage of a WAVE is not in itself sufficient reason for discharge or release to inactive duty.

HOW DOES LEAD POISONING OCCUR?

THE dangers associated with the use of lead in industry are now well understood. Government legislation and factory improvements have done much to reduce its incidence. The dusty trades are considered the most hazardous, especially those employing this material for manufacturing purposes.

The disorder is not necessarily occupational. In the 16th century, epidemics often followed the ingestion of wine which had been prevented from turning to vinegar by the addition of this metal. Devonshire colic was a well known disease in the early 18th century among the cider topers of that community. The vessels in which this beverage was stowed contained lead alloys. But it was not until 1767 that the relationship of this element to the disease was described by Sir George Baker.

Water from reservoirs with lead pipes at the bottom has been responsible. Years ago, children who chewed the painted surfaces of toys were affected occasionally. When vegetable dyes were substituted, no more trouble was encountered.

Lead is capable of entering the body thru two sources. It may be swallowed or inhaled via dust or fumes. Absorption thru the skin is unusual. Having found its way into the circulation, it is carried to all organs and, under favorable conditions, is stored in the solid portion of the bones. If it remains there, symptoms seldom appear. Should a small amount be liberated, it will be eliminated thru the waste channels, particularly the kidneys. This will occur without untoward manifestations, unless more is taken into the system.

When the quantity released is excessive, however, weakness, fatigue, and loss of weight are exhibited. Because of marked destruction of the red cells, the sufferer acquires a peculiar pale and pasty appearance. Constipation may be severe and, in some cases, colic is noted—waves of abdominal pain which at times may be unbearable.

The effect on the nervous system may come later. General weakness and tremor of fatigued muscles—usually about the wrist or lower legs—will proceed to a true paralysis if exposure continues. The victim may experience mental depression, insomnia, violent dreaming, or nervous excitation. Fortunately for the majority, the condition is recognized before the serious stage is reached.

The laboratory is helpful in making the diagnosis. An increased concentration of lead in the urine or the circulation is sufficient evidence of over-exposure. Blood smears often show an abnormal stippling of red corpuscles.

A most important factor in treatment is to remove the source. Dust and fumes can be minimized by suitable ventilation. The hands should be washed before eating to prevent any of the particles from entering the mouth. For those who show early signs of poisoning, a change of jobs or transfer to another department may be desirable.

The modern process of deleading is slow but results are good. The body can be freed of the offending agent and symptoms will subside, provided permanent damage has not ensued. Properly adjusted doses of acids will encourage the metal to leave the bones in small quotas. Should too much be let loose, calcium will cause it to reverse its course. This management continues until the patient is well.

SKIN ERUPTION

C. L. writes: What do you think little lesions, resembling chicken skin, could be? They are located on the arms near the shoulders.

Surely not gooseflesh? I can't visualize the lesion you are describing but this area is a favorite locality for pimples.

MEAT AND OBESITY

M. B. writes: Should a fat person eat meat?

REPLY

Overweight people can eat anything—and they usually do. Lean meats have less calories than many other foods and often supply much needed energy.

WEARY LEGS

REPLY

This symptom often results from generalized fatigue or it may be associated with local conditions in the legs, especially flat feet.

When Marlowe Wrote

When Marlowe wrote, he did not know,
Apparently, that one short row
Of ten short words makes one dull line.
He used our simple words. And fine
And oke that was—and long ago.
No polysyllabic buro—
Cratic jargon ex officio
Hid or obscured the plain design

Still we can hear weak Edward's whine,
Still Faustus and the devil dine,
Barabas jeers—no more, but so

A Warrior and His Rights

An extremely small civilian, 12 or 13 years old, stood at the end of a long line of service men awaiting information at the traveler's aid station in the Illinois Central station. At last his turn came. "I want to know where I can find out about the rights of a returned service man," he stuttered. "That depends on the man's special problem," the attendant replied. "Where does this man live?" "Here in Chicago," the boy said quickly. "It's me. I was in the navy. Then they found out what my age was. Now I'm discharged."

Purely Incidental

The Norman invaders of England in 1066 were led by the generals Taillefer and Robert de Montgomerie. The allied invasion of Normandy in 1944 was led by the generals Eisenhower and Montgomery. Taillefer is French for "hewer of iron"; the German for this is Eisenhower. . . . Thought on victory: The Duke of Wellington, who presumably knew as much as any man about such matters, once said, "Nothing except a battle lost can be half so melancholy as a battle won." . . . British factories are producing a pre-digested food for use in the famine ridden portions of Holland. The food is intended for persons so weakened by starvation they cannot be fed ordinary meals. It comes as a yellowish-brown liquid which can be taken orally or injected and is a concentration of proteins, vitamins, and glucose. . . . Of the three great radio voices which moved the greatest portion of the world's peoples in the last decade [Roosevelt, Hitler, and Churchill], only Churchill remains. . . . No marine feels [or will admit] he is a GI. In the marine corps GI means government issued garbage can. Marines are Macs.

That Settles It

[Bus conversation overheard by Alberita Semrad.]

Male voice: "That's why I got this job; May wanted to be in the city. But she still ain't satisfied. She says to me, 'Jim, it's them pigeons or me; you gotta choose.' She keeps at me and at me over the pigeons so I gives up and comes to the city with her. Them was mighty fine pigeons I had, too. Remember?"

Jim's friend: "Yeah, they sure was. Paid good, too, didn't they?"

M. V.: "Sure. They was swell pigeons. But I give 'em up. Now May don't like the city no better'n where we was with the pigeons."

Silence, then m. v. in tone fired with determination: "Know what's wrong with women?" Without waiting for an answer: "It's them high heels. Yes, sir, it's them crazy high heeled shoes women wear. Always hobbling around. They ain't never sure on their feet. They wobble and it makes them goofy. I'm tellin' you it's them high heels."

Lend-Lease?

"You might be interested in knowing," writes a Red Cross worker on an island near Guadalcanal, "that we have to pay the Lever Brothers [British soap firm] $35 for every coconut tree cut down on these islands. Imagine what that will cost when they had to cut them down to build roads and airstrips."

FRESH AIR MIGHT HELP

Hines, Ill., May 10—No air conditioning, so they strike. Cute kids, I call 'em.

Many of us left air conditioned offices to join the WAC. Now the offices some of us occupy consist of a table and file cabinet at one end of a warehouse. It's air conditioned, too—strictly by fresh air. You gals who call a strike for such a petty reason should try it some time. The fresh air might shock you to your senses.

Stop at any military hospital sometime and see the air conditioning—of which there is none—they have for the boys there.

AN ANGRY SOLDIER

Pontiac, Ill., May 5—I think I may be able to relieve somewhat, the anxiety of M. B. Barron, by relating an experience of mine. He was concerned that "there will never be any main floor seats within the 10th row" at the theater boxoffices.

A few weeks ago, while I was a patient at an army general hospital in Chicago, I asked the special services office for two seats at a play on the following Saturday afternoon. That was on a Thursday. I was given [at $3 a seat] two tickets in the second row on the main floor. Noticing that most of the people near me were service men with Purple Hearts I suggest that before writing another similar letter, Mr. Barron should make more careful analysis. He assumes that "scalpers" were getting the tickets he wanted, and for all I know he may be correct, but neither of us has a right to assume on such skimpy evidence as he presents that such is the case. In fact, we now have evidence indicating that service men are getting some of them, and at standard prices.

PONTIAC INFANTRYMAN

DISSATISFIED LANGUAGE PUPIL

Boulder, Colo., May 2—I read your editorial "Languages as Taught" of April 17 and Justa Julian's letter to the Voice of the People on "High School Spanish" of May 1. How does the teacher of a subject know how well he or she is teaching it?

I am a university student who had two years of high school French and do not know enough to continue with French now. In high school I was an average student, taking an average interest in all of my subjects. Students with lower standards than mine, who come from other cities or private schools, have a much better background than I in foreign languages.

It is not only in foreign language that Chicago public schools are failing, but also in English. I came to college lacking in this subject, also.

ABOUT RATION POINTS

Chicago, May 5—The San Francisco hostesses get 12 red points per meal because the British like their beef and the Russians are big eaters. Well, so are the Yanks! A sailor home after 18 months' active duty gets 40 points for 25 days, but the only beef around here was that I couldn't get steak more than once for him. He's 6 feet 4 inches and only 19 years old—he needs the meat more.

SISTER OF FIVE FIGHTING YANKS

HOMES FOR NEWCOMERS ONLY?

Chicago, May 7—A few weeks ago I went to the war housing board to ascertain if I might register my name for one of the apartments now being erected at 4850 South Park way. Instead of taking my name and address, they asked me how long had I lived in Chicago, and when I stated 17 years, I was told I could not have one, because they were being built for war workers who have recently come to Chicago.

Later, I went to the city housing project, and here, I was told they could not accept my name, address, and phone, because these apartments were being erected for people who were occupying condemned homes and war workers who have been here less than two years.

Why tell us who have lived here for about 17 years we can't have a decent, modern apartment in which to live? Our officials and mayor should bear in mind that many of us, seeking homes, even tho we have 17 or 18 years in Chicago, are engaged in war work, too, and have a desire for a decent place in which to live.

PLACING THE FLAG

Chicago, May 9—Where should the American flag be displayed in a meeting hall, to the right or left of the chairman?

S. S.

The joint resolution of congress on this subject approved June 22, 1942, says: "When used on a speaker's platform, the flag, if displayed flat, should be displayed above and behind the speaker. When displayed from a staff in a church or public auditorium, it is displayed in the chancel of a church or on the speaker's platform in a public auditorium, the flag should occupy the position of honor and be placed at the clergyman's or speaker's right as he faces the congregation or audience. Any other flag so displayed in the chancel or on the platform should be placed at the clergyman's or speaker's left as he faces the congregation or audience.

"But when the flag is displayed from a staff in a church or public auditorium elsewhere than in the chancel or on the platform, it shall be placed in the position of honor at the right of the congregation or audience as they face the chancel or platform. $3,500,000 FISH POND; TAXPAYER GETS HOOKED

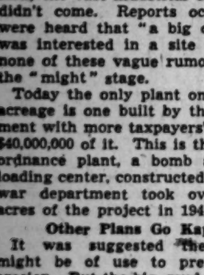
For This the New Deal Dug Up 5 Cemeteries

Marion, Ill., May 13 [Special]—"It'll be the most expensive fish pond this country has ever known," folks predicted when the New Deal was pouring $3,500,000 of taxpayers' money into the boondoggling project known as the Crab Orchard Lake development.



Crab Orchard Lake [arrow]

How right they were is indicated by a survey of the development's course during the last several years, which shows that its recreational use is virtually the only benefit that has been realized.

Many Benefits Promised

Vague and varied were the other benefits the backers promised would accrue from the government's acquisition of 30,000 acres of land and water and construction of the largest artificial lake in Illinois. They said it would eventually be worth the unpleasantries involved in dispossessing hundreds of farm home owners, digging up the dead from five cemeteries, and flooding of farm lands.

Its sponsor, former Rep. Kent E. Keller, whose 25th congressional district was granted the WPA project in reward for his unfailing "yessing" of New Deal policies, had glowingly described its principal purpose as "to breathe the breath of industrial life into the southern Illinois coal fields." He promised that industrial plants would soon spring up all around the lake, bringing a boom prosperity to his fortunate constituents.

But these dreams never materialized; the vast industrial enterprises didn't come. Reports occasionally were heard that "a big company" was interested in a site here, but none of these vague rumors passed the "might" stage.

Today the only plant on the vast acreage is one built by the government with more taxpayers' money—$40,000,000 of it. This is the Illinois ordnance plant, a bomb and shell loading center, constructed after the war department took over 11,000 acres of the project in 1941.

Other Plans Go Kaput

It was suggested the project might be of use to prevent soil erosion. But the big, mud bottomed lake of 7,000 acres covered more land than it would save. Flood control was advanced for a time, but the man-made lake flooded more acres than did Orchard creek.

A try was made at reforestation, but the WPA in the early days cut down more trees than it was then proposed to plant, altho thousands of young trees have since been set out for whatever value they may have. An attempt was made to use it in the rural rehabilitation program, but the few helped were outnumbered by the home owners uprooted and scattered by the project.

The dreamers tried again in 1941 with expensive plans for a $250,000 airport to be constructed on the shore of the artificial lake. But this hope faded like all the others, and no airport ever was built.

As time and logic eliminated promise after promise for the future of Keller's pet hobby, which was repeatedly criticized as a "New Deal brainstorm, causing a senseless waste of money," its possible values finally were reduced to the recreational benefits the sponsor had promised his home folks.

The Fishing Is Fine

In this respect the vast program seemingly has been a success. It has made a fine fish pond. Every one in the area who has the time goes angling for the more than a million fish [and their progeny] with which the government originally stocked the lake.

Boating also has become extremely popular. More than 400 privately owned boats now use the lake and communities have formed boating clubs. There is also a bathing beach. And in the near-by woods are picnic tables and barbecue fireplaces for the convenience of outing parties.

The revenue from these facilities, however, is hardly in keeping with the taxpayers' big investment. The only monetary return comes from the small registration fees for boats and the concessions—the inevitable soft drink and hot dog stands, and for bathing, boat service, and use of near-by cabins.

Virtually no criticism is heard these days of the project once variously and derisively called Keller's frog pond, the mosquito marsh, and the New Deal fishing hole. Those who had protested so vigorously—the farmers whose homes were confiscated—are gone, scattered to any place where they could find a new home. Those left to enjoy the lake have no reason to protest.

TREASURY GETS OPA NAMES OF PRICE VIOLATORS

Action on Income Tax Charges Probable

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP)—The office of price administration announced today it had turned over to the internal revenue bureau the names of more than 3,000 price violators.

The bureau, OPA said, will examine the tax returns of these persons to determine whether they have attempted to evade income tax obligations.

Price Administrator Bowles said this new nationwide "program of coöperation" between OPA and the treasury department "should contribute greatly to our efforts to curb black markets in all fields."

Have 3 Years to Act

Bowles noted that while ordinarily violators of price regulations must be prosecuted within one year of the charge, the treasury has three years to press a claim for taxes by civil suit, and unlimited time if the evasion involves fraud.

Treasury officials said they now are investigating about 7,500 reports from various sources in the current drive on tax evaders. They said about 1,300 of these "leads" had to do with the sale of liquor, about 500 the sale of meat and live stock, and 256 the sale of jewelry.

1,400 Are Currency Cases

About 1,400 were said to be "currency cases" involving a suspiciously large transfer of currency.

The officials said about 1,200 treasury employes now are working on tax evasion cases in one way or another. No alleged violators were named, but several cases were discussed in general terms by the treasury officials.

For example, they said, in a southern city, a woman left a purse on a street car. It contained $25,000. Agents checked up on her husband's income tax return and found he has reported no more than $3,000 income in any of the last several years.

In a midwestern city, a nurse in a hospital saw a man hand a patient a stack of bills that turned out to be $80,000. Agents traced this, said the treasury officials to liquor dealings and a case is being made.

N.Y. WITHDRAWAL FROM OPA HINTED BY LA GUARDIA

New York, May 13 (AP)—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, declaring that congress had not provided sufficient personnel to the OPA and that the agency was "careless" in the selection of its employes, indicated today in a radio speech that New York City might withdraw from enforcement of ceiling price regulations.

Meat and other commodities are almost impossible to purchase at ceiling prices, La Guardia said.

Saying a new price control plan was being tested, he urged consumers to be patient until the end of May, but predicted it was "too involved."

"If the government won't cooperate then," he added, "we will have another demonstration of how much enforcement the OPA can do by and of itself."

The city withdrew from enforcement of OPA gasoline regulations some time ago and never has attempted to enforce liquor price regulations.

TAXPAYERS HIT 'SPENDING JUST TO BE SPENDING'

Group Assails State's Post-War Program

Springfield, Ill., May 13 [Special]—The Taxpayers Federation of Illinois issued a protest today "against manufacturing unnecessary and extravagant projects just for the purpose of spending" the 127 million dollar surplus accumulated in the state treasury.

"The surplus should never have been accumulated and instead there should have been tax reduction," a statement by Thomas E. Fiske, executive secretary of the federation, a nonpartisan fact finding agency, said.

"However, the surplus was accumulated and it should be spent for normal operating costs of government, thereby even yet permitting tax reduction.

"The current proposed spending program is the best possible answer for never accumulating a governmental surplus. Having accumulated a surplus, however, the federation is not against its proper use, but is against devising unnecessary and wasteful means for hurriedly dissipating it."

Showdown Due in Senate

A showdown on the economy issue is expected in the senate this week, when administration Republicans and the minority Democrats are expected to attempt to advance the record breaking appropriation bills making up the 604 million dollar regular biennial budget. Consideration of the 127 million dollar post-war budget, thru which the surplus is to be spent, will come later.

A group of 23 Republican senators voted this week in a caucus in favor of appropriation slashes, but they did not get party backing.

Gov. Green has invited a group of Republican senators to dinner in the executive mansion Monday evening, just before both houses reconvene in night sessions. Support for the budgetary program is expected to be sought by the governor. Another Republican senate group was entertained at the mansion last Wednesday.

Fiske's protest included charges that budgetary officials and the legislature, while endorsing big projects to expand the activities of state government, have not contemplated the permanent cost of their operation and maintenance, which must be met from tax funds after the surplus is exhausted.

Seek Township Roads Fund

In an effort to upset the post-war planning commission's program, farm interests next week will seek house committee approval of their bill to use 20 million dollars of the surplus on township roads. Rural spokesmen said improved roads would be a permanent investment, would permit federal highway grants to be matched, and would enable property tax levies to be reduced.

Except for a few park drives, the only highway project in the post-war budget, as approved by Gov. Green, is a $600,000 item for a hard road between Sterling, Rock Falls, and U. S. 30. The 127 million budget, however, allocated 3 million dollars for a state-wide system of airports.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN LAKE; SLAYING HINTED

The body of an unidentified woman about 50 years old, was found in the lake off Gary yesterday, and police of that city and Lake county [Indiana] authorities began an investigation to determine if she had been slain and her body thrown in the lake.

Dr. J. Robert Doty, Lake county coroner, said the condition of the body indicated the woman had died of carbon monoxide poisoning. There also was a deep wound in the back of her head and a possible skull fracture. An autopsy will be made today.

The body was clothed in a dark, inexpensive, fur coat; a navy blue dress, brown stockings, and black shoes. Coroner Doty said she weighed 145 pounds, was 5 feet 2 inches tall, had blue eyes and gray hair dyed brown. The body had been in the water about 48 hours, he said. A note, written in a foreign language and found in the fur coat, was being studied by investigators.

3D SON TAKEN OUT OF COMBAT AS BROTHERS DIE

Capt. Ogden Fox, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Fox, 29 Hartford st., Aurora, has been withdrawn from active duty because of the death of his two brothers, Capt. Warren Fox, 26, killed last Aug. 26 in Germany, and Lt. Burton Fox, 28, who died of wounds in February, 1944, the war department notified his parents yesterday. The three boys all entered service with Co. E of the 129th infantry division but were later separated when they were chosen for officers' training school.

RISE IN STATE TREASURY COSTS IS 'EXPLAINED'

Becker Gives Reasons for Increases

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 13 — Increased state income means more work, State Treasurer Conrad F. Becker said today in partial explanation of the 26 per cent increase in his portion of the record breaking state budget. His appropriation bills call for $1,137,404 for the next two year period, compared with estimated spending of $833,111 for the current biennium.

The item for salaries in the treasurer's office is up $99,661, or 20.2 per cent, which is little more than the proposed average increase for individual state employes generally, Becker said. Five new jobs are necessary to handle the increased volume of vouchers and to cut down night work, he reported.

Banking Costs Increase

In explaining a $43,094 increase for "contractual services," Becker pointed out that when the state deposits its funds in banks, it takes collateral which the banks hold, imposing "safekeeping charges." But income from the state's investments and deposits from the growing surplus far exceeds the entire cost of running the treasurer's office, he said.

Tieing in with the increases in some directions, Becker said, are cuts of $19,932 for office expenses and of $2,736 for travel.

As to a $60,914 item for "commodities," more than triple the amount spent this biennium, Becker said that shortly it will be possible and necessary to buy bookkeeping machines and other office equipment which have been off the market for several years.

The largest single increase, from zero to $96,000, is for contract microfilm photographing of unemployment compensation checks, which has been authorized by the legislature. Because federal funds defray some of the cost of unemployment compensation, it is essential that the state treasurer keep permanent records, he said.

To Save Storage Space

"During the past six years, more than 12,000,000 of these checks have piled up, creating a growing storage problem," he said. "By the microfilm process we will have all of these recorded in small space, and will then be on a current basis."

There is a 28 per cent increase in the item of $120,000 for expert service, investigators, clerks, and expenses in investigating inheritance taxes. Becker said this is mainly because under present conditions the state can no longer get competent, reliable men for $150 to $175 a month, having to pay at least $250 in Chicago.

HANGING DEATH OF BATAVIA BOY, 10, HELD SUICIDE

A coroner's jury in Elgin yesterday decided that Wilbert Carlson, 10, committed suicide by hanging Saturday near his home, 196 N. Prairie av., Batavia, where he and his brother, Elmer Jr., 12, had gone to spend Mother's day with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Carlson.

With his brother, Wilbert was a ward of the Kane County court and lived in the Larkin home, an institution in Elgin, where he attended the Washington school. Wilbert's body was found by his father, a war plant worker, in tall grass behind the house Saturday night. He had attached an electric light cord to the branch of a cherry tree, tied the other end around his neck, and then stepped or fell from a box. The cord broke but the boy was dead when found.

The coroner's jury decided he was despondent over his scheduled return to the Larkin home, but Mrs. Pearl Rayburn, Kane county probation officer, and Mrs. Susan Goodwin, superintendent of the home, disputed this view. They said Wilbert appeared contented, was gaining weight, and was one of the best pupils in the 5th grade of his school.

Three sisters and three brothers also survive.

CONTINUE HUNT FOR SUSPECT IN HOTEL MURDER

The police yesterday continued their search for Donald Jay Cook, 15, Senn High school pupil, in connection with the slaying of Morton Stein, 16, whose stabbed and beaten body was found in a Stevens hotel room last Friday. The two had registered May 6 under fictitious names after staying in a New York City hotel for a week.

Mrs. Isabel Edwards of 1031 Bryn Mawr av., mother of Donald, told the police that he had disappeared from their home on April 10 and that she had not seen him since. Stein, who formerly attended Von Steuben High school, lived at 4932 N. Kedzie av.

The police reported during the day that they were uncertain whether they would give another lie detector test to Miss Shirley Allen, 15, of 5327 Winthrop av., also a pupil at Senn High school, who identified the youths after a telephone call was traced from the hotel to her home. She said that she had spent the previous day with the two, but that nothing improper had occurred. She is held at the Juvenile home until the police complete their investigation.

DU PONT HOUSE PAINT IS SELF-CLEANING

KEEPS WHITE HOUSES WHITE FOR YEARS

Du Pont House Paint starts white—stays white. It's made with titanium dioxide, the pigment that's whiter than snow! It stays white because——It's self-cleaning! Du Pont House Paint is so formulated that, as time goes by, a microscopically fine white powder forms on the surface. Heavy rains wash this powder away, taking dust and dirt with it, and leaving the surface clean and white again. Excessive accumulations of dirt (particularly in sooty industrial communities or in heavily shaded locations) and stains from copper screens may delay or interfere with this process. Because this "self-cleaning" is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected.

As durable as it is beautiful, Du Pont Self-Cleaning House Paint protects against rust, rot, and decay—gives lasting beauty and protection. Yet it costs no more than other good paints. Call in a reliable painter. He'll be glad to use Du Pont House Paint.

IMPORTANT: Your dealer's stock of Du Pont Self-Cleaning House Paint is limited. Paint is an essential war material. Don't waste it. Don't paint unless your home is vitally in need of protection.

PLAN PAY RAISE FOR ASSEMBLY ON YEARLY BASE

Legislators See Prompt Approval of Boost

BY GEORGE TAGGE

Pay raises for Illinois law makers, stalled last week for lack of five votes in the house of representatives, are expected to go thru with the "whoosh" of a rocket under a plan devised by Rep. Rategan [D., Chicago] for a try-out tonight.

With eyes fixed on the 124 million dollar surplus, the legislature generally has evinced an easy spending mood this session. But many members were uneasy about the results among frugal homefolk if they voted themselves a 50 per cent salary increase, from $5,000 to $7,500 a biennium.

Favor Smaller Increase

Several representatives who voted "no" or "present" said they would have voted "aye" for an increase to $6,500 or $6,250. High federal income taxes were advanced as a reason, as has been true all along the line of state salary raises. An observer commented that this illustrates how the federal taxes are hitting the public more than once indirectly thru higher state and local taxes, which will be necessitated by higher pay to public employes.

Amendments to change the proposed pay to $6,500 and $6,250 had been defeated earlier. Under legislative rules the same changes cannot be offered again at this session.

Rep. Rategan's Idea

Rep. Rategan, a spokesman for the Cook county Democrats, hit on the idea of an amendment to make the new pay $3,250 a year. This is the equivalent of $6,500 a biennium, but would escape the ban of house rules.

"It would be better in any case to have the salary paid yearly," Rep. Rategan said. "Some people don't know what a biennium is, and $3,250 a year sounds better than $6,500 a biennium. All the members I've talked to are enthusiastic about the idea. We are certain it will go thru without delay."

Altho the session will reach final adjournment at the end of next month, little important legislation has been enacted since Jan. 7. Exceptions are the Kelly-Green slum clearance and public transit authority bills, and the downstate airport authority measures.

Terminal Bills Pending

Still pending are the Kelly terminal authority bills, the adoption reform bills, key bills of the state's 604 million dollar operating budget and its 127 million dollar post-war budget, and the radio libel bill.

Altho the senate is expected to concur shortly in house adoption of the resolution for a gateway amendment to the state constitution, a battle will be forthcoming over a proposal to enact a "party circle" bill which proponents said would make approval of the amendment certain at the 1946 election. Under their plan any voter using the party circle on the candidates' ballot automatically would vote for the gateway amendment if his party had indorsed the constitutional change in convention.

7TH WAR LOAN DRIVE OPENED BY MORGENTHAU

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP)—The 7th war loan drive was officially set off tonight by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, with the declaration that "the greatest challenge to American democracy still lies before us."

"That challenge is to our self-restraint, our self-discipline, our self-control," he said in a broadcast over the four major networks.

"What is demanded of us is this—that we accept triumph without relaxation. The fruits of peace are not yet ripe for us to pluck."

The $14,000,000,000 bond drive actually swings formally under way tomorrow. The quota for individuals is $7,000,000,000—corporations the same amount.

INQUEST ON WIFE WHO KILLED SELF SET FOR TODAY

An inquest will be held today into the death of Mrs. Evelyn Arres, 32, of 1504 W. 81st st., who shot and fatally wounded herself early yesterday after a quarrel with her husband, Richard, 34, a pharmacist, in their home. The husband told police that they had quarreled after Mrs. Arres had slapped their daughter, Diana, 8, to discipline her. Mrs. Arres seized a pistol that she had placed under a sofa cushion and shot herself in the right temple, he said. She died later in the Little Company of Mary hospital.

CITIZEN SCHOOL GROUP OPPOSES TRANFER BILL

The Citizens Schools committee yesterday announced its opposition to a bill introduced in the legislature to transfer Chicago junior colleges from the board of education to the University of Illinois.

The bill is contrary to educational experience and the University of Illinois is not equipped to conduct the junior colleges, John A. Lapp, chairman of the committee, said. He charged the transfer was sought by Mayor Kelly's political machine, and would be unfair to other communities which must maintain their own colleges.

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, said when the bill was introduced that the board was in accord with the idea of turning over the jhnior colleges and Chicago Teachers college to the university or the state department of public instruction.

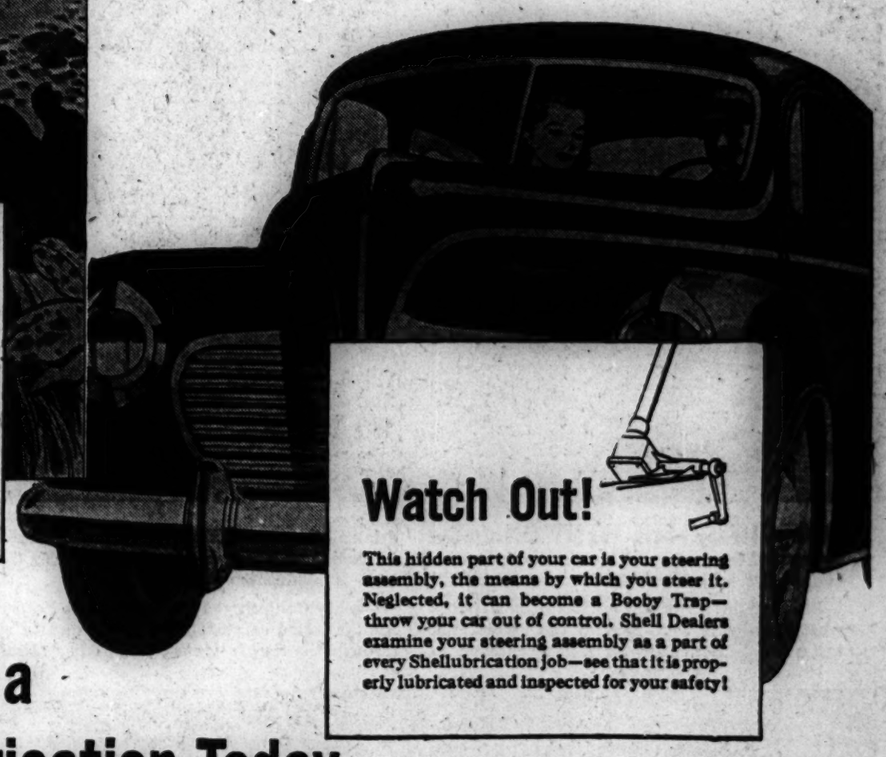
Don't Drive a Booby Trap

Watch Out!

This is a Samurai sword—the kind carried in battle by Jap officers. It makes a good souvenir and that's why retreating Japs often make them into Booby Traps by attaching an explosive charge to them. But our troops, trained in the detection of Booby Traps, know better and disarm the sword before they pick it up!



Watch Out!

This hidden part of your car is your steering assembly, the means by which you steer it. Neglected, it can become a Booby Trap—throw your car out of control. Shell Dealers examine your steering assembly as a part of every Shellubrication job—see that it is properly lubricated and inspected for your safety!

PLAY SAFE... Get a Safety Shellubrication Today

Wartime Stop-and-Go driving becomes even harder on your car as it gets older!

Unseen parts—your steering assembly, braking system, battery, gears and many others—must be cared for constantly for safety's sake! Shellubrication provides expert car care—a 35-point inspection and maintenance system developed by Shell engineers and performed by specially trained Shell Dealers.

Far from being a mere "grease job," Shellubrication requires the use of nine different types of lubricating equipment—six different testing devices—fourteen kinds of maintenance tools, eighteen different, specialized Shell lubricants!

In giving your car a Shellubrication job your Shell Dealer inspects danger spots—checks 35 "break-up" points as he works! And finally he gives you a record of service and a written guarantee covering both workmanship and materials! Don't Drive a Booby Trap!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 13—They're saying that Anthony Eden is a cross between Cary Grant and Gary Cooper. Well, if Eden had wanted to give up statesmanship for the movies, he could have done that years ago. He's photogenic right back to the last molar. . . . Samuel Goldwyn says there's nothing to that story that he, Darryl Zanuck, and Warners are battling for the rights to the late President Roosevelt's life story. Goldwyn thinks it's much too soon to put that on the screen. I agree with him. . . . Col. William Wyler is back in town cutting the picture he took in Italy, and he may produce "Earth and High Heaven" for Goldwyn.

At Last—A Stevenson Film

Irene Dunne won't do a New York play. She's reading a script of Robert Louis Stevenson's life. If she does it, she'll co-star with Gregory Peck. What a combination! I happen to know the step-daughter of Mr. Stevenson very well indeed. Every life that touched his, if only for a short while, was enriched and left with a spiritual spark that in most cases was never extinguished. Austin Strong, author of "Seventh Heaven," imparted that quality to his play. He was brought up in Stevenson's home. It amazes me that it hasn't been done before. . . . Ernie Pyle's widow arrives here soon. Some of the proceeds from the premiere of "G. I. Joe" in Indianapolis will be used to buy Jo Davidson's bust of Ernie, which will be placed in Indiana university. The rest of the money from the premiere will be used as a scholarship fund in Ernie's name.

Quaint Custom from Mexico

Walter Pidgeon sure made an impression in Mexico. The other day a Mexican musician asked if he might come and play for Pidgeon in his garden. "Sure," said Pidgeon, "come along." Twelve Mexicans in native costumes came and made music for three hours. The neighbors had a wonderful concert. Had Pidgeon known what was about to happen, he would have invited his friends in, too. . . . Looking at a Paramount preview at that studio, I asked to see the horror newsreels. They ran one reel and said, "The worst ones were sent back." "Sent back where?" said I. They didn't know. But the man who ran them said he didn't sleep for three nights. . . . That same man, a projectionist, has worked there 18 years. He's written a book "Easy Spanish" which is highly recommended, even by Spaniards. His name is Edward Leveque. He was an original Keystone cop and has been in pictures since 1916. He used to do a column for "The Hollywood Spectator."

I Mean They're Terrific

Marc Platt's V-E day pictures, photographed by Bob Coburn of Columbia, are so wonderful I'm having the whole series of ten framed for my office. . . . Charles Koerner seeks the impossible. He's trying to find a young Ronald Colman for "Power of Darkness." He tells me Rosalind Russell's next for RKO will be "Sister Kenny." Hurrah. . . . H. D. Hover swears his first musical will be "An Evening at Ciro's." Why not? He owns the place. . . . Andrews sisters take their "Eight to The Bar Ranch" overseas this summer. . . . Steve Hannagan was in town one day. He tells me Warner's attitude towards Ann Sheridan is charming, but they still haven't sent her a good script. "But," says he, "Ann doesn't care." . . . A wash of parties over the weekend. Frances Marion had as dinner guests the Josef Szigetis, Walter Ven Felt, Vicki Baum and husband, the Joseph Cohns, and Adela Rogers St. John. . . . I shoved on from there to the Mendls, who entertained 150 of Cole Porter's enthusiastic addicts. That old black magic man had us in his spell.

Spy Thriller Has Its Share of Frisco Fog

'ESCAPE IN THE FOG'

By Mae Tinee

San Francisco provides the background for this melodramatic spy story, which involves a girl who has ominous and meaningful nightmares, an agent of the office of psychological warfare with a government message he is ordered to guard with his life, plus a couple of German spies who want said missive and would just as soon bump off anyone to get it.

The nazis are clever and ruthless, installing a recording unit in a clock which gives them information straight from the government's mouth, so to speak, and they eventually get the message, shackle the hero with a leg iron, and thoroly bind the heroine and leave them both to die together in a room filled with gas. The poor dopes reckoned without the lady's secret knowledge of their machinations via her dreams, the hero's ingenuity and the fact that the Chinese hate the Japanese, so they end up in the clutches of the law with the two principals in each other's, if you get what I mean.

The cast is adequate to the material provided, but the fog in this film is not confined entirely to the atmosphere.

Pastors Honor Mothers with Peace Prayers

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

Honors for motherhood and prayers of thanksgiving were offered in church and synagog thruout Chicago yesterday in compliance with President Truman's V-E day request. Churches were crowded, and many sermons combined the hopes of success for the San Francisco conference with the hopes of world motherhood for lasting world peace.

Archbishop Stritch presided at a special 4 p. m. service in Holy Name cathedral. Prayers for Mothers' day and for the victory in Europe were offered at all masses in the 435 Roman Catholic churches of the archdiocese.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Leonti, of the Russian diocese offered the divine liturgy in Holy Trinity Russian Orthodox cathedral, 1211 N. Leavitt st. The Russian Te Deum Laudamus was sung.

Dr. Joshua Oden, pastor of Irving Park Lutheran church, Belle Plaine and Harding avs., reported to an overflow congregation on his trip to the San Francisco security conference. He gave three reasons for believing the conference will succeed: The war-weariness of the world; the seriousness of the delegates which "almost reflects that of a church convention," and the willingness of the majority to agree on fundamentals and to compromise differences in lesser matters.

Dean Charles W. Gilkey reminded his Rockefeller Memorial chapel congregation, University of Chicago, that President Truman's V-E proclamation meant that "much remains to be done," and that many things that happened after the first World war must not happen again. He cited the employers who "conveniently forgot the promises made to their employes when they went into uniform."

He said the "service men who returned from Europe to find no jobs and hardly a welcome home, became in the recent words of one of them, 'restless, cynical, soured.' There followed one of the moral low-water marks in American history, part of the cost of which is now being paid for by our children with their bodies and blood."

Dean Gilkey expressed belief that President Truman's proclamation may protect the country against repetition of that "tragic experience."

The Chicago service men centers had the mothers of service men and women as their guests for the day. The mothers included Mrs. Jennie Schwarts of New York, who visited her son, Alfred, a seaman first class at Great Lakes Naval Training center.

Cadets of the Morgan Park Military academy held a dress parade for their mothers and the mothers of alumni in service. After the parade the Mother's club presented the academy a portrait of Col. H. E. Jones, assistant superintendent who has been on the academy's staff for 45 years.

A happy mother in St. Luke's hospital was Mrs. Joseph Reinholtz, 4651 Fulton st., who received a visit and flowers from her youngest son, Joseph, of the navy. He was the only one of her seven sons in military service who was able to visit her.

Ruffled Beanie

BY ELLEN BRUCE

The popular beanie type of crocheted hat has been altered in such a way as to present a new version of a summer hat. The lacy ruffle draped across the back has added a touch of piquancy and charm. It is quick and easy to create and most effective when made of snowy white cotton, then slightly starched.

For instructions in crocheting the ruffled hat, No. 1113, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York 1, N. Y.

U. of C. Women Will Hear Red Cross Worker Talk

Miss Eleanor Shanahan will describe her overseas experiences as an American Red Cross worker at a joint meeting of the women's clubs of the University of Chicago at 8 o'clock tonight in Ida Noyes hall. Before entering Red Cross work, Miss Shanahan was a Y. W. C. A. director and studied at Boston and Northwestern universities. She will be introduced by Miss Jane Colley.

SAID ELSIE, The Borden Cow

"GOODNESS," SHE WENT ON, "when younguns like you say Borden's is the best-tasting milk in town—Mothers ought to know about it!"

Elsie's right! Mothers ought to know that's what youngsters say—because the better milk tastes the better chance of getting children to drink all they need. Milk's a wonderfully healthful food, and Borden's—thanks to Quality Control—is milk at its very best.

Quality Control, you see, means that Borden's Milk is tested constantly for better quality and taste in the world's biggest, finest dairy research laboratories. And every drop is carefully protected all the way from 'moo' to you.

"It's easy to see why so many folks prefer Borden's Milk, isn't it!" says Dad, on his way to sell War Bonds. "They know that 'if it's Borden's, it's got to be good!'"

William Fuller to Wed Miss Mary Dortch

BY JUDITH CASS

IF reservations can be obtained, Mrs. LeRoy W. Fuller and her daughter, Mrs. Bruce Borland, may go east next month for the marriage of Mrs. Fuller's grandson, Midshipman William T. Fuller, and Miss Mary C. Dortch. From Annapolis, Md., Mrs. Isaac F. Dortch sends word that her daughter and Midshipman Fuller will be married on June 8, two days after he receives his commission as ensign from the United States navy academy. The ceremony will be in the academy chapel.

Young Mr. Fuller, who was born in Chicago, formerly lived here with his parents, Mrs. Ada Norfleet Fuller, now of Memphis, Tenn., and the late William A. Fuller. Before entering the naval academy he attended St. Paul's.

Miss Dortch is the daughter of the late Capt. Dortch of the navy. Following their marriage she and Midshipman Fuller will have 30 days together before he reports for sea duty.

Future Events

A tea on May 22 for the Rt. Rev. George Kennedy Allen Bell, Bishop of Chichester, and the 23rd annual meeting and dinner on Friday will give the Chicago branch of the English-Speaking Union the opportunity to welcome several distinguished visitors this month. The former event will be given in the Arts club at 4 p. m., with the special guest receiving with the Rt. Rev. and Mrs. Wallace E. Conkling, Mrs. Frank A. Hecht Jr., British Consul General and Mrs. Wilfred H. Gallienne, and Orville J. Taylor. The Bishop of Chichester has come to the United States on the invitation of the World Council of Churches to help formulate plans for the postwar work of the church.

The speaker at Friday's meeting at 7 p. m. in the Blackstone hotel will be William Loren Batt, vice chairman of the war production board in Washington, D. C., who will discuss "This Little Speck, the British Isles." Among those at the speaker's table with Mr. Batt and the special guests of the evening, Capt. and Mrs. Benyaurd B. Wygant, will be Frederick Puckle, representative of Indian affairs at the British embassy in Washington; George Haynes, secretary-general of the National Council of Social Services in Great Britain; and Wing Commander Douglas Iveson.

After the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Gallienne will entertain in their Lake Shore dr. home for the visitors and for officers and directors of the Chicago chapter.

On Today's Calendar

Chicagoans who have wondered what it was like to live thru last winter in Paris will have their questions answered this afternoon by Lt. Philippe de Croisset, who will speak on that subject before the Chicago chapter of France Forever following tea at 4 p. m. in the Casino club. Lt. de Croisset, son of the late dramatist, Francis de Croisset, did coastal command work in North Africa and participated in the southern invasion of France with the French naval air forces. He also will speak at 12:15 p. m. today in the La Salle hotel before the City Club of Chicago, with "The Future of France" as his subject.

Following the opening performance tonight of "Mme. du Barry," Mr. and Mrs. James C. Thompson will open the Gold Key room backstage in the Civic Opera house for a party for Marita Farell and Michael Bartlett, who have the leading roles in the musical show, and other members of the cast. Among the Thompsons' guests will be Gen. and Mrs. Russel Reynolds, Maj. and Mrs. Robert Cavenaugh, Mayor and Mrs. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bering, the Leon Mandels, the Fred Gurleys, and the Fred Whitings.

Reports on Ridge Service guild's annual dollar drive will be made when the group meets today in the Martha Washington Home for Crippled Children at 4515 Drexel av. The guild will observe its 21st anniversary this year, and has contributed to the home's upkeep for the last 15 years.

Birth News

Lt. George C. Trippe is hoping to get leave next month from his post in Fort Sill, Okla., to come north to meet his twin sons, William Lambert and David Renfroe, who were born on April 27 in Evanston hospital. The twins' mother, the former Marian Davis, and their three-year-old sister, Gail, are living in Evanston. The children's grandparents are the Lambert Davises of Evanston and Mrs. George Renfroe Trippe of Mobile, Ala.

Lt. and Mrs. H. Vincent Agar [Joan Morris] are being congratulated on the birth of a son on May 7 in St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Lt. Agar came from Washington, D. C., to help welcome his son, who has been named Michael Henry for his two grandfathers, Michael B. Morris and Henry K. Agar.

Sally Requests Stroller, Baby Bed and Buggy

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

A medical social worker directed Mrs. O., mother of children 6 weeks and 2 years old to this department for aid in obtaining a small baby bed. The new baby has been ill and will not be released from the hospital until a bed is supplied for him. Because her husband deserted the family, Mrs. O. accepted the shelter offered by her grandmother, who is working to assist her. However, the grandmother's earnings are meager, and can provide no extras, such as a crib.

Perhaps a reader can supply a folding buggy for the X. baby, youngest of six children. Prematurely born a year ago, the child is underdeveloped and frail. Specialized medical care and regular weekly visits to the clinic for treatments have been ordered by the attending physician. The family's income is inadequate for any purchases above those required for daily living expenses. The address is southwest of the loop.

Mrs. G.'s plea for a stroller follows:

"Dear Miss Brown: Will you please be kind enough to try to locate a stroller for my little girl who is 2½ years old? My health is impaired, and I have been ordered by my physician to spend as much time as possible outdoors. Fresh air and sunshine also will be beneficial to my child, but she cannot walk any distance without tiring, and I am unable to carry her."

Marjorie Kuh Is Married to Lt. J. P. Morray

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kuh of Winnetka announce the marriage on May 6 of their daughter, Marjorie, to Lt. Joseph Parker Morray of the navy, son of Mrs. Ralph Morray of Commonwealth av. and the late Mr. Morray. When Lt. Morray returned recently from Iwo, his mother and the former Miss Kuh traveled to the west coast to spend his leave with him. As soon as he received orders to report to Mare Island, Cal., he and Miss Kuh decided to be married in the Yosemite National Park, Cal.

The former Miss Kuh was graduated in 1940 from the University of Chicago. Her sister, Betsy, is married to Lt. Morray's brother, K. Jerry Morray. Lt. Morray, a graduate of the naval academy at Annapolis, was a student at the Harvard Law school when he was called into active service. He was stationed for two years at the United States embassy in Paraguay before going on duty in the Pacific.

Announcement has been made of the marriage on April 17 in Honolulu of Lt. [j. g.] Vee White of the WAVES, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon V. White of Manhattan, Kas., and Lt. Michael A. Donohue of the naval reserve, son of Mrs. Michael A. Donohue of Fargo av. and the late Mr. Donohue. A Chicago friend of Lt. Donohue, Lt. James McAndrews, was best man at the ceremony, which took place in St. Philomena's church. After a 10 day wedding trip Lt. Donohue returned to sea duty and his bride to her post in Honolulu. The former Miss White was graduated from the University of Illinois. Lt. Donohue is an alumnus of the Francis W. Parker school and of Yale university.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Goodman of Evanston announce the marriage on May 4 of their daughter, Doris Judith, to Pharmacist's Mate 1st Class William B. Trent of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson Trent of Keithsburg, Ill. The wedding took place in the Chapel of Memories of the Covenant Methodist church, Evanston, with a dinner following for the families in the Stevens hotel. The bride, who is on the teaching staff of Evanston High school, attended Monmouth college and was graduated from Northwestern university. Mr. Trent attended the University of Texas and served overseas for 30 months.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob X. Schwartz of Waukegan announce the marriage on May 1 of their daughter, Elizabeth Claster, to Lt. [j. g.] Irving B. Gerson of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gerson of Detroit. The wedding took place in the home of the bride's parents. The bride is a graduate of Wellesley college. Lt. Gerson served for two years in the Mediterranean war theater, where he participated in four major invasions and was awarded the bronze star. He and his bride are at home temporarily in Norfolk, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Pollack of N. Mozart st. announce the marriage on April 12 of their daughter, Marjorie Jane of the WAVES, to Ensign Robert Dale Tigar, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Tigar of Flint, Mich. The wedding took place in Long Beach, Cal. Ensign Tigar is stationed in California with the naval air forces, and his bride is stationed in Corpus Christi, Tex.

Announcement is made of the marriage on April 21 at Fort Jay, N. Y., of Mrs. Alice Andrews Rutherford, daughter of James A. Andrews of Hewlett Harbor, Long Island, N. Y., to Sgt. Herman N. Bundesen Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Bundesen of Chicago. The bride, who formerly was a member of the WAC, attended Columbia university and the American Academy of Dramatic Art. Sgt. Bundesen attended Northwestern university.

Paulist Choristers Sing for Their Summer and Present a Young Greek Bearing Gifts

The Paulist choristers sang for their summer at Orchestra hall yesterday, or at least for that of the younger members whose vacation camp is made possible by the annual spring concerts. Under the direction of Father Eugene O'Malley the choir ended its 41st season by singing Bach's "Jesu, Priceless Treasure" in memory of Corp. John V. Reddington, whose death in action on April 13 put a new gold star in the service flag, and by commemorating Mother's day with Brahms' "Cradle Song," in which the soprano solo introduced black haired Chris Tompulis, a young Greek bearing gifts of shy charm and a sweet voice.

No choir, even one that depends for its fame on boy sopranos, can hope to be quite the same in time of war when its personnel is constantly subject to change. Altho the lower voices seemed particularly effective yesterday, as if they realized their responsibility, old timers at Paulist concerts may have missed some of the authority, the firmness of texture, and the fluting brilliance long the choir's lustrous trademark. Palestrina's "Exsultate Deo," that once sounded like celestial eavesdropping, took on some of the human qualities of strain and indecision, occasionally with the whiteness of tone that sharply diminishes the value of boys' voices. But Hassler's "Dixit Maria" restored that first group to much of the old standard. There were times when the voices hung in many colored layers like a pousse café mixed by an expert.

Most of the afternoon was spent in agreeable pursuit of rewarding but less complicated music. Weelkes' "Welcome Sweet Pleasure" and Purcell's "In These Delightful Pleasant Groves" were exquisitely sung with that simplicity that fools you into thinking it spontaneous, and Rachmaninoff's "O, Praise Ye the Lord from Heaven" rang Russian carillons of extraordinary beauty. The Old Irish air using just the higher voices was brushed with a fey brilliance, but both the Catalonian song of the nightingale and the eloquent "Were You There" seemed to me to be arranged out of all character. I don't see how you can compete with the way Marian Anderson sings the one and Roland Hayes the other.

Maximilian Schmelter and Stefan Kozakevich made their usual solo appearances, and small Robert Lis sang "The Last Rose of Summer" for all the world like a gravely responsible flute. Robert Sheehan made the accompaniments sound as if he enjoyed playing them.

Notes

Katharine Cornell has acquired "The Second Lady," a play about George IV, and Maria Fitzherbert, written by W. P. Lipscomb. . . . "Winged Victory" took in more than $1,000,000 net on its tour, and more than $240,000 of that was the result of the Chicago engagement. . . . Conversation overheard: Little girl every day of six years old, "Shakespeare wasn't a great man." Her placating mother, "Now, darling, he wrote 'Romeo and Juliet,' and that's considered quite a good play."

Cotton Dresses for Dinner and Dance Here

BY REA SEEGER

The first and best cotton dance and dinner dresses have arrived. Timed for the first warm nights, for summer dinner parties on the terrace out under the stars, for dancing out of doors, these cottons are crisp and fresh as peppermint, tub neatly, and are unmistakably the gayest, youngest looking dresses in the shops. All skirts are floor length, all the bodices extremely brief and fitted, and most of the backs are out.

Gingham has gone dress-up with picturesque emphasis. There are brown and white, beige and white, blue and white, and red and white bar checks—some big, many small, and precise. Another exciting pattern is that of varying widths of stripes, from prim quarter inch to the bold awning stripes. The stripes are of vivid, pastel, or neutral colors, alternating coolly with white. Even the time honored black with white combination is going strong with far more of the white than the black, of course. The stripes are used in dashing diagonals in wide billowing skirts. The bodices and the slinky straight sheath dresses have knee flounces of sunburst fullness.

Among the other cottons that make these summer collections so crisp and decorative are the party and dance dresses of eyelet embroidery. Very little if any extra frills or ruffles or trimming is needed for this very open and cool material as the designs are especially beautiful and effective for summer dress clothes. Both small all-over designs and the larger patterns are available, with enough open work in all patterns to make them the most alluring and cool cottons imaginable for warm weather.

Business Etiquet

What does the secretary respond to people whose habitual greeting is: "How're you, Miss Jones?" Frequently this is in passing, when there is no time for the conventional answer: "Fine, thanks; and how're you?" while the inquirer still is within hearing.

Sometimes this occurs over the telephone—and the business caller slides right into his opening line of conversation. Not to follow the opened trend of conversation seems discourteous, yet an attempted inquiry into the caller's well being becomes an interruption of a business call. What to do? ANIGNA

Keep Writing

"What I'm worried about," said a young service wife, "is that now people will let down on their letter writing. There's still mail call!"

An article in The Reporter of Direct Mail Advertising carries some excellent ideas for "the folks at home, writing overseas, who can't think of anything to write." Says one practiced correspondent:

"My suggestion is that letter writers rid themselves of the thought it is their duty to write letters. Let them place letters on a pleasure basis. Start in by simply addressing envelopes to men of women in the service. Never mind fretting about what will go into them. Just record vagrant thoughts. Write short news notes. Clip cartoons and give them a local application. Look for stories. Fill the envelope with a combination of inspiration and information. Tell only good news. Whatever you send will be your representative. It will tell the receiver what you have in your mind—nothing else. The helpful letter is the letter that shares goodness. Just share yourself!"

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—Partner opens one spade and you hold:

♠5 ♥J86 ♦Q8542 ♣Q632

What is your response?

A.—Pass. The risk involved in keeping the bidding open even with a call of one no trump is out of proportion to the probable gain. While it is true that on a certain number of hands you will be able to reach a better part score contract, on a great many other hands you will be in trouble when partner either rebids spades or raises the no trump.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠10 ♥KJ9654 ♦AQ8 ♣K103

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 spade	Double	?

What do you bid?

A.—Redouble. This is the way to show partner that you have a good hand and that you do not intend to be bullied by Mr. East. Such action by you does not necessarily imply a satisfaction with spades as trump. It is a technical way of announcing a good hand. What, you say, if the redouble is left in? I wouldn't be worried. In the first place it almost never happens, and in the second place partner ought to be able to make seven tricks anyhow, which would yield a game.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠QJ87 ♥K10764 ♦A103 ♣5

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. This is as good a station for you as anywhere else. You should resist the impulse to double and be satisfied with a small profit. The reason is that partner might not leave the double in. A double of a three bid is treated very much like a double of a one bid, and you are not anxious to have partner take it out. It might be clubs, too.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠AKJ642 ♥96 ♦5 ♣A986

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. Despite partner's minimum bidding there is a fair chance that you may have a slam in the minor suit, since the spades should be readily established by ruffing. If partner happens to show the ace of hearts at this point you should barge right into six clubs.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠5 ♥KJ986 ♦87 ♣K10965

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. You cannot afford to try the other suit. While it is true that you might have a better parking place, nevertheless if you try, you will no doubt get up too high before you find out. Give up and hope for a profit on the next hand.

Q. 6—North and South vulnerable and as South you hold:

♠742 ♥KQ10 ♦Q1095 ♣Q85

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 club	Pass
1 no trump	Double	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. You have good defensive values against a no trump contract. It is conceded that in view of partner's previous pass you should not look for a killing, but you ought to be able to defeat the contract. If you can't, it will mean that you will be in difficulties at two diamonds. If the contract should be fulfilled it is no great disaster.

Q. 7—You are South, have 70 part score, and hold:

♠QJ5 ♥953 ♦AJ62 ♣KQ2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 heart	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—One no trump. You should make one bid just in case partner happens to have a maximum opening, in which case big things could conceivably develop. Furthermore, should West contest the auction, your partner will know that you have some ammunition and can act accordingly.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠K8764 ♥K3 ♦QJ ♣AJ102

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. You had a very representative three spade bid, and since partner is trying for a slam the hand is no doubt safe for 11 tricks, particularly in view of the promoted value of your heart holding.

'Midsummer Nightmare' . . . . . By Christopher Hale

(Copyright, 1945, By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton and her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupy a cottage, cared for by Tillie, on the Jennesma estate. Olivia walks in her sleep. The Jennesma factory is managed by Dirk Adams, Winnie's fiance. Sybrand Jennesma plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention, a car motor, and hopes to interest Morgan Riley in his venture. Sen. North, Riley's investigator, falls in love with Olivia. Jason Kimball, in charge of publicity, is fond of Winnie. The oft-married Hilda Jennesma Paradine claims money is missing from her cottage. She is found murdered, a knife in her back. Tillie informs Police Lt. French that Olivia went downstairs in the night and took a knife from the kitchen—the knife. The missing money is found in in Winnie's bedroom. Eddie Paradine heard nothing, nor is he familiar with Hilda's will. Dirk was with Hilda from 1:30 to 2 a. m. Olivia thinks Mrs. Jennesma could have met Hilda and bribed Tillie. Olivia finds herself turning to Sen. North, but there is a barrier, a secret marriage in her youth. Jerrold Corbin, Hilda's first husband, is upset to learn Hilda left him only $1,000. Tillie is poisoned. Arsenic is found in her chocolates. A box of chocolates with one layer partly gone is found in Olivia's room. Gerrit has received three anonymous threats. Kim has received four unsigned telegrams. Three days before Tillie's death she deposited $5,000 in cash in her bank. Corbin produces a copy of a will made by Hilda two weeks before her death leaving $5,000 each to her brothers and her husband and the balance of the estate to him. Tillie bought arsenic from the druggist.

INSTALMENT XIX.

ANOTHER THREAT

"Certainly I saw the druggist and I demanded to see his poison register." Sen. North freely admitted everything to the lieutenant an hour later. "How did you know anything about it?"

"I accidentally picked up the extension telephone while he was talking to you. I heard the word poison and Tillie Van Slee. The druggist mentioned his name . . ." the senator sketched in the rest with a graceful gesture.

The senator chose to ignore any intended reproof. "Then, where does this get us, lieutenant? Suicide?"

"Could be," said French coldly.

"There's no doubt she bought the arsenic and that she died of arsenical poisoning, is there?"

"No."

The senator reddened. "Why so cagy, lieutenant? Can't you trust me? What's your interpretation?"

"I'm not sure I have one, yet."

"Did you find any finger prints on the candy box from Miss Warburton's room?"

"Yes. Yours."

"Well, so what? I admitted I gave it to her, didn't I? Whose else?"

"Miss Warburton's, and over all others, Tillie's."

"Tillie's?"

"Yes. There's no doubt she sneaked the chocolates from the box."

"I wonder if she intended to poison them and put them back! Maybe she forgot, or got mixed up and ate them herself. Any prints on Tillie's own box or the chocolates in it?"

"Yes. Only Tillie's."

"Well. There you are. She dug a trap and fell into it."

"Could be."

The senator gazed at him in desperation for a time. Then he said, "Why can't we work together, French? You don't know what it means to me."

There was something so disarming about the senator's humble appeal that the lieutenant hesitated.

"I don't like to be ornery, senator. And I do appreciate what you are going thru. I don't want to hang this on Miss Warburton any more than you do. But, for her very sake, I can't keep showing my hand all the time. I will tell you this much. I am sure the finger prints on Miss Warburton's box were made by Tillie in the simple act of swiping the top layer of chocolates, merely in greed. I think she just ate them up and that was that. I always suspect coincidences but I'm sure that was one and nothing more."

"Well, that's something, at least."

"Yes. You see, only some of the chocolates in the maid's box were poisoned. And the poisoned ones did not have the name SWEETMEATS stamped on the bottom. They were a different brand."

The senator said quietly, "Thanks, French. I appreciate that."

"And now can't you relax, my dear senator, and leave this investigation to the police whose business it is?"

North sighed, pondered. Then he said regretfully:

"No. I am sorry. Honestly I am. But I can't. You see how it is, don't you? I've got to do something to help here . . . or explode."

"Okay," French said. What else was there to say?

Miss Warburton stopped Lt. French in the hall.

"I won't keep you long," she said. "I just want to remind you I'm ready to take that polygraph test any time you say."

"Thank you, but it isn't necessary just now. There are some cases which the polygraph can't help. And yours is one of them. You might be entirely truthful, but not know the real facts."

That sleep walking business was what he meant, of course. But Tillie was dead now. How could any one ever prove or disprove the fact?

"But the chocolates . . . that killed that poor woman. That couldn't have been done in one's sleep. You could at least prove I wasn't . . ." she had to stop.

"But nobody has accused you of that, Miss Warburton. If only you wouldn't be quite so defensive . . ." Oh, hadn't they? Hadn't they accused her in every way but in actual words?

It was a little chilly, but she went swiftly along the path thru the woods.

There was a fence and a big iron gate along the north boundary of the Jennesma estate. Whirling about, she saw the blue and gray of a trooper. He came forward, purposefully, unsmiling.

"Sort of cool this afternoon, isn't it?" he remarked with a hawk-like glance more suitable to accompany "Halt or I'll shoot."

So she wasn't to be allowed even the freedom of a little hike by herself. She was in a cage as surely as if she were locked in a cell.

For a moment she felt as if the air were going to close in on her on all sides and crush her to nothing. She heard a voice saying idiotically:

"Yes. Isn't it. Quite chilly. Especially now," and laughing.

Sybrand Jennesma was standing on the front porch as she crossed the lawn. He came to meet her.

"Miss Warburton . . . we've had another . . . of those anonymous notes," he whispered, pulling an envelope from his pocket. "It just came. I found it in the mailbox." He drew out and opened the horridly familiar sheet of cheap paper. The message was short.

THIS IS YOUR LAST WARNING. PUT THAT AD IN THE PAPER TOMORROW OR PREPARE TO MEET THE FATE YOU DESERVE.

Miss Warburton reached that extremity where the strong get a new grip on themselves. She straightened her shoulders.

"Mr. Jennesma, tell me, honestly, do you suspect me of sending those notes?"

His large, thin lipped mouth hung open. His china blue eyes almost fell out.

"O, no! Never in a thousand years! Where did you get such a crazy idea?"

She said shakily, "French does."

"Impossible! He didn't suggest such a thing to me in private. I'm sure you're all wrong about it."

"I don't know. Everything is so insane just now. Maybe I am mistaken. But let's forget me. Where was this posted?"

"In Grand Rapids, this morning. Untraceable, of course. I tell you these terrible crimes are wearing me down."

STARS TO HELP FIGHTERS OPEN 7TH BOND DRIVE

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Favorites of the entertainment world will join Gen. Stilwell, commander of army ground forces, and Treasury Secretary Morgenthau in a tribute tonight to the 1,100 veteran combat infantrymen who will spearhead the seventh war loan drive. The hour long program will be broadcast over WENR at 9 p. m. Joining in the sendoff to the veterans, who will visit 600 cities during the drive, will be Comedian Danny Kaye, Barry Wood and Bea Wain, radio singers, and Guy Lombardo's orchestra. Actor Raymond Massey will be master of ceremonies.

Chicago's Breakfast club troupe, headed by Don McNeill, has gone east for a two week's bond drive tour. Their daily broadcasts will be aired from various eastern cities.

Shows coming up: Marlin Hurt, who is Beulah of the Fibber McGee show, is to have a program of his own. He has been engaged to head a comedy series to replace Al Pearce for the summer.

Correction Please, a quiz show to be conducted by Jay C. Flippen, will be the hot weather replacement for Duffy's Tavern, effective June 8.

Roland Young will head a summer comedy series based on Thorne Smith's "Topper." It will replace the Frank Morgan show. Next fall George Burns and Gracie Allen will go into this Thursday evening NBC period.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Strawberry Corn Muffins
[12 muffins]

3 tablespoons shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup corn meal
1½ cups strawberries, halved

Cream shortening and sugar, add egg. Combine with sifted dry ingredients, mixing just enough to dampen flour. Fold berries into batter. Pour into greased muffin tins. Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees for 15 minutes.

BY MARY MEADE

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

I have stood in a meat market many times behind women who obviously have no plan for budgeting their red points. More than once I have seen a ration book handed to the meat man who rejected it saying, "But you have no points." I've seen books which had stamps torn from them for a month or two in advance. There must be many dealers who will take points which aren't yet valid, which isn't right, of course. But the day of reckoning will inevitably come for the homemaker, and it is she who is to blame if she suddenly finds herself without points for meat or fat.

At the rate at which red points now become valid, it is well not to spend more than 11 or 12 points a week per person. More than that will cause trouble later on.

THE TRIBUNE'S "ration roundup" makes clear what points are valid and when they expire. Families who already have begun spending stamp Q2 in their books had better slow down, for they are leaving themselves no savings account for an emergency, and are spending every point of their ration checks each week, so to speak.

Most ration books are becoming ragged and battered from long use. Loose stamps some times get mislaid or lost. There are several ways to save wear and tear on the books and keep the stamps in order. One is to back the loosened stamps with transparent "sticky" tape when it can be found, or attach them to each other and to the book with strips of lightweight gummed paper which can be perforated along the outlines of the stamps to facilitate removal. One person has suggested that the books be kept at home and red points enough for a week be carried in a small envelope.

It would be smart for a homemaker to sit down once a week and tally up her red point spending, so that she'll know whether she's being frugal or reckless. She will be able to plan her meals and do her marketing more intelligently.

I'd appreciate hearing from individual readers who may have point budgeting ideas. Some of these might be helpful to other women.

And I'd like to remind readers that the recipe contest editor will welcome more point-saving recipes. Send your favorite to Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and let it compete for one of the daily $5 prizes.

Apron Designs

Aprons need not be merely utilitarian these two patterns prove. They also may be handsome. One of these designs makes an apron frock with simple bias binding edging the neckline and front closing. The other puts ruffles around deck-of-card centers. Style No. 3796 is designed for sizes 16 to 48. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 35 inch material with 2½ yards of edging. Style No. 2840 is designed for one size requiring 1 yard of 35 inch fabric. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The summer fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Use Fairness When Dealing with Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The following letter suggested the topic for today's article.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I am the youngest of four children in our family and as I look back I realize that my older sister was the 'put upon' member of the group, because she was usually sweet tempered, the most agreeable one about doing chores, running errands, and the like, and gave way to the stronger and noisier.

"Now and again mother would intervene and make me or the boys shoulder our share, but not often, because life was less hectic for her the other way.

"The others are married and away and I have to do all the things that Milly formerly did, so I realize what she was up against and how we ganged up on her.

"I'm firmly determined that history shall not repeat itself when I have a family. It may be uphill work, but mine won't be a 'peace at any price' arrangement whereby the best natured child bears the burden, unjustly."

Take, for example, a family in which the children are all equally vital, equally obstreperous, or similar enough to be easily matched. They may, if the parents don't act as arbiters, and often if they do, fight it out themselves, with sometimes one gaining the upper hand, sometimes another. In that way a measure of balance is achieved and one child is not always "put upon."

But where the children are all different, as in this case, it is more difficult to be just. If one child is stubborn, another aggressive, another irresponsible, and still another yielding and sweet natured, the latter is almost sure to be imposed upon. She, or he, willingly does chores, runs errands, gives in rather than get into a quarrel or struggle in which she gets the worst of it.

The brothers and sisters instinctively take advantage of such a situation because it's almost natural for them to do so, and many parents allow it, because it's the path of peace in the home for them. It is the line of least resistance and the easiest way, but it should be guarded against.

Refereeing to protect the milder ones is trying, I'll admit, and does often defer the time of peace, but it ends in justice being done, and this children do appreciate. Justice is something they should have whether they appreciate it at the time or not!

TRIBUNE GOLF SCHOOL ENTERS FINAL WEEK TONIGHT

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

MOST of the midwest athletic directors who have been quoted in Ed Prell's series on post-war plans for undergraduate sport favor resumption of the freshman rule as soon as Japan has been whipped. . . . The lone dissenter is Hugh Devore, Notre Dame's new head football coach and sports chief. . . . Devore stated: "With the wholesale use of young teen-agers during the last four years, and with many of them showing unusual ability, there no longer is any reason why boys just out of high school should not be given the opportunity to play varsity sports immediately." . . . Devore is right in his assertion that young men fresh from high school have demonstrated their ability to compete successfully in intercollegiate athletics. . . . Several of the brightest stars the Big Ten conference has produced since Pearl Harbor have been first year competitors. . . . But that isn't the reason for the freshman rule, which requires a year's residence on a campus before an athlete is eligible to represent his school in competition with other colleges or universities. . . . The freshman rule was adopted by almost every major university in the land many years ago to keep athletics in something approaching their rightful place in educational life. . . . College sport presumably is conducted for students, not for mercenaries who sell their services to the highest bidder. . . . The freshman rule, while no panacea for proselyting, has served as a restraining influence. . . . Too, it gives a young man entering college a year to get rooted in academic life without distractions. . . . Notre Dame for many years has had an athletic eligibility code comparing favorably with the nation's best. . . . This department hopes Devore's comments are not indicative of a change of attitude. . . . College football will prosper or decline, as this department frequently has observed, by the type of leadership it gets in the years immediately after the war.

Corp. Leo Rodak of the marine corps, only contestant ever to win three Golden Gloves championships, has been sent overseas after serving for six months as a physical training instructor at the Miramar base in San Diego. . . . Gen. Roy Keehn, member of the Illinois athletic commission, recently underwent an operation for removal of a cataract. . . . Capt. Ted Lyons is back in the country enjoying a 30 day leave from overseas duty. . . . Harry Johnson is serving his 26th season as an umpire in the Southern association. . . . Cleveland's Municipal stadium is getting a thoro renovating. . . . Lt. Cliff Battles, former half back with the Washington Redskins, has been appointed chief recreation officer at MarFair West marine corps base in California.

Love Will Be All

Love will be all, in life's tableau,
When ecstacy and rapture grow
With every spoken tender word—
With dreams that help the heart to gird
The soul whenever there is woe.
When stars above will burn and glow,
And into yesterdays must go
Today with all that has occurred—
Love will be all.

When fellow men can overthrow
The sins to which their ills they owe—
When men to higher aims are spurred,
And baseness will be, deep, interred—
It will be then the world must know
Love will be all.

Old Drug Store

For 45 years and maybe more
Has Peryon's been a real drug store,
From childhood on we kids would know
The beacon red and blue lights' glow
From those bottles huge in the window display,
They're the very same ones right to this day,
And always, our purchase done, we stood
For that langnappe—a piece of licorice wood.

Other stores bowed to the marching years
With gadgets and knickknacks in rows and tiers,
Fishing tackle, kodak supplies,
Mascara and what-not for the eyes;
But Peryon's stuck to its powders and pills,
Its balms and its salves to cure human ills,
Not a fancy frill or a furbelow,
Just a drug store still as of long ago.

But, you know, it seems nice in these changing days
With everything shifting in constant maze
To find something steadfast and true to the end,
It's like meeting up with a lifelong friend!

SECOND SESSION TO BE HELD ON 4 PARK COURSES

Pros Lend Talents as Teachers

School Facts

EVENT—Third lesson of The Chicago Tribune's 13th annual free golf school.

TIME—7:15 o'clock [all students are urged to appear 15 minutes before that hour].

PLACE — Four Chicago park district courses — Jackson park, Columbus park, Marquette park, and Diversey-in-Lincoln.

LESSON—Introduction in the swing, with review of grip and stance.

REQUIREMENTS — Bring one golf club [preferably a wood] and be prompt.

TEACHERS — Members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

The 13th annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE and the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, recognized as the oldest and largest system of group teaching of fundamentals in the history of the game, will embark on its final week tonight, when the second of the three free lessons will be given by Illinois P. G. A. members on the same four courses of the Chicago park district.

All classes will begin promptly at 7:15 o'clock, but each student is asked to appear at the park district location nearest his or her home or work 15 minutes before that time. There is no charge for any of the lessons. The only requisites for enrolment are a desire to learn the ABC's of golf, one golf club, and prompt attendance at the nearest course.

Review First Lesson

Even tho you may have missed last Friday's opening, you are still welcome to attend the final two lessons, the last of which will be held on the same four courses at the same hour Friday evening. For the benefit of those who did not attend that opening session, the professionals in charge are prepared to review the grip and the stance, the subjects of the first class.

Granting that the weather man, who caused postponement of the scheduled first lesson a week ago tonight, will display same generous treatment he accorded the Friday class, the school's faculty is hoping to reach or surpass the 500,000 mark in lessons for the 13th year career of the school. The figure now stands at 473,500, an aggregate of 463,500 instructions having been given prior to last Friday's 10,000.

Hines Joins Diversey Faculty

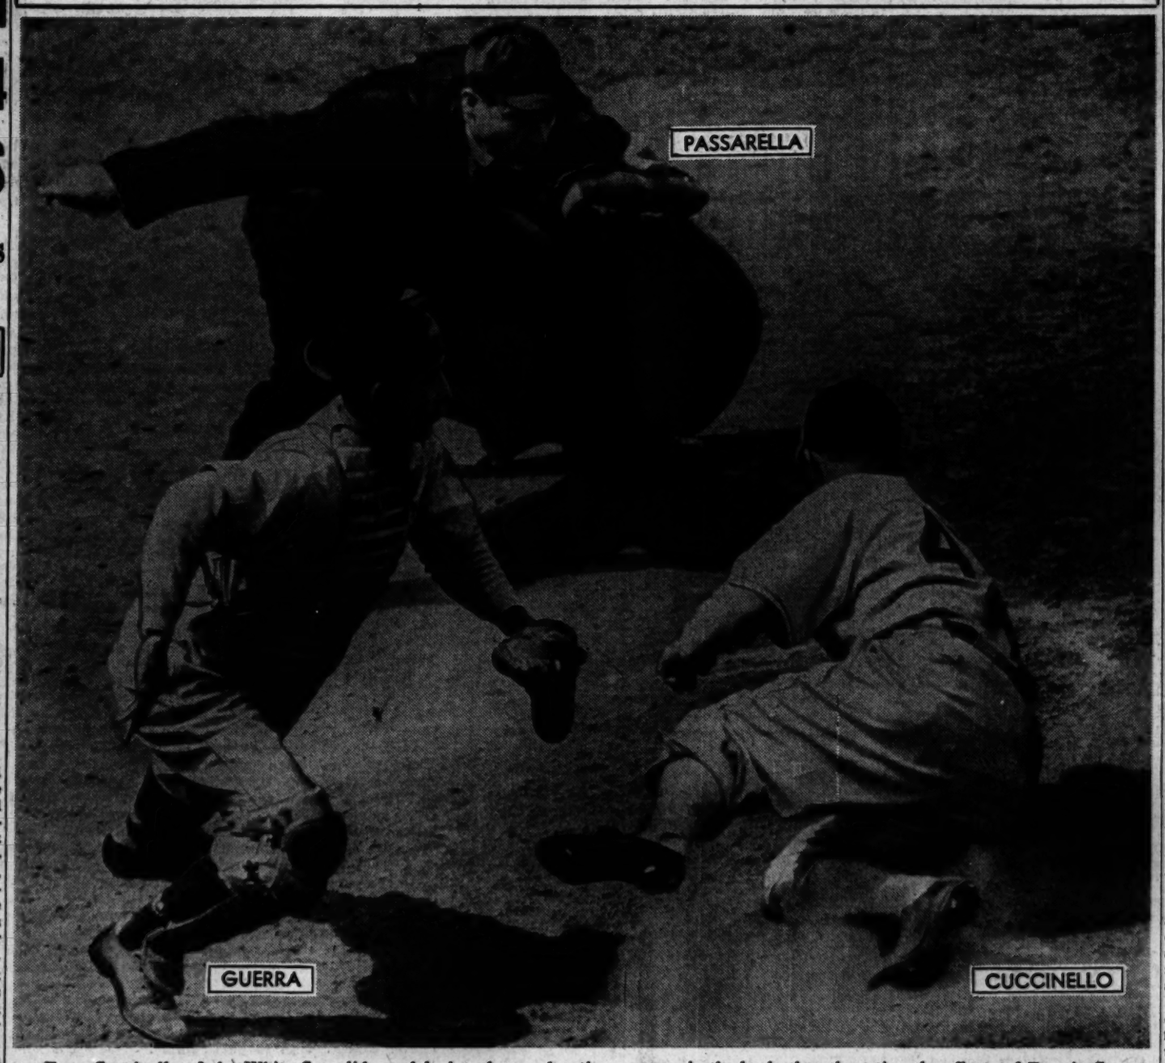
The same teachers will be on hand to conduct the lessons tonight. All of the professionals occupy the same rank in the school, but they have designated four of their fellow members to act as interlocutors. These roles will be taken over again by Elmer Schacht of Ridge at Jackson park, Tom Walsh of West gate Valley at Marquette park, Bill Gordon of Tam o' Shanter at Columbus park, and Jerry Glynn of Knollwood at Diversey in Lincoln. Jimmy Hines, national tournament chairman of the P. G. A., who has just joined the Illinois section, will appear at Diversey tonight.

The four courses, made available to the school thru the coöperation of the commissioners of the Chicago park district, are easily reached by motor coaches, rapid transit, or surface lines. Their locations are: Jackson park, east of 63d st. and Stony Island av.; Columbus park, west of Jackson blvd. and Central av.; Diversey, in Lincoln park at Lake Michigan and the foot of Diversey blvd., and Marquette park, Kedzie av. and Marquette rd.

N.U. Seeks Revenge Today Over Great Lakes Nine

Northwestern's baseball team will play Great Lakes on Dyche field, Evanston, this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Hal Schulz, Wildcat freshman star who prepped at Evanston High school, will be on the mound for the Big Nine school. Bob Feller is expected to pitch for the navy nine. In their first meeting two weeks ago, Great Lakes blanked Northwestern, 12 to 0.

THIS TRIP WASN'T NECESSARY, BUT IT'S A SOX RUN



Tony Cuccinello of the White Sox slides safely into home plate in seventh inning of first game with Washington Senators in Comiskey park yesterday. Cuccinello added the run on Cass Michaels' single, but would probably have been out had not Gilberto Torres' throw hit the base runner in the back, thus thwarting the efforts of Fermin Guerra, Senators' catcher. Umpire Art Passarella calls the play. The White Sox won both games, 5 to 1, and 4 to 2, thus regaining first place in the American league standings. [TRIBUNE Photo]

IT'S RACE THAT COUNTS; DROP AT GATE IS NO BLOW

BY MAURICE E. SHEVLIN

Chicago racing goes into its first full week of the 1945 season today with much less momentum than in the spring of 1944 when all attendance and pari-mutuel wagering records at Sportsman's Park went by the board. Strangely enough, officials of the Cicero half miler, particularly President John L. Keeshin, showed no disappointment when the opening day's attendance proved to be some 9,000 less than the corresponding day last year and the betting fell approximately $140,000 below the 1944 figures. In fact they evidenced gratification.

Spotlight on Betting

"Now," said Keeshin, "perhaps the public will think of racing as a sport, not as a collection of figures. It's true that the more money wagered the more every one gets, the track, the state, welfare organizations, and participants but the general public, for some reason or another, believes that the bulk of the money bet goes into the track's coffers, and that's not the case."

For the last two seasons racing in the United States has been more or less a matter of figures. The betting thruout the country has been tremendous. Every track was lowering records as the seasons progressed until it reached the point where only the major races, the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, the Belmont Futurity, the Stars and Stripes, the Arlington Classic, the American Derby, and such historic events were big enough to make the wagering factor secondary.

Long Shots Missing

Sportsman's opening Saturday drew 13,673 patrons who bet $684,384, a goodly sum, but the 1944 opener attracted 22,463 spectators who wagered $824,054. An eight race program Saturday was featured by the $2,500 Inaugural Handicap which was split into two divisions, the first of which went to Mrs. Fred Nugent's Espino Gold, and the second to A. S. Higgins' Quizzle.

Both races were closely waged,

Crosby and Hope to Clash at Tam o' Shanter; Vets Benefit

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Bing Crosby and Chick Evans vs. Bob Hope and Jimmy Hines.

That would be a fair country golf match to watch on any course at any time, but yesterday definite announcement was made that it will be played on May 26 at Chicago's Tam o' Shanter Country club. Its purpose, like all other tournaments and exhibition matches in the future, will be to swell the rehabilitation fund of the Professional Golfers' Association of America for hospitalized service men. This latter project is the most ambitious ever undertaken by the National P. G. A. and its 29 member sections thruout the country.

Final details for the big foursome battle were completed at noon yesterday between M. G. [Scotty] Fessenden of Oak Park, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee, and George S. May, the maestro of Tam o' Shanter, where he will hold forth with another set of All-American tournaments from July 26 thru 29. The 18 hole duel sending Crosby, the Groaner, and Evans, Chicago's No. 1 amateur, against the irrepressible Hope and Hines, national P. G. A. tournament chairman, will begin at 2 o'clock the afternoon of the 26th. All tickets will cost $1.20. Tam o' Shanter is located at Caldwell rd. and Howard av.

Bing, Hope, Charity

Bob Hope (left) and Bing Crosby, who return to Chicago for a battle of words and fairway shots in a match at Tam o' Shanter, May 26.

Name Sponsor Groups

The match will be conducted under the auspices of Chicago District Golf Charities, Inc., with the following sponsors: the Professional Golfers' Association of America, the Illinois section of the P. G. A., the Chicago District Golf association, the Western Golf association, the Chicago Women's District Golf association, the Women's Western Golf association, the Illinois Women's State Golf association, and the Midwest Greenkeepers' association.

All of the above will have active representation on what will be known as the Illinois golfers' rehabilitation committee for hospitalized service men. Fessenden is chairman of the group, which will include Alex Cunningham and Harry Adams, Illinois P. G. A.; L. D. Ruthferford, C. D. G. A.; T. C. Butz, W. G. A.; Mrs. Charles Dennehy, W. W. G. A.; Mrs. Albert Pike, Illinois State W. G. A., and Ray Didier, Midwest Greenkeepers' association.

Snead to Meet Nelson

The Tam o' Shanter match a week from Saturday will mark the first dual appearance of Crosby and Hope on a Chicago course since May 6, 1942, when they played a nine hole exhibition with Evans and Tommy Armour at Edgewater. That abbreviated argument, set on 24 hours' notice, produced more than $1,500 for the Fort Sheridan athletic fund and brought out one of the most enthusiastic galleries of any local season.

The Crosby-Hope-Evans-Hines quartet will be a major feature in the P. G. A. campaign which will open nationally on the same date. On the 26th, Byron Nelson and Sam Snead will open a 72 hole two man argument for the rehabilitation fund, going 36 holes of medal play at Fresh Meadow, N. Y., and 36 at match play on the 27th at Essex county, N. J. The other 27 sections of the P. G. A. will pitch in with special events of their own on the same week-end.

BRAVES AND RAIN FASHION DEFEAT FOR CUBS, 3 TO 2

BY EDWARD BURNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Boston, Mass., May 13—Rain kept the Cubs from a full program of baseball endeavor this afternoon, but unfortunately there was a sufficient pause between showers to enable the Boston Braves to achieve a 3 to 2 victory in the seven inning first game of what had been charted as a double header.

Thus the Cubs have been forced to accept a split of a two game series, the same as they effected in Philadelphia, whereas they confidently had expected to win five games in their visits to the two second division cities.

The Chicagoans, who haven't lost a Saturday game this year, tho they won one Sunday double header then dropped the next two, must continue to look upon the Sabbath as a bad day for their week-ending.

Each Has Big Inning

Today the Braves' fourth inning and the Cubs' fifth told the entire scoring story. Claude Passeau, making his second start of the season ran into trouble in the fourth when two walks and three singles gave the Braves their three runs. Then, after the first two Cubs had been retired in the fifth, four successive singles off Nate Andrews by Stan Hack, Roy Hughes, Bill Nicholson and Phil Cavarretta scored two runs and had the tying run on second. Andrews threw three wild ones to Frank Secory then two strikes after which Frank flied out.

In the sixth Peanuts Lowrey led off with a double but couldn't advance and in the seventh Hack, first up, walked and got to third but he was still there when the game was suspended, then called after a wait of more than an hour and a half.

Each Wastes Four Hits

Tho scoring didn't start until the home fourth, each team previously had socked four sound hits. Production got under way when Passeau

VICTORIES MOVE SOUTH SIDERS INTO 1ST PLACE

Hidden Ball Trick Traps Clift

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The White Sox, after 24 hours among the common folks of the American league, burst right back into first place luxury yesterday. They pried their way into the choice spot with a double triumph over Washington's so-called Senators and in the meantime a little help was received from Cleveland where the Yankees encountered an even break for the day. The Comiskey park scores were 5 to 1 and 4 to 2, thanks to various things such as timely hitting, faulty enemy fielding, and even the hidden ball trick.

The Senators were considerate enough to toss all their extra bad fielding into the first game where it was most helpful to Thornton Lee who was none too brilliant even tho he went the route for his season's fourth success. The big southpaw had only two good innings out of the nine but wasn't disturbed by errors. This was quite different from the four blunders with which Mickey Haefner and Marino Pieretti, the Washington pitchers, had to contend.

Johnson Rescues Grove

The second game was a mere romp for quite a stretch but finally got to the point where it was necessary to remove Orval Grove from circulation. With the assistance of a homer by Guy Curtright and a subsequent three run assault on Alex Carrasquel's pitching, Grove apparently was headed for the easiest sort of a success but after doing a five hit act for seven innings he suddenly lost his cunning. A pass and three hits put the Senators in position to tie the score in the eighth, but John Johnson, the former Yankee southpaw, arrived in time to quell the threat.

The lone run off Lee in the first game was a homer by Harlond Clift and it also was Clift who featured in the Sox's second display this season of the hidden ball trick. Gilberto Torres and Clift singled to open the sixth and George Binks sacrificed. Roy Schalk making the putout at first on the play. Schalk, instead of tossing the ball back to Lee, sauntered toward his position and Lee began to act as if he intended to resume pitching. About that time the unsuspecting Clift stepped off second. Schalk jabbed him and that was that.

Sox Take Two Run Lead

Three hits served to send the Sox into a two run lead at the outset of the first game. Curtright, subbing for the ailing Wally Moses, led off with a single and was forced by Hockett who promptly stole second. A double by Dickshot and single by Nagel did the rest. The edge went to 3 to 0 in the next inning thru the quaint process of three successive Washington errors and one hit. This happened just after Clift had pumped the ball into the left field seats for what proved the Senators' only run.

Altho hits continued to be plentiful both for the Sox and Senators there wasn't anymore action in the run column until the visitors introduced Pieretti on the mound in the seventh. As one Italian to another, Cuccinello singled and with two out Michaels singled. Ventura let this drive roll to the fence, Cuccinello scoring and Michaels getting to third. He scored from there on Tresh's single which caromed off the shin of Clift.

2 Score on Nagel Double

Except for the Curtright homer to left in the third inning there wasn't much to slow down the second game until the Sox cut loose with their decisive blast against Carrasquel in the sixth. Curtright and Hockett started this with singles, Dickshot bunted but Kuhel, after a one handed pickup, whipped a throw to third and nailed Curtright who was trying to scramble back to the bag. Nagel made up for this by doubling Hockett and Dickshot home. Nagel scored the third run of the inning when Schalk singled.

The elimination of Grove as a candidate for a shutout started with a pass to Ferrell with one out in the eighth. Mike Guerra batted for Carrasquel and scratched a hit to Cuccinello. Case let go with a real single to left and Ferrell scored. Vaughn also singled and Guerra counted. This was where Johnson came to the rescue.

PHILS BREAK UP INFIELD DUO OF BROTHERS

Philadelphia, Pa., May 13 (AP)—The first major league brother keystone combination in history was broken up today as Granville Hamner, youthful shortstop from Richmond, Va., was optioned to Utica, N. Y., in the Eastern league by the Philadelphia Phillies.

Hamner and Charley Ripple, promising pitcher, were sent to the Eastern league team today, General Manager Herb Pennock said.

"Both boys are glad to be playing with Utica. They've both got a lot of promise, but they need seasoning—and they know it," Pennock said.

Granville, teamed with his older brother, Wesley Garvin, in the Phillies' infield during the early days of the season.

PHILLIES BEAT PIRATES, 6 TO 5, AFTER 9-6 LOSS

DiMaggio, Dinges Lead Phils to Victory

Philadelphia, Pa., May 13 (AP)—Vince Di Maggio and Rookie Vance Dinges pooled their batting prowess to help the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6 to 5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the second half of a double header today after the Pirates had thumped the Phils, 9 to 6, in the opener.

DiMaggio made a single in two trips to the plate in the first game and a triple and a pair of singles in four times up in the second contest, knocking in three runs. Dinges furnished a double to the Philly cause in each game. Coaker Triplett pounded his second home run of the year in the first game.

Giants Take 8 in Row, Then Lose to Cards

New York, May 13 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals ended the New York Giants' winning streak today by capturing the second game of a double header, 6 to 5, after the Giants had stretched their streak to eight games by taking the opener 4 to 3. The biggest crowd of the National league season, 38,056, saw the Cards break a 5 to 5 tie in the ninth to win the second game.

Mel Ott hit the 495th homer of his career to pass Lou Gehrig's total and take third place for all-time home run honors. The hit came in the first inning of the second game with one on, off Mort Cooper.

Tigers Blank Red Sox, 2 to 0, After 8-2 Loss

Detroit, Mich., May 13 (AP)—Al Benton pitched his fifth straight victory and his third shutout today as the Detroit Tigers blanked Boston, 2 to 0, to gain an even break in a double header. The Red Sox hammered out 14 hits, knocking out Paul [Dizzy] Trout to take the first game, 8 to 2.

Benton, who now has given only 22 hits and one earned run in 45 innings, yielded just three hits, all singles, in beating Boston's Jim Wilson.

The Tigers went scoreless the first four innings of the opener, giving Ferris the distinction of establishing a new rookie pitching record by starting his American league career with 22 successive shutout innings. He previously had blanked Philadelphia and New York. The old record of 19⅔ innings was set by Thomas J. [Buck] O'Brien of the Red Sox in 1911.

VILAS COUPLE WINS 3 OF 7 IN DINGHY SERIES

Jack Vilas Jr., with his wife Gloria as crew, won the Chicago Yacht club's fourth spring dinghy series of races in Belmont harbor yesterday, taking three of the seven races. The Vilas's scored a total of 57 points with their D class Frostbite dinghy, Gemini. Lt. Roger Brett, U. S. N. R., was runner-up with 48 points. Paul Cook placed third with 45 points. Six other craft competed. Both triangular and windward-leeward courses were sailed in the light southwest breeze.

YANKS DROP TO 2D PLACE; SPLIT WITH INDIANS

Cleveland, O., May 13 (AP)—New York's possession of the American league lead lasted only a day as Cleveland's last place Indians gained an even split with the Yankees today before 7,126 fans.

The Yanks needed 10 innings to take the first game, 1 to 0, but the Indians staged a four run uprising with one out in the third to take the second contest, 4 to 2, pushing the New Yorkers into second place behind Chicago.

Charley Embree was the victim in the first game, suffering his third straight setback altho yielding only five singles and striking out six. The winning run in the tenth came with the bases loaded as Russ Derry's long fly sent Hershel Martin home.

TIRE OF FUTURE TO BE RUBBER, SYNTHETIC MIX

War Developments Termed Amazing

BY PHILIP HAMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Akron, O., May 13.—The all synthetic automobile tire developed as a result of the war has established what is regarded as an amazing performance record. However, based on experience to date with materials and manufacturing methods, the "tire of tomorrow" probably will be made of a mixture of synthetic and natural rubbers, leading tire makers said today.

The manufacturers qualified their opinion by cautioning that developments and improvements were taking place so rapidly in the two year old synthetic industry that it was difficult to make a flat prediction. Synthetic rubber eventually may displace natural rubber entirely.

Tests have shown that the all synthetic passenger tire is virtually as good as the average and about 85 per cent as good as first line natural rubber tires made before the war.

"Finest Possible Tire"

For the finest possible tire now they would make the carcass of natural rubber because of its ability to resist the building up of heat among other qualities. The tread would be a mixture with more synthetic than natural rubber used.

Tubes, however, would be made of the butyl type synthetic rubber because it retains air better than natural rubber.

Spokesman for the B. F. Goodrich company said the tire industry probably was the nation's only major industry in which a major revolution had taken place. Altho its end products have remained the same, it has had to use entirely new materials for their manufacture. The process of learning is faster in such a case than when familiar materials are used.

The industry also is developing better ways to use cotton and rayon in tire construction, a factor which may have an important effect on the tires of the future.

Supply Prospect Outlined

A substantially larger number of tires for passenger cars and smaller truck is expected this year, and the industry was said to have a fair chance to reach its objective of building passenger tires at the rate of two million a month by late June.

No tubes made of butyl rubber will be available for A gasoline card holders this year, it was said, and little hope was expressed for large truck tires because of the amount of natural rubber they require.

Goodrich reported that customers using synthetic and rubber tires it brought out in June, 1940, have had excellent results. These tires contain a substantial amount of natural rubber. One Pennsylvania user reported driving 23,500 miles before recapping. A Chicagoan who put synthetic tires on his car in January, 1941, said he had 34,500 miles on the original tread and it appeared good for 30,000 miles more.

Increased Use of 16 mm. Film Is Predicted

West coast moving picture studios are using 16 mm. cameras to some extent and several productions have been made on this size film, but no concerted trend from the standard 35 mm. camera is apparent, said J. H. McNabb, president of Bell & Howell company, large producer of motion picture cameras and equipment, yesterday.

He explained that a major barrier to a change was the large investment of the theater industry in the more expensive 35 mm. projector.

Increased Use Predicted

He predicted increased use of 16 mm. film for industrial movies and a possibly larger market for the smaller size equipment if the number of smaller theaters, to which the 16 mm. film is easily adapted, increases.

Theaters can not be expected to discard expensive 35 mm. equipment, McNabb said, and mechanical difficulties to be overcome also preclude any trend by larger theaters to 16 mm. film.

He explained that the larger the theater, the larger the screen on which the film is projected and the larger the area which must be covered with light. It would be difficult to "pump thru" the comparatively small aperture of the 16 mm. projector the large quantity of light needed, he said.

"Blowing Up" Unsatisfactory

Sixteen millimeter film in many cases is "blown up" to 35 mm., but the process is expensive and results have been not always satisfactory because of the larger grain which results. However, this problem is being overcome, he said.

Because the 16 mm. projector is easily adapted to the use of schools, clubs, and similar organizations and costs less, it is used extensively by them, McNabb said.

Many schools use 16 mm. film that has been reduced from 35 mm.

STEEL MAKERS EXPECT LITTLE DROP IN OUTPUT

Cleveland, O., May 13 (AP)—Steel producers do not expect a large drop in output during the next few weeks despite mounting cancellations following V-E day, the magazine Steel said today.

The publication reported two reasons for the optimism: The oversold position of mills and the many essential and pressing civilian needs.

"It is believed that such decline as may develop over the remainder of this quarter will be caused principally by changes in specifications," Steel said.

Steel cancellations are having little effect on nearby deliveries, said the magazine, because they are "mainly confined to material scheduled for remote delivery."

GIBSON REFRIGERATOR

Will you please summarize information regarding Gibson Refrigerator company common stock?—E. E.

In normal times, the company manufactured household electric refrigerators and electric ranges. On resumption of civilian production it plans to make these products and also electric home freezers. In the last two years the output has consisted principally of troop carrying gliders and other war products.

Gibson began making electric refrigerators in 1930. A large part of its products was marketed under the private brands of department stores, chain stores, and other merchandisers. The plants are in Greenville and Belding, Mich.

Of the outstanding 600,000 shares, $1 par, 247,147 shares, previously owned by three stockholders, were publicly offered by an underwriting syndicate a week ago at $11.75 a share.

The price is high in relation to earnings for the three years prior to 1940. Altho $11.75 is in reasonable relationship to the subsequent average profit, the results of these war time years cannot be taken as a reliable index of normal earning power in a competitive industry. Accumulated demand appears to assure refrigerator and range makers of good business after production is resumed, but this is a comparatively short term factor.

On the present capitalization Gibson's share earnings, as adjusted for proposed amendment of tax returns, for fiscal years ended July 31 were: 1937, 13 cents; 1938, net loss; 1939, 51 cents; 1940, $1.16; 1941, 98 cents; 1942, 35 cents; 1943, $1.20; 1944, $1.26. It is the directors' intention to pay dividends of 60 cents a share a year.

Tangible book value of the stock as of Feb. 28, 1945, was $5.40 a share.

U.S. FUMBLING HELD CAUSE OF LACK OF SUGAR

Even Cuba Rations Domestic Use

BY GUSTAVO RENO
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HAVANA, Cuba, May 13—Cuba—the world's sugar bowl—is experiencing a drastic freezing and rationing of its own main product caused by an alarming lack of sugar both for local consumption and export.

A series of abnormal circumstances, some of which could have been foreseen, is the cause for the shortage in the world's greatest sugar manufacturing center.

1. A tragic miscalculation of American sugar experts and government advisers as to world sugar needs for 1945.

Miscalculated 1945 Output

2. A miscalculation of Cuba's 1945 output which experts placed at as much as or more than the 5,650,000 tons produced in 1944. Actually the 1945 production will not exceed 4 million short tons.

3. The failure to pay Cuba a price to compensate for the high cost of living which would have induced the nation to produce during the last three years an emergency surplus capable of meeting any unforeseen shortage in production or increased world demand.

This is what the American experts figured:

1. That Cuba's production and an estimated increase of 200,000 tons of beet sugar in continental United States plus a 100,000 ton increase in Puerto Rico this year would be enough to satisfy world needs.

Guessed Wrong on Needs

2. That Cuba's local needs this year would be the same as 1944—150,000 tons.

3. That Cuba would be glad to sell all her production to the United States at 3.10 cents a pound, and would not set aside any for direct sales to other countries.

4. That with an increase of 0.44 cent a pound over last year, the profits of Cuban mill owners, cane planters, and field workers would be so large they would greatly expand sugar production for 1945 and 1946.

The American experts failed to realize, however, that the 1944 profit was absorbed by increasing living costs. Since 1939 the United States has been able to supply all Cuba's imports, and these products today are selling 300 per cent higher than in 1941.

Washington has turned down time and again Cuba's demands for an adequate sugar price. Cuba's minimum sugar price was 3.45 cents while the United States insisted that 2.64 cents was enough. Finally a maximum price of 3.10 cents was set for 1945 with a "take it or leave it" alternative.

Caused by Storm, Drouth

Cuba's 1945 sugar deficit of 1,650,000 tons was caused by destruction of cane fields by the October tornado followed by the longest drouth in the history of the nation.

The lack of cane forced all mills to close down 90 days after grinding started when normally they grind for at least 180 days.

The Cuban government has set aside 250,000 tons for local consumption and industrial requirements in 1945—100,000 more than estimated by the American experts.

BIG UTILITY CUTS DEBT AND SENIOR STOCK DURING '44

The annual report of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation for 1944, issued yesterday by Justin R. Whiting, president, disclosed that the corporation's subsidiaries effected a net reduction of $29,437,100 in publicly held bonds, notes, and preferred stock during the year, making an overall reduction of $58,717,750 in two years.

In a letter to stockholders Whiting referred to the "inequality of taxation between investor owned and government owned power companies."

"Today 19 per cent of the electric industry's output comes from public utilities owned or operated by public agencies or tax free coöperatives which escape federal taxes," Whiting said. "This unfair distribution of the tax burden must sooner or later be dealt with by congress if our American system of property is to continue. All agencies and companies engaged in the public utility business should be taxed on a comparable basis."

FRENCH, BRITISH INDUSTRY ASKS RELAXED CURBS

Trade Union Group Opposes Stand

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 13—On the heels of the European "Cease Fire" order, leading industrialists of Britain and France this week planned a campaign against nationalization and a return to pre-war freedom of operation and the British Trade Union congress, representing more than 6½ million workers, demanded retention of government controls on investment and finance and the location of industry until Japan finally is defeated. At the same time the TUC asked that controls over labor, with penalties of fine or imprisonment for violations, be revoked.

Penalties Termed One-Sided

It asserted the labor controls were one-sided and the penalties appeared to apply only to the workers while employers escaped in most cases. The TUC later disclosed its labor control demands had been rejected by the cabinet on the ground they were essential to prevent a lag in war production before Japan is defeated.

Meanwhile, trades union leaders who have advised the government on labor problems the last five years are seeking to be as closely consulted in the transition period and later.

Urge Government Operation

They also have urged that war factories built with public money be retained by the state to manufacture goods for the domestic market and not leased to private firms.

With the approval of their governments industrialists of both Britain and France met in London to discuss mutual trade and economic problems. They agreed that altho some controls may be necessary "the utmost vigilance should be exercised to insure that their scope be reduced as much and as rapidly as possible."

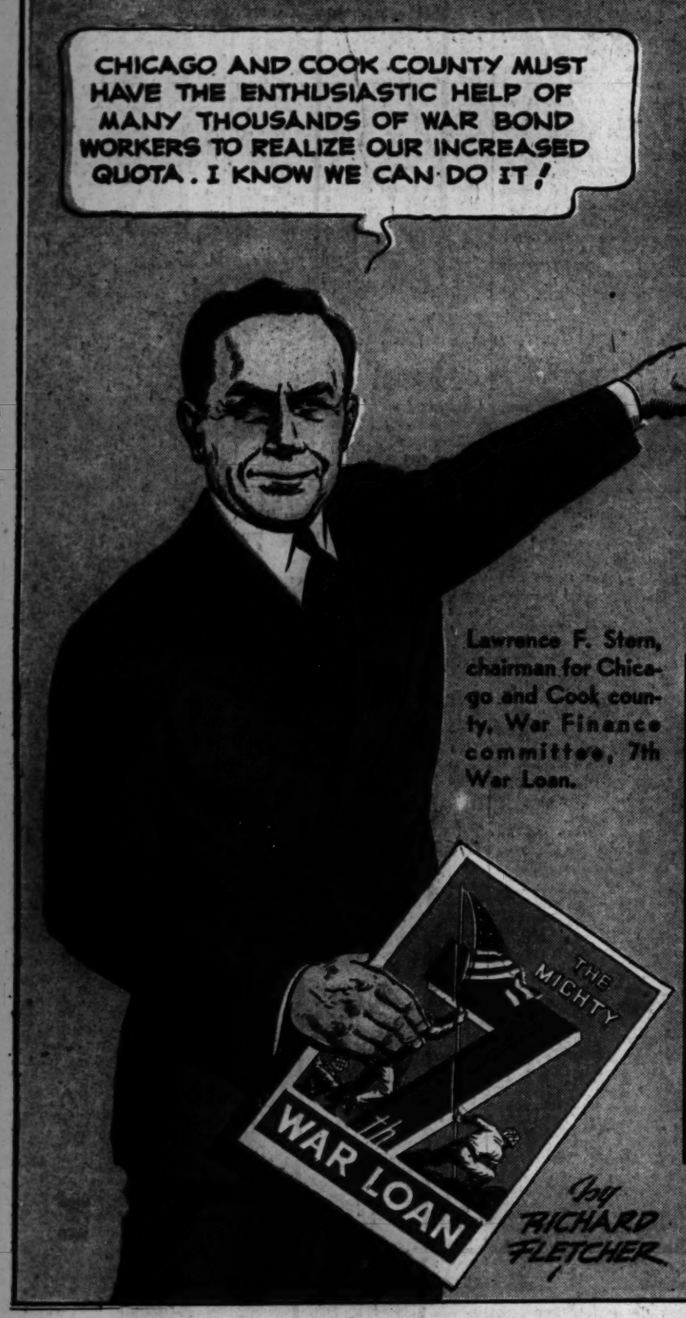
SEVENTH WAR LOAN DRIVE OPENS TODAY



CHICAGO AND COOK COUNTY MUST HAVE THE ENTHUSIASTIC HELP OF MANY THOUSANDS OF WAR BOND WORKERS TO REALIZE OUR INCREASED QUOTA. I KNOW WE CAN DO IT!
THE MIGHTY
WAR LOAN
Joy RICHARD FLETCHER

Lawrence F. Stern, chairman for Chicago and Cook county, War Finance committee, 7th War Loan.

The individual quota for Chicago and Cook county in the 7th War Bond drive, which opens today, is $327,474,000. This is 60 per cent greater than that of the 6th War Loan. Every resident of the city and county will be urged to buy one or more bonds.

Bonds in theaters, hotels, banks, stores, and other public places will sell many bonds but the 7th War Loan will require personal solicitation in a greater degree than ever before. Bond salesmen start on a 100 per cent canvass of city and county today.

Bond salesmen will carry the story of the 7th War Bond drive to every worker. All will be requested to help to their limit of ability and resources in meeting this important obligation upon which final victory in the war depends to a large degree.

The Tribune's "From Dad to GI Joe" bond purchase campaign is enlisting fathers everywhere to buy 7th War Loan bonds for their sons who are fighting. Bond quotas are higher because the cost of caring for wounded veterans and general rehabilitation has increased.

Parents are urged to buy bonds for every member of the family as well as for those who are in the service. War bonds represent post-war security for children. They are a means of providing for future education, illness, or other contingency.

"Seventh War Bond workers," says Mr. Stern, "should urge every one to buy bonds for the future—for a new home, for a new automobile, a new business, or other post-war purposes. And, above all, to buy bonds as a patriotic service to our country."

Air View of Berlin's Wrecked Buildings—Young Nazi Prisoners in U. S.—Trumans Observe Day of Prayer

Not an undamaged building appears in this photo of Berlin which was taken from a low-flying Mosquito bomber of the British royal air force shortly after the German capital was surrendered to the Russian army.

American soldiers inspect German prisoners, 16 and 17 years old, who arrived yesterday at a Hudson river pier in New York. Germans said they had been in war service only a few weeks before they were captured.
